Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—Invasion of the United States would require the largest and most intensely organized military and naval effort the world has ever seen. And the chances of success of such an invasion are extremely remote.

This was the verdict of responsible army and navy officers and defense experts to whom THE TRIBUNE put the question: "Just what would it take to invade America with 500,000 or 1,000,000 men, and what chance would the invading force have?"

The experts agreed that America faces no serious threat to immediate invasion, because it would take upwards of two years to prepare a force for invasion, and within that time the United States could make herself impregnable against any invader.

An Example: Germany.

Germany spent five years preparing for her invasion of Britain by way of France and the Low Countries. Even at her present state of preparation for war—assuming she defeats Britain and wants to invade the United States—it would take at least from two to three years to get an invading armada organized for the thrust.

Experts fixed the need of a twentieth century armada for a force of 1,000,000 men with ample weapons, ammunition, and merchant vessels. Any attempt at invasion with a smaller force would be absolute suicide, they feel.

Vast Armament Necessary.

The experts said a force of 1,000,000 men would need 300,000 rifles, 100,000 pistols, 15,000 machine guns, and 19,500 cannon of various types.

They estimated that 445,000,000 rounds of rifle ammunition, 50,000,000 rounds of pistol ammunition, and 200,000,000 rounds of machine gun ammunition would be necessary, while for the various types of cannon a total of 43,000,000 rounds would be needed. In addition, more than 100,000 tons of bombs would be necessary.

The invading army would need 1,500 tanks, 1,800 scout cars, 200,000 other types of motor vehicles, and 7,500 airplanes.

At sea the army would need 1,000 transports of an average of 10,000 tons; 2,000 freighters of an average of 5,000 tons; 500 supply ships of an average of 7,500 tons, and 250 oil tankers of an average of 8,000 tons.

Need Powerful Fleet.

In naval craft the invading fleet must have a force equal to if not superior to the 400 ships in the American navy.

Granted a foreign invader had driven the American navy from the seas—and our navy is acknowledged to be the best trained and best equipped navy in the world—experts say the invader would still face a mass of difficulty.

The first thing an invader needs would have to be points of attack. In taking these into consideration he must find harbors large enough for his fleet and with sufficient facilities to unload not only his men but also his heavy machines. Behind the harbors must be railroads and highways to take the invaders into the interior.

To capture the United States from the northeast the invader would have to take Halifax, Nova Scotia, as well as lesser harbors in Newfoundland and on Cape Breton Island. There are inlets in the area which would take the entire United States fleet, but they have no facilities and are not improved.

United States Harbors.

Northeastern United States offers three principal harbors—Portland, Me., Portsmouth, N. H., and Boston, Mass. The middle Atlantic states have five great inlets—Narragansett bay, Long Island sound, New York harbor, Chesapeake bay, and Delaware bay. The southern Atlantic states have only two important harbors, both with naval facilities — Charleston, S. C., and Pensacola, Fla.

American coastal defenses admittedly are in a state of neglect. What forts there are have been neglected.

Army experts say coastal defense defects can be corrected at most in two years—sooner than an enemy could prepare the gigantic force for invasion—and the American coast put in such shape that no enemy would dare to make a thrust.

SENATOR WARNS WARSHIP DEAL PUTS U. S. IN WAR

Violates Treaties, Says Danaher.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—Senator John A. Danaher [R., Conn.] declared in a radio debate tonight that if 50 or more United States destroyers are turned over to Great Britain, as contemplated by the Roosevelt administration, "the United States will be in the war."

Senator Danaher.

Senator Danaher and Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] opposed the administration's project to release destroyers to Great Britain in a radio forum broadcast over the Mutual system.

Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], the senate's foremost advocate of American intervention in the European war, and Col. Henry Breckenridge, representing William Allen White's so-called Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, argued that American assistance is imperative to save the British fleet and thus keep Nazi Germany from invading the United States. Pepper referred to the Germans as "our enemies."

Forbidden by Treaties.

Senator Danaher observed that the Roosevelt administration repeatedly denounces other governments for violating treaties. The destroyer deal, he argued, would violate not only The Hague convention of 1906, to which both the United States and Germany are signatory, but the declaration adopted by the Pan American convention of Panama, called by the Roosevelt administration in October, 1939. In that the 21 American states solemnly pledged their word against "the fitting out, arming, or augmenting of the forces or armament of any ship or vessel to be employed in the service of one of the belligerents to cruise or commit hostilities against another belligerent or its nationals or property."

The destroyer deal also would violate a 1917 statute, recently reaffirmed by congress, which makes it unlawful to take out of the jurisdiction of the United States any vessel of war for the use of any nation engaged in war, Donaher added.

Recalls Raider "Alabama."

"Every one will remember that during our Civil war, Great Britain fitted out war vessels for use against the North, and the famous ship Alabama worked great destruction," said Senator Danaher. "After the war our claims against Great Britain led to a treaty concluded here in Washington on May 8, 1871, by which the United States and Great Britain agreed to arbitration.

"By one of the clauses of that treaty, to which the United States and Great Britain solemnly bound themselves, the two nations agreed that: 'A neutral government is bound to use due diligence. . . . To prevent the departure from its jurisdiction of any vessel intended to cruise or carry on war . . . and the high contracting parties agree to observe these rules as between themselves in future.'

"The arbitrators awarded damages to the United States of America against Great Britain of 15 million dollars in gold, which Great Britain paid."

Nye Poses Question.

Senator Nye asked why, "if our own security and interest requires the sending of 50 or more of our destroyers to England," it would not be better to send our entire fleet and our men.

"If it were true that we should aid England because she is fighting our war, we would do better to get into it with all we've got, rather than a few destroyers," he said. "We'd be in a sorry state indeed if England not only lost the war but lost the destroyers too."

Senator Pepper and Col. Breckenridge argued it would be a vital contribution in the fight against "Hitlerism" and dangers the United States might eventually face.

"The addition of 50 of our destroyers to the British fleet," Senator Pepper said, "may be the difference be-

Hiker Admits Murder; Police Hunt for Body

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 25 [Special].—A hitch-hiker's confession of murder tonight was believed to have solved the mysterious disappearance of Walter E. Ebeling, New York theater manager, last seen by friends early in the morning of July 10.

South Bend and Michigan state police were searching tonight in the vicinity of Niles, Mich., 12 miles north of here, for the body which Richard Klowetter, 25 years old, of Niles, Mich., confessed he and Mervin Cagle, 21, of Palmyra, Ill., concealed in the hilly, wooded country. Cagle is a parolee from Pontiac, Ill., reformatory.

According to Klowetter's confession, he and Cagle were hitch-hiking between South Bend and Niles when Ebeling picked them up. Klowetter said he shot and killed Ebeling when the theater owner resisted Klowetter's attempt to rob him of $100.

Bullet Torn Car Is Clew.

Klowetter made his confession today in Noblesville, Ind., in the presence of Sheriff Joseph Newby of Hamilton county, Police Capt. Lucius LaFortune of South Bend, and state policemen.

Sheriff Newby arrested Klowetter and Cagle seven miles south of Noblesville yesterday after a motorist reported that two men had abandoned a bullet torn automobile. The car had been stolen recently in Martinsville, Ind.

Klowetter had a revolver in his pocket when arrested. The revolver contained only an empty shell and the pair was taken without resistance.

Ebeling, who managed the Garden theatef, a movie showing German language films, in 86th street, New York, was 31 years old, a native of Sweden and a naturalized American.

Victim on Vacation.

For several days prior to July 10 he had been spending his vacation at Eagle Lake, Mich., with his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Knight, of Little Neck, N. Y. Ebeling came to South Bend July 9 and passed the evening with Dr. and Mrs. Fred McCallum. He left their home shortly after midnight to return to Eagle Lake.

Ebeling's blood-stained coat was found beside a road near Lafayette, Ind., on the afternoon of July 10. A search for him was started by Indiana and Michigan state police. Federal bureau of investigation agents also were called into the case and circulars were sent to police departments, reporting Ebeling missing.

A month later Ebeling's wrecked automobile was identified by Sheriff Ed Powell of Benton, Ill. The car had been abandoned on a road in Franklin county. Sheriff Powell learned that the driver had crawled out a rear window, after the car was wrecked, and fled in a following car.

Both Have Records.

Indiana state police records show Klowetter was arrested in Indianapolis on July 5, 1937, on a burglary charge. Disposition of the case is not shown in the record.

Cagle has a police record from the time he was 12 years old, when he was sentenced to the St. Charles, Ill., school for boys.

In 1935, when he was 16 years old, he was sentenced to the Pontiac reformatory for one year to life on a burglary charge. Cagle was paroled from the Pontiac prison in July, 1939, and was arrested in South Bend last March on a minor charge.

YOUNG LOVE AND ARMY BILL BRING FLAVOR OF MAY TO AUGUST TRADE

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Young love and the conscription bill were described today as a stimulant to retail store business. From various trade authorities came reports that the traditional August sales have taken on a distinct flavor of May, the traditional month when the bride-to-be selects her trousseau and home furnishings.

Women's underwear, home furnishing, and jewelry departments are reporting unseasonally large business. These departments are regarded generally as marriage barometers.

"In the last three weeks," said a high executive of one large department store, "we have noted unusual activity in the home furnishings division. August is always a busy month there, but the business this year actually has been extraordinary.

"The sales personnel reports a large proportion of young customers —kids of 22 and 23."

GUARD MEXICAN COAST CLOSELY; HALT 2D U. S. SHIP

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25 (AP).—The American oil tanker R. J. Hanna, owned by the Standard Oil company, today was halted off Mexico's closely patroled Pacific coast by the Mexican gunboat G29, the second American craft to be stopped within a week. It was permitted to proceed after identification without being searched.

The government has increased its vigilance of both coast lines, it was reported, because of fear that certain political elements might try to land arms for a revolutionary movement.

Seize 8 in Use of Food Stamps to Bet on Races

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 25 [Special].—Federal investigators are making an extensive inquiry into reports that reliefers who buy food stamps here are using the stamps illegally to place bets on the races, and to buy liquor and tobacco. Some even sell the stamps to friends who buy automobiles with them, it was alleged today.

Eight arrests have been made. At least four more cases are to be placed before the federal grand jury after its recess.

One woman, who represented herself as destitute, bought $40 worth of stamps the day after she received her first relief check for $11.04, officials said.

Purchase Exceeds Dole.

Officials also cited the case of a man who received his first relief check of $29, and the following day bought $40 worth of stamps. Other similar cases are said to be under investigation.

Two former relief administrative employés, Boyd Robbins and Charles Thomas, said they believed persons who spent an unusually large proportion of their dole for food stamps were furnished the money by some one else, unless they had sources of income concealed from relief officials.

How Scheme Works.

"A person on relief can get a $15 book of stamps for $10," Robbins said. "The $15 book is accepted by some bookmakers, at face value. This enables a reliefer to place a $15 bet with a $10 outlay.

"While the stamps are supposed to be good only at groceries and for designated foods, some grocers accept them for liquor and tobacco. Even some poolroom operators accept them. All dispose of them by arrangement with some friend in a grocery."

Thomas stated that some used car dealers accept the books at face value, making it "good business" for prospective purchasers to get reliefers to buy $15 books for them at $10 each.

SAVING 'DEADLIEST' PLANE TO SURPRISE NAZIS, BRITISH SAY

LONDON, Aug. 26, Monday (AP).—The RAF's "newest and deadliest aircraft, a dive bomber," and other new types, "will be kept in reserve as a surprise packet for the Nazis," the Daily Mail declared today. The new plane, it said, has been demonstrated for the American observers, Rear Admiral Robert L. Ghormley, Maj. Gen. Delos Emmons and Brig. Gen. George V. Strong, who were "greatly impressed."

THOUSANDS TAKE SHELTER; LONDON ATTACKED AGAIN

Germans Blast at Invaders with Cannon Fire.

BERLIN, Aug. 26, Monday (AP).—Thousands of the 4,000,000 residents of Berlin and its environs huddled in basement shelters for three hours and four minutes early today while anti-aircraft cannon sent up an ear-splitting but blind barrage at British planes circling low in the clouds overhead.

In the very heart of Berlin there were heavy explosions, but authorities emphasized that these were from the large caliber artillery and that no bombs exploded in the city.

A number of incendiary bombs were dropped in the northern Berlin suburb of Rosenthal during the night, but there were no casualties. One bomb fell into a worker's garden and set fire to a hut. Informed German sources said the British bombers came in four waves. Another explosive bomb fell about 20 miles from the heart of Berlin in a village north of Spandau, industrial suburb, but Nazis said there was no damage. They said one British plane was shot down.

Pamphlets were dropped over a considerable area. Spectators gained the impression that the flyers were not sure they were over a city and were groping about for some opening in the thick clouds.

Longest Alarm of War.

So murky was it that German searchlights were scarcely used and the gunners apparently controled their fire entirely by sound detection devices.

The alarm was Berlin's fifth and longest of the war, lasting from 12:19 to 3:23 a. m. The enemy flyers covered an extensive area in Prussia and Saxony and there were alarms in many cities, including Leipzig, crowded with visitors to its famous fair.

In Berlin, antiaircraft shell splinters pattered on downtown roofs like hail.

In their own offensive against Great Britain, the Germans said that in Sunday fighting 51 British planes were shot down and only 12 German planes lost. This brought to 115 the German claim of British losses in two days. The Germans previously acknowledged 20 plane losses Saturday.

Say Rolls-Royce Plant Hit.

The Nazis claimed to have struck a devitalizing blow Saturday against the great Rolls-Royce factory in the British Midlands—the plant that turns out engines for the Spitfire fighter planes which the British count on heavily to check the German raiders.

Dive bombers, according to DNB, damaged the big plant, which is at Derby, 60 miles southeast of Manchester, so effectively that they put the great part of the works "out of commission."

The German high command at the same time announced the sinking of another British destroyer, of the Viscount class, and declared German planes had attacked numerous English towns, coastal and inland.

Attacks on Airdromes.

The attacks, the high command said, were aimed particularly at air fields and seaports. It cited considerable damage to fields at North Weald, Hornchurch, Manston, Canterbury, and Ramsgate, all points south or east of London. Hornchurch, in Essex county, is close to the east London suburbs.

The great naval base of Portsmouth, where Lord Nelson's old ship Victory lies, was one of the targets of the Nazi bombers. Harbor and wharf facilities were set on fire, the communique said.

Great Yarmouth was also effectively bombed, the communique said, and storehouses and sheds were set afire. There were fires, also, and explosions in the Thames region.

Other German claims:

Considerable destruction to Bristol harbor on the west coast.

Damage to airplane factories at Birmingham, Kingston, and Rochester.

The submarine which claimed destruction of the destroyer also reported sinking a 7,000 ton merchant vessel.

Nazis Drop Scream Bombs in Night Assaults.

Rival Air Claims

Rival claims in the British-German air battle which raged both on Saturday and Sunday follow:

	GERMAN claims		BRITISH claims
	British losses.	German losses.	German losses.	British losses.
Saturday	64	20	50	19
Sunday	51	12	54	13
Totals	115	32	104	32

LONDON, Aug. 26 Monday (AP).—Scream bombs were dropped in the London area early today as the fifth air raid warning within three days roused Londoners from their beds. The fourth alarm had been sounded shortly before midnight last night.

Flares dropped in one district by a German bomber lit up a wide area of the blacked out city early today. A raider in another district dropped parachute flares and then unloaded a number of bombs.

The German raiders departed quickly under heavy antiaircraft fire.

One plane which dropped three scream bombs was reported shot down. A high explosive bomb tore a great crater in a road and blew out the front of a tobacco shop and shattered windows in a wide radius.

Other Areas Attacked.

Thru the dark hours, other German raiders kept up attacks on widespread parts of England. The important northeast area was struck intensively by waves of bombers, three or four in each flight. Violent explosions were heard and there was heavy gunfire from the ground.

In a Midland town planes were heard overhead as well as the thud of bombs dropping some miles away.

The German airmen returned to the attack despite the loss, as claimed by the British, of 104 Nazi planes over the week-end—54 on Sunday and 50 Saturday—in raids on this country. During the past eight days, the British claim, more than 300 German planes have been shot down over and around the British isles.

Say 1,190 Raiders Downed.

The week-end successes boosted to 1,190 the number of German planes which the British declare have been brought down by royal air force and ground defenses fighting against air raids on this country since the start of the war. This total includes 1,101 aircraft which the British say have been lost by the Germans since they started regular air raids on Britain June 18. More than 800 German planes have been reported destroyed since mass raids began Aug. 8.

Thirteen British planes were admittedly shot down yesterday, increasing acknowledged losses for the week-end to 32.

Of the 54 Germans reported downed, 24 of them were sent hurtling earthward in a battle over the Dorset coast.

German Radio Silent.

Even as searchlights swept the skies over the British capital and the deadly hum of airplanes could be heard from the outskirts, the sudden silencing of German radio stations at Bremen, Munich, Leipzig and Berlin indicated that British bombers were repaying the German visits.

The Nazis combined their new air attacks with a resumption of heavy gun bombardment of the Dover area from their artillery emplacements on the French coast. Three shells struck north of Dover late last night. At the same time, British bombers continued heavy attacks on the Nazi gun positions. From the Dover cliffs, flares were visible on the French coast, and the rumble of bombs was heard.

Wave of 50 Planes.

Yesterday's German air attack was intensified after nightfall, with a first wave of 50 German planes reported over the southeast coast. These Nazi bombers started several fires but damage was said to have been slight.

Antiaircraft batteries went into action along with royal air force planes.

Another battle was reported over the southeast coast and two Nazi Messerschmitts were said to have been shot down.

The new Nazi air assaults came as London extinguished the embers and cleared the débris from Saturday's first widespread night air raid on the metropolitan area.

Altho one blaze in the heart of London shot flames 150 feet into the air,

Italy Puts Pair of British War Prisoners on Radio

ROME, Aug. 25 (AP).—Italy took a tip from German propaganda tonight and permitted two British war prisoners to talk over the radio so that their families and friends in England could hear. The men said they were from the submarine Odin, the loss of which was announced by the British Aug. 10. Both men, interviewed before the microphone, said they got plenty of exercise.

silhouetting the great dome of St. Paul's cathedral and illuminating a large area of the city, the damage was assessed officially as "very slight."

British bombers, meanwhile, carried out extensive night bombing assignments Saturday against Germany and Italy, again rousing Swiss ire for crossing over Switzerland to and from their Italian objectives.

Many Airdromes Attacked.

Frankfurt, Ludwigshaven, and Stuttgart, as well as "many airdromes in France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany" were mentioned in an air ministry communique as targets of the British night raiders.

At Ludwigshaven, it said, the British bombers scored "several hits" on a nitrogen plant and observed heavy explosions. Several small fires broke out also after an attack on a synthetic oil plant at Frankfurt, it reported, and another fire started after bombs were dropped on an electric power station near Cologne.

Besides 20 Nazi occupied airdromes in Holland, Belgium, and France, it said, British flyers also raided an airdrome under construction in the Dutch city of Haarlem.

Attack Factory for Hour.

In the attacks on Germany, it said, the Daimler-Benz plant at Stuttgart, "one of the most important armament and armored car factories in western Germany," was "methodically" bombed for more than an hour.

Italian military targets that were attacked included objectives at Milan and Sesto Caende, the communique said.

[The Italians acknowledged there had been raids in Lombardy and Piedmont, northern regions, but said the British planes were driven off without scoring any military blow.]

A home security ministry spokesman, elaborating on the Saturday attack on London, said two large fires were started—one in the "City"—London's closely built Wall street section in the center of the downtown business district. The other was in a warehouse district.

Casualties were few and the fires quickly brought under control, however, the spokesman declared, altho he acknowledged that several hundred bombs had fallen on the vast, sprawling city.

Outside Balloon Barrage.

A survey showed that most of Saturday's bombs, explosives and incendiaries, had been dropped in a circle around the center of the city outside the protective balloon barrage and had damaged at least one factory and several warehouses besides burning down a number of dwellings and business properties.

The home security ministry spokesman described the financial district fire as a "big peacetime blaze."

Londoners found stark evidence that air siege had made their city part of the war's front line. They saw an ancient church gutted by fire, a bomb scarred cemetery in the Thames estuary district, four flame seared warehouses in one area, and a home where a bull's-eye bomb hit had killed three occupants.

In several places areas of three or four blocks were closed to sightseers. Several four story business buildings caught fire and only their blackened shells were left.

Berlin and London Raided in Widespread Air Attacks

'SURPRISE' SOON, FASCIST EDITOR WARNS BRITAIN

Italians Strike at Malta; Greece Remains Tense.

ROME, Aug. 25 (AP).—Fascism's chief editorial spokesman, Virginio Gayda, served notice on Britain today that "it will not be many more days before she finds herself up against some new surprise."

This warning, without any hint of what Italy and Germany might have in mind, was sounded during a new surge of Italian air raids on the British island fortress of Malta, continued air sparring in North Africa and three British night raids on northern Italy.

Considerable speculation arose immediately whether Gayda referred to possible Italian action against Egypt, a thrust in the Balkans or to the long expected German attempt to invade Britain.

The tenor of his remarks, made in the newspaper La Voce d'Italia, was such that either separate German or Italian action or both could have been in the writer's mind.

Silent About Greece.

Tension between Italy and Greece remained undiminished and Fascist officials declined to indicate what action it would take with that pro-British neighbor of Italian-annexed Albania. Reports from abroad say Italian troops are massing on the border of Greece in the wake of Fascist press demands for border territory—demands the Greeks have indicated they would resist.

Some observers thought Gayda's words may have been by way of explaining to the Italian public why the threatened summer invasion of England has not yet been attempted with the time for unfavorable winter fogs over the channel drawing near.

Offensive "Hardly Started."

Chiding the English for "being jubilant because the British Isles have not yet been destroyed, Gayda said he could assure them that the German offensive, like the Italian, "hardly has started."

"Germany's lightning war has not yet begun and everything which has happened up to now in the British skies and seas are nothing but methodical, necessary preparation," he said.

"Germany and Italy are not accustomed to communicate in advance to the British their intentions, the time and the form of their actions.

"They strike by surprise with means least expected but with forces mathematically certain. It will not be many days before the British will find themselves up against some new surprise.

"This is a calm foreword we give the English, together with advice not to be in a hurry to unfurl their flags."

Report on British Raids.

The Italian high command meanwhile asserted that British planes, flying across Switzerland, dropped bombs and leaflets in three raids on Lombardy and Piedmont, in northern Italy.

Two civilians were reported killed and dwellings damaged at Mariano Commenzo. Other bombs were dropped near Anione and in the outskirts the Alessandria, where a farmhouse was said to have been set afire. The high command said four British planes and one Italian bomber were shot down in raids yesterday on Malta.

[Reports from Valletta, Malta, said one Italian plane was downed, another believed damaged in a Saturday raid in which the Italians dropped numerous bombs without inflicting casualties. No mention was made of any British plane losses.]

In North Africa, the daily communique said two British destroyers were driven off in an attempted night bombardment of Bardia, Libyan port 30 miles from the Egyptian frontier.

Italian bombers were said to have destroyed three armored cars in a raid on a British motorized column between Sidi Barrani and the Libyan border.

ATHENS, Aug. 25 (AP).—Greek reservists from 14 classes in the Epirus district [at the southern tip of Albania] were reported today to have received individual summonses to serve in the border garrison. Military authorities pushed ahead with defense measures.

TRIBUNE WRITER SEES NAZI SHOT DOWN INTO SEA

British Battle Foes 6,000 Feet Up.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ON THE SOUTHEAST COAST OF ENGLAND, Aug. 25.—All was quiet on the southeast coast most of the day until this evening, when formations of German planes appeared from across the English channel. As seen thru breaks in clouds, they were about 6,000 feet up.

A plane several miles away was seen to dive, with smoke fuming from the fuselage. Closely followed by a combat plane, it hit the water and burst into flames which burned for several seconds. Then the plane sank and black smoke rose toward the sky.

The combat plane circled, flew low past the breakwater, and dipped a wing to show the antiaircraft defense that it was a Spitfire. Only then did we know we had seen a Spitfire shoot down a German raider.

British Disperse Invaders.

The sound of motors continued above the clouds and several British fighters later came out of the clouds and passed low over the town before returning to their airdromes, signifying that they had dispersed all the Germans. Then the all clear signal sounded.

While the air battles were in progress, the Calais cliffs across the channel were clearly visible in the light of the setting sun. Suddenly there was a flash near the cliffs and a round, black cloud of smoke rose. At first watchers thought the Germans had fired a long range gun, but no shell arrived and it was then assumed the British had dropped a bomb at a German gunpit.

BRITAIN WILL REVAMP RATIONING TO HALT PERISHABLES' WASTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Lord Woolton, minister of food, announced tonight that he had given instructions that the whole machinery of rationing be simplified "to ease the lot of the man in the shop."

Since grocers are not permitted to sell rationed goods without coupons or below fixed prices, they often are forced to hold perishable goods, thus leading to waste. Under a free system they could empty their shelves by reducing prices. Lord Woolton said he was contemplating a scheme that would permit retailers to exercise some discretion.

The ministry of agriculture is considering taking a leaf out of Hitler's book and collecting in urban areas kitchen waste to be fed to pigs. A canvass may be undertaken to learn farmers' needs. It is suggested that municipalities establish piggeries, and plans are being pushed to create processing plants to make pig food from kitchen waste.

LORD NORTH AND SISTER KILLED BY LAND MINE

A SOUTHEAST COAST TOWN IN ENGLAND, Aug. 25 (AP).—Lord North and his sister, Lady Cynthia Williams, were killed today and Lady North was injured in the explosion of a land mine as they walked along the seashore in a prohibited area. Lord North, son of the earl of Guilford, was 38 years old. Lady North is the elder daughter of Sir Merrik Burrell. They were married in 1927 and have one son and two daughters.

Lady Cynthia Williams was 32 years old and the only daughter of the earl of Guilford. In 1935 she married Max Wells Williams, who was listed in the marriage register as European manager of the American Steel company.

CANADIAN UNIT BAGS 2 BOMBERS IN FIRST FLIGHT

LONDON, Aug. 25 (AP).—The Royal Canadian air force fighter squadron, going into action against German raiders for the first time as a unit, were credited today with having bagged two Nazi planes in action Saturday.

"The first Royal Canadian fighter squadron to reach England went into action yesterday for its first time," a brief air ministry news service bulletin announced. "Flying their Canadian built Hurricanes, the pilots yesterday afternoon shot down two Dornier bombers."

Canadian flyers hitherto had been used solely in British squadrons.

BOMBER FALLS ON HOUSE

BY STANLEY JOHNSTOWNE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DOVER, England, Aug. 24 [Delayed].—Apparently in trouble, a bomber late tonight circled low over Dover, is believed to have struck a balloon cable, and crashed on a house, destroying it. Three bodies have been extricated from the ruins. This was but one of many exciting incidents which marked the day's fighting over this port.

The Tribune correspondent saw numerous air battles, planes shot down, and pilots bail out safely. British naval salvage boats rescued pilots from the English channel, and there was a spirited attack by a German plane on a balloon barrage.

Early in the morning German planes could be seen at a height above 20,000 feet, flying to and fro and evidently trying to determine the results of their big gun shooting on Thursday night. They were fired on by antiaircraft guns, which held them off until British fighters appeared. The Germans then retired.

Big Squadron Attacked.

Later a big squadron of German bombers, protected by combat planes, could be seen flying high inland. British fighters attacked and the noise of the motors, screeching as the planes dived and twisted, could be heard. Within a few minutes heavy detonations were heard as bombs dropped near Dover.

During fighting directly overhead, three planes separated themselves from the mass air battle. The leading machine came down out of control, but the pilot flattened out at about 1,000 feet above land and headed toward France, losing height. Evidently the British assumed this plane fell in the channel, for they dispatched two naval salvage ships to pick up the pilot.

The two other planes were soon recognized as a German Dornier closely pursued by a British Spitfire. There was the rattle of a machine gun and the Dornier dived into the sea near Dover.

Two Ships Bombed.

Two German bombers, pursued by British fighters, then turned over Dover castle, sped over the harbor, and dropped four bombs, evidently at two small British naval auxiliary craft lying close to shore. The bombs missed the ships and landed in the sea 200 yards from THE TRIBUNE correspondent.

There was a continuous sound of planes high overhead and waves of German bombers and fighters were reported making their way inland and being obstructed by British combat patrols. Every 15 minutes or so one could hear bombs exploding inland. Antiaircraft batteries would suddenly go into action.

A plane suddenly began to fall like a leaf and continued down 5,000 or 6,000 feet. The pilot seemed to regain control, but instantly another plane dived with machine guns firing and the first craft went into a spiral dive, which ended when the plane landed four miles from Dover. Later this correspondent taxied out and inspected the plane. It was reported the German pilot stepped out unhurt after landing.

Heavy antiaircraft gun fire and exploding bombs could still be heard inland. There seemed at times to be 60 planes overhead and occasionally 20 could be seen flying past.

There was a roar of diving planes to the north and a German bomber was seen trying to escape from a Spitfire. They turned and, under machine gun fire, the bomber seemed to blow up and fell with its wings separated from the fuselage. It dropped in two pieces about a mile from shore, while one of the crew floated down in his parachute.

COL. M'CORMICK SEES 1ST DIVISION GO THRU PACES

Tells of Changes in Army After Visit to Games.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, in a radio speech last night told his comrades of the 1st division that the American army of today has a high morale and only needs modern weapons and training in their use to be "as good as the old American Expeditionary force."

The address was given over W-G-N and the Mutual network as part of the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour. The facts on which it was based were gathered by Col. McCormick, an artillery officer in the world war, last week when he visited the Plattsburg, N. Y., area and witnessed the maneuvers of the 1st army. The 1st division was one of the units engaged.

Col. McCormick dealt briefly with the difficulties in training resulting from lack of equipment and the necessity of "simulating" missing machine guns, tanks, mortars, and even trenches and dive bombing airplanes.

TEXT OF ADDRESS

The following is the text of Col. McCormick's address:

"Comrades of the 1st division:

"I will tell you tonight of my visit to our old division. It has been in the field training and maneuvering for sixteen months. Allowing for the difference between war and peace, it has been living and carrying on very much as we did. The men are hard and clear-eyed. They do cheerfully whatever is asked of them.

"It is not enough to say that they are as good as the old 1st division. They ARE the 1st division, and they look a whole lot more like our old division than we do now.

Officer of Old 1st Division.

"They are commanded by an officer of the old division, Gen. Truesdell, who knows what to expect and gives the same leadership that we received from Gen. Bullard and Gen. Summerall.

"A good deal has changed in the army since we were there, and more changes must take place to bring it up to date. Perhaps the best way to put the picture before you is to tell you what I saw.

"I had planned to live at Plattsburg and to fly over the Adirondack mountains to the maneuvers every day, but on the first morning there were low lying clouds and driving rains. There were no instruments at the army landing field, so we could not fly blind and come down as we would do at a city airport.

Plane Shows Advantages.

"We decided to fly around the north end of the mountains. The farther we went the worse was the weather, until finally it was not flyable over the land. Fortunately we were in an amphibian plane, so we turned north to the St. Lawrence river and flew just above the water. If the clouds had closed in all the way to the water, we still could have come down and taxied on its surface. I have never had a clearer demonstration of the advantages of the amphibian plane. Since such conditions will be met in warfare, some of our new equipment should be of that type.

"Another advantage of the flying boat was seen the next day when we were flying low over the maneuvers. The antiaircraft machine guns and the infantry all pretended to fire at us and I thought how very fortunate it was that I had a bullet-proof boat below me in case some guns happened to be loaded.

"It then flashed into my mind that certain of the modern planes abroad are armored, so that neither machine gun nor rifle bullets can injure the pilot. This changes the entire aspect of aviation offense and defense. If bullets cannot injure low flying planes, these are almost safe from antiaircraft defense, since cannon cannot be aimed fast enough to hit them. They can effectively bomb and machine gun ground troops.

Line of Attack Indicated.

"Lieut. Gen. Drum was more than hospitable to the old timers and gave me permission to go any place I wanted to—as tho there could be more than one place I wanted to go.

"I was then in the 1st army. It appeared pretty sure that the 1st army corps in which our division belonged, and opposed to the 1st army, would attack by its right flank. It seemed equally sure that the 1st division would make the attack, because it had the most equipment and because its men were in the best condition. So that way I went, and sure enough, I ran into a right flank guard from the 16th infantry and a battery of the 7th field artillery. They looked just as you used to look.

"Having now entered the army corps, courtesy required that I pay my respects to the corps commander and ask his permission to join my division.

Simulates Armored Division.

"I went well to the rear of the corps to avoid interfering with the movement. Suddenly I found myself simulating an armored column that had broken thru the line and was roaming at will over an undefended countryside. I could have cut every telephone line, broken down every bridge.

"Finally I came upon, and simulated to myself, the capture of the corps headquarters.

"As I motored along, it became plain to me that one tank, or a fleet of tanks, that has broken thru the opposing line, possesses all the attributes of a ship or fleet of ships that has broken a blockade. It can roam at will and destroy until or unless met or overtaken by a more powerful tank force.

"It has long been customary for an army, whether acting on the offensive or defensive, to have a plan for retreat in case of misfortune. It must now become routine to have a plan to meet a break-thru of motorized columns.

Must Be Panic-Proof.

"This must involve the fortifying of river crossings and towns; the destruction of bridges and the raising of obstacles, and a tank reserve held in hand for this emergency.

"It must be proof against panic, fifth columns, refugees, and all other factors that were not provided against in Holland, Belgium, and France.

"At corps headquarters, Col. Kiefer, the chief of staff, an old 1st division man, gave me lunch and showed me where to find the division. How good it was!

"I never came upon a stationary unit that was not camouflaged; nor one on the move that was not prepared for air attack. I say 'move' rather than 'march,' because we do not march these days. The infantry travels in trucks and the artillery in what they call 'prime movers,' machines half way between commercial trucks and tanks.

Little Target for Bombers.

"Instead of the slow, closed up columns, slogging along in the mud, these vehicles, traveling at speeds up to 60 miles an hour, and spaced at perhaps 100 yards, furnish little target for bombers.

"Toward evening I found the old 1st division spirit in a couple of privates. They were with an antitank gun behind a battalion of 155s, my old battalion. I asked them why they were there, and one replied quietly that he did not know; the corporal had left them at 7 o'clock in the morning and had not been back. They had been without food for 13 hours, but not a peep out of them. I wonder if any one within the sound of my voice remembers the antitank crew at Seichprey.

"When I remember the infinite suffering of our horses in pulling guns at foot pace, I realize that we have at last made a real start in the direction of a modern army. Getting rid of horses and the hauling of horse feed, stepping up the marching speed from 3 to 30 or 60 miles an hour, has simplified the problem of supply.

Other Side of Question.

"The other side of this question, of course, is that the enemy can have everything we have and more.

"I became conscious of the word 'simulated' because it seemed that more things were simulated than were real. They also had to simulate that things were not so. The troops, of course, could not be billeted, and had to live in rectangular camps—by far the most visible things on the landscape. We had to simulate that they were not there. It took a little imagination. In order not to injure private property we had to simulate trenches. If any bridges were broken down, that had to be simulated, too.

"Machine guns were simulated with stove pipes, and mortars with water pipes. Tanks were simulated by trucks, whereupon all of the antitank guns, simulated or otherwise, were trained down roads!

Battlefield Is Rented.

"Whether or not it was this influence, I cannot tell, but I saw very few troops off the road.

"Most of the transportation of the army was rented, and so was the battlefield.

"There was not much aviation in evidence, but what there was cooperated wholeheartedly with the other arms. There were no airplanes capable of dive bombing, but training ships 'simulated' dive bombers.

"In addition to the opposing armies was a considerable corps of umpires.

"As I went to bed each night, I was aware of older men, who were not going to bed, who were working much harder than their doctors would have approved; but that is the army.

"All the casualties are not on the battlefield. The army works, or fights, until it drops.

"When it has been furnished with modern weapons and has learned how to use them, this army will be as good as the old American Expeditionary Force."

SPAIN FAR FROM WAR, SAYS I. T. & T. HEAD AFTER SEEING LEADERS

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 25 (AP).—Col. Sosthenes Behn, head of International Telephone and Telegraph company, who boarded the Clipper today for New York, expressed the opinion that Spain is "far from war."

He had come from Spain, where he reached an agreement with the Franco government for return of I. T. & T. properties in Spain to American management.

"There has been a decided improvement in the outlook lately," he added.

HUNGARY CALLS MORE TROOPS TO BACK UP DEMANDS

Delegates Return Home from Rumanian Parley.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 25 (AP).—Hungary called up thousands of additional reservists, ordered air raid precautions and took other defense measures today following reports that Rumania was sending reënforcements to Transylvania.

The intensification of military activity came as the Hungarian delegation arrived home from Turnu-Severin, where negotiations with Rumania over Hungarian claims to Transylvania collapsed yesterday.

[Reports from Bucharest Saturday indicated that an appeal from King Carol, presumably influenced by Berlin, had saved the Turnu-Severin conference from final collapse and that negotiations between the two countries would be renewed at an undisclosed time and place.]

Hungary's defense preparations in the last 24 hours included continuation of the calling of reservists which began Friday night, requisitioning of thousands of automobiles, screening street lights with blue anti-air raid filters, assembling special fire fighting apparatus and white-washing curbs for possible blackout.

Claim Rumania Defies Axis.

No explanation of the defense measures was given.

The government press asserted that Rumania was not acting in accord with the will of the Rome-Berlin axis—which ordered the negotiations—and that Hungary would stand firm on her demands for the province of Transylvania, lost to Rumania in the world war settlement.

The Budapest newspaper Pester Lloyd said: "We are resolved not to give in and to enforce what we consider just, correct and reasonable in the interest of lasting peace." Another paper, Magyar Sag, said: "Rumania is using Little Entente methods of trying to get public opinion on the Rumanian side."

Reports circulated meanwhile here and in Bucharest that the negotiations might be resumed some time this week, possibly in Hungary. Official Hungarian circles said Berlin and Rome were bringing strong pressure on Rumania to make concessions to the Budapest government.

May Name New Delegates.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 25 (AP).—The Rumanian delegates to the Turnu-Severin conference returned home tonight and conferred with cabinet members over the possible resumption of the negotiations with Hungary. It was reported likely tonight that a new Rumanian delegation would be named in an attempt to satisfy the axis-inspired demands.

Talks of a last minute revival of the discussions caused considerable confusion among some members of the delegation now refusing to take part in further conferences.

The general opinion in well informed circles was that even if negotiations should be resumed it would take months before anything approaching an agreement could be reached.

Report Dobruja Settlement.

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—An Italian radio announcement heard in New York today by CBS said Rumanian-Bulgarian negotiations for the cession of southern Dobruja to Bulgaria had been completed and that Rumanians would begin vacating the territory Oct. 11.

JOAN OF ARC FLAG GIVEN FRENCH BY BRITISH AT SUEZ

SOMEWHERE IN THE SUEZ CANAL ZONE, Aug. 25 (AP).—Free French soldiers—men who have fled France's colonies to join Britain's Mediterranean war against Italy after the military collapse of France—formally became a part of the British army in the middle east today. The trained troops, wearing British uniforms but French insignia, received their regimental colors on a green parade ground.

The British ambassador to Egypt, Sir Miles Lampson, handed a regimental flag bearing the cross of Lorraine, Joan of Arc's symbol, to the officer commanding the French.

WRITER OF PLAYS CALLS LINDY AND FORD TRAITOROUS

New York, Aug. 25 [Special].—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Henry Ford were denounced tonight by Robert E. Sherwood, interventionist playwright and author, as what "I and many other Americans consider two outstanding exponents of a traitorous point of view."

Sherwood made his remarks in what was called an address of encouragement sent by telephone to the entire network of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation. Later the speech was to be rebroadcast to the entire British empire over the facilities of the British Broadcasting corporation. Sherwood used the land lines of the National Broadcasting company to transmit the speech to Canada. It was not broadcast over the NBC network.

Sherwood has been an active member of the Interventionist Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, which is headed by William Allen White. Sherwood wrote and financed an advertisment for the committee, entitled "Stop Hitler Now!" which called for action against the totalitarian powers.

Sherwood opened his talk with a declaration of "our common cause," adding, "We Americans are rapidly awakening to the fact that we are already at war; for Hitler and his allies are at war with all men who believe in liberty and democracy and justice."

GERMANS ABSORB ALL OF NAZI-HELD POLAND, REPORT

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Italy, Aug. 25.—Berlin reports received here today said that all of German occupied Poland had been incorporated into the reich by decree of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler.

After successful invasion of Poland last September the Nazis set up a civil administration under the protection of the military power. They incorporated Danzig, the Polish corridor, and the provinces of Poznan and Lodz in the reich. Of the remainder of the conquered land they constituted a "province," known as the "government general."

This area was separated from the reich by a technical customs frontier. Its area was 42,500 square miles and had a population of about 13,000,000, including 11,000,000 Poles and the remainder Jews, Germans, and Ukrainians. Dr. Hans Frank has been governor general.

NAZIS DISPLAY SPOILS OF WAR AT LEIPZIG FAIR

Guns, Planes, Pictures Tell of Victory.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 25.—The Leipzig fair, which opened today, is concentrating its efforts on the development of trade in southeastern Europe. Speeches exchanged with delegations from that area were full of assurance of friendship.

To impress visitors from abroad and to "help the civilian population of Germany realize what the achievements of the German army really meant," a big section of the fair is devoted to an exhibition entitled, "The Victory in the West."

Booty Put on Display.

It displays booty seized by the victorious German troops, ranging from light Belgian guns to middle sized guns of English make, heavy French mortars, French and English airplanes that were shot down, and others that were new when the Germans overran the French.

Tanks of German and foreign make are displayed and the population may, as the Germans say, "admire the effect of the German weapons" on the battered tanks of their enemies.

Huge enlargements of photographs taken during battle show the part played by infantry, tank troops, and artillery.

Carefully built radio transmitting and receiving sets, which enabled the German troops to keep in close touch with all vital centers, and soldiers trained to make the best possible use of this equipment, played an important part in the German blitzkrieg. On display at the fair is the mast of a wireless station that "played an important part in the most difficult days of the battle of France."

19 Nations Exhibit.

The four day fair, which harks back to the middle ages, when Leipzig was a continental crossroads, is expected to attract 100,000 visitors in spite of the fact that British bombers have visited the vicinity. There are 1,700 exhibits representing 19 nations, including Russia and Italy.

Germany is adopting a more severe tone toward Switzerland. In the weekly, Das Reich, German speaking Switzerland was reprimanded in the following words for her failure to consider herself part of the German family:

"The force which dissolved the old German empire in 1648 created Switzerland. The Swiss, by pointing to this date, point to the saddest year of German history. . . . To date Switzerland lived on her enmity against the reich. In the future this won't be possible, either politically or spiritually."

FRANCE REDUCES HER STANDING ARMY TO FORCE OF 100,000

VICHY, France, Aug. 25 (AP).—France's standing armed forces, including militarized police, have been reduced almost to the 100,000 men permitted under the armistice with Germany, military authorities reported today.

Demobilization of millions of reservists recently has been carried out, they said, under Nazi eyes.

The permanent army remaining will be composed of professional soldiers recruited from time to time as needed and will include about 20,000 mobile guards, or military police.

British Claim Shipping Gain Despite 1,900,000 Ton Loss

LONDON, Aug. 26, Monday (AP).—Ronald Cross, minister of shipping, said today in an overseas broadcast that Britain had lost slightly less than 1,900,000 gross tons of merchant shipping in the first year of war but had offset this by adding "just over two million" tons to the merchant fleet.

VISITORS TO FAIR AT LEIPZIG FLEE FROM PLANE RAID

No Immediate Damage by Bombs Reported.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Aug. 26, Monday (AP).—Thousands of visitors to Leipzig's famous annual fair, many of them from neutral nations, and residents of this factory city spent 25 minutes in air raid shelters early today as antiaircraft artillery fired numerous shots at aerial raiders.

No bomb damage was immediately apparent from the raid, of which the British gave warning in a leaflet raid several days ago.

A few hours before the alarm a banquet speaker told visitors of the British leaflets, which threatened the bombing of the Leipzig railway station, one of the world's largest, during the fair.

Hailed as Sensation.

The German dye trust placed on display at the famed fair yesterday a spinning device that trust officials hailed as "a sensation which will revolutionize the textile industry" and be of great importance to Germany's wartime production.

The new machine, called the "vistra-spinniunte," is designed to simplify the spinning of cotton. Trust officials said this invention, together with the already publicized "vistry-spinnband," an aid in long fiber spinning, would usher in a "new epoch in the textile industry."

The new cotton mechanism cuts the various fibers in uniform and desired lengths and lays down the staple in orderly fashion, eliminating the necessity of various preliminary operations.

Result of 10 Years' Work.

Trust officials said the "spinnlunte," the outcome of 10 years of experimentation, had attracted interest because of the wartime desirability of saving man power, materials, iron, lighting, power and space, and of increasing production.

They explained that the new machine, by doing the work of several other devices, will economize on factory space, and claimed it will reduce spinning costs and produce a firmer, glossier yarn.

They described the machine as "very expensive, but not so expensive as the total cost of all the machines it will replace." The officials said details of the machine's cost had not yet been worked out because large scale production has not started, but predicted it would be sufficiently low to encourage replacements abroad as well as in Germany.

The spinning mechanism, as well as hundreds of synthetic products displayed here, were cited as triumphs of Germany's war economy.

77 BRITISH REFUGEE CHILDREN ARRIVE IN N. Y. FROM MONTREAL

New York, Aug. 25 [Special].—Seventy-seven British refugee children arrived at Grand Central terminal tonight from Montreal, Canada, where they had been landed Saturday.

The group was met by Marshal Field III., chairman of the United States committee for the Care of European Refugee Children, and other members of the committee.

The names of the children, whose ages ranged from 5 to 10 years, were unknown to the committee, which will seek to place them in homes in this country. Meanwhile, they will be housed at the Edwin Gould foundation in Bronx county.

The children, who appeared uneasy at first, made polite answers to reporters' questions, and began to enjoy having their pictures taken. They thought well of American ice cream.

CONGRESS TO AIR BUNGLING OF U. S. DEFENSE ORDERS

Byrd Asks Explanation of 'Alarming' Delay.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—Resigned to certain passage of the Roosevelt administration's peace time conscription bill, noninterventionists in congress are determined to ventilate what they regard as a scandalous bungling of the national defense program by the New Dealers. The purpose of this move, which may result in a congressional investigation, is to halt the trend toward war by showing that the country is hopelessly unprepared for war.

Senator Byrd.

The senate is expected to pass the conscription bill by Thursday or Friday. The house probably will approve it the following week. In its final form it may be drastically limited in scope, compared with the original Burke-Wadsworth bill, but at least it will permit the drafting of 400,000 men by Jan. 1 and another 400,000 by April 1, which is the present program of the war department.

Nation's Security at Stake.

In announcing yesterday that he plans to introduce a resolution for a congressional investigation if the administration refuses to give congress a prompt and satisfactory explanation for the bogging down of the defense program, Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] declared that "the placing of orders for delivery of mechanized military equipment is lagging to the extent that our national security is seriously menaced."

Senator Byrd made the startling disclosure, based on official information, that since last May, when President Roosevelt proposed the immediate planning of an air force of 50,000 planes, only 343 combat planes have been ordered by the army and the navy, of which none will be delivered this year and the majority will not be delivered before 1942.

Senator Byrd further revealed that the army and navy combined have fewer than 2,000 combat planes on hand, of which only 500 are less than two years old. He said his investigation disclosed that the same "alarming" delay in placing orders for combat airplanes exists in ordering and obtaining mechanized equipment for the army.

Mostly Training Planes.

Altho the war and navy departments and the national defense advisory commission refuse to make public the number of airplanes delivered to the army and navy during the first half of this year, figures supplied by the aviation industry show there were approximately 500 deliveries to the army and navy and about 1,000 to the British and French governments. All but 120 of the army and navy total, however, were training planes, which have no value whatever for combat purposes.

During the period in which the 120 combat planes were delivered, the army and navy released 200 combat planes for export to the British and French, leaving a net loss of 80 fighting planes during the six month period.

80% Delivered Abroad.

According to a spokesman for the aeronautical chamber of commerce, approximately 80 per cent of all military aircraft production in the United States at the present time is going to England. The military aircraft production of the United States for the current month is estimated at approximately 700 planes.

During the present session congress has appropriated more than 5 billion dollars for the army and navy. Another 5 billion dollar national defense appropriation bill, already passed by the house, is awaiting senate approval. Authorizations bring the defense program to approximately 15 billion dollars.

Whether there will be a congressional investigation of the national defense muddle, as suggested by Senator Byrd, will depend on the response of the administration to his demand for an explanation and to a senate resolution introduced Friday by Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass].

The Walsh resolution calls for complete information respecting the army's aircraft procurement program and complete information as to the number of combat tanks and other armored vehicles on hand, on order, and probable dates of future deliveries.

1,000,000 Men Would Tax Highways

CHARGES PLOT TO PROFIT FROM WAR HYSTERIA

New York, Aug. 25 [Special].—While controversy flared today between Park Commissioner Robert Moses and Harvey D. Gibson, board chairman of the New York World's Fair corporation, over whether the fair site should become a public park or a military training ground, Frank Knox, secretary of the navy, ended the argument by announcing that neither the war nor the navy department is interested in taking over the fair grounds.

Earlier in the day Moses accused Gibson of attempting to take advantage of war hysteria as part of a "cute device by which a financially busted world's fair will escape its responsibility for clearing the site so as to pay an extra dividend to Mr. Gibson's friends." Gibson retorted that his own motives were patriotic and that Moses's statement was "full of inaccuracies."

Secretary Knox, reached by telephone at his summer home in Manchester, N. H., said unequivocally that the navy department is in no way interested in taking over the site, and that he had been informed the army had "turned it down flat."

GERMANS REOPEN BASEL RAILWAY ON SWISS BORDER

BASEL, Switzerland, Aug. 25 (AP).—The Germans today reopened the Basel railroad, frontier gateway between Switzerland and Germany, which had been closed since June 30. At the time of the line's closing the action was reported here to have been taken in an effort to prevent information leaking out concerning German preparations to invade Britain.

Immediate significance of the reopening could not be ascertained, but it inspired reports in foreign quarters that the Germans might have deferred any invasion plans for the moment. The Basel railroad, like all others between Switzerland and Germany, except the one at St. Margarethen on the old Austrian frontier, had been closed by the June 30 order.

Permission was granted Swiss farmers and other frontier workers to renew their frontier travel cards, suspended when the railroad was closed. This means they may return to their jobs on the German side of the frontier daily if they wish.

'SEA LION' LIMPS INTO PORT WITH TALE OF BATTLES

How a British Submarine Preyed on Enemy.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 25.—With both periscopes out of action and long scars on its hull, the British submarine Sea Lion has returned to its base after sinking an enemy supply ship, chasing a U-boat, being rammed when attacking a convoy and then compelled to lie low for two days near a German base to make repairs during nights in darkness and with decks awash to enable her to make the journey home.

A few days after she put out to sea she surfaced at dusk to discover a U-boat two miles away. The position was unfavorable for a torpedo attack so the gun man fired, the third shot coming so close that the enemy dived to escape.

An Attack off Norway.

After searching unsuccessfully for the U-boat, the Sea Lion continued to hunt for German merchant ships. A 3,000 ton enemy store ship was sighted close to the Norwegian coast. A torpedo sent her to the bottom, the ship's crew taking to their boats and reaching land only a mile away.

Shortly afterward wisps of smoke were seen on the horizon. The submarine crew prepared for action. Four German merchant ships, accompanied by a strong naval escort, came into view. The Sea Lion drew in and prepared to torpedo a 9,000 tonner.

While waiting for the vital moment, the convoy suddenly changed its course, one vessel heading straight for the submarine.

A Narrow Escape.

Skillfully maneuvered, the Sea Lion appeared to be out of danger, when the German ship made another chance alteration in course which took her straight over the submarine.

There was a grinding and crashing shock as the periscope and hull were struck a glancing blow.

Then came an hour of depth charges. Propellers whirled overhead and explosion followed explosion.

It was not until several hours later that the submarine was able to come to the surface to examine the damage which had to be repaired before attempting the home voyage.

Bacon and Hams Scattered as 16 Freight Cars Upset

Police were called to guard 16 wrecked freight cars of the Chicago Great Western railroad yesterday after they left the rails in Lombard and overturned. Bacon, hams, and other meat were strewn along the right of way as several of the cars were demolished. Fourteen of the cars were refrigerator cars, and the other two carried oil. Road officials blamed a split rail. No one was hurt.

Ecuadorean Officers Tour Galapagos on U. S. Ship

Rear Admiral H. Kent Hewitt carried as his guests a group of Ecuadorean army and navy officers who inspected the islands and adjacent waters. It is understood the Erie, the Tatnall, and the Bushnell may remain here until the inauguration of President Elect Carlos Arroyo del Rio next Sunday.

Jap Bombs Raze Second Home of Baptist Mission

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 25 (AP).—Japanese bombs destroyed the American Southern Baptist Mission hospital yesterday at Kweilan, capital of Kwangsi province, Central News, official agency of the Central Chinese government, reported today. Eleven native patients and servants were reported injured. The building had been occupied temporarily by the mission since its original plant was destroyed in a Japanese air raid in December, 1938.

GASOLINE FROM COAL TO BUILD UP SPAIN'S SUPPLY

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 25 (AP).—The Spanish government has accepted bids for construction of factories to process coal into gasoline to counter the shortage of imported gasoline, which has almost eliminated private consumption of gasoline. The government is said to have quantities in store for its own potential needs. Thru coal-to-gasoline plants and efforts to get more imports, the government hopes to solve the shortage for private consumers.

EMBATTLED 33D FORCED BACK IN M'COY MANEUVER

Chicago Infantry Outfits Bear Brunt of Battle.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 25.—Tired troops of Illinois' own 33d division, battling stubbornly after more than 24 hours in the line, were forced back more than three miles toward the Lacrosse river late today before an attack of the 149th infantry regiment combat team [West Virginia] in the "battle of Wisconsin."

This battle, final and most extensive training exercise of the Second army's three week maneuvers, began yesterday, just after noon, and continued tonight on a front of about 30 miles.

The 33d division, along with the 32d division of Wisconsin and Michigan and the 5th regular army streamlined division and the 53d cavalry brigade, make up the Sixth army corps [Reds] which is opposing the Fifth army corps [Blues].

Included in the Blue forces are the 38th division of Indiana, Kentucky, and West Virginia, the 37th division of Ohio, and attached corps troops, including the 54th cavalry brigade.

Fall Back Upon River.

The Reds have been driving southeastward from Black River Falls to meet the Blues, advancing from the Necedah and Mather areas. Contact was made yesterday, and tonight the conflict raged along an indefinite line from Knapp to Purdy Ridge and thence southeastward to route 16.

The line of the Illinoisans, after they were forced back, ran in general from Prescott school south along the east side of the Lacrosse river to below Trout Falls. They had been forced back when the 149 combat team [Blues] drove southwestward from the strategic Purdy Valley Ridge, which the Blues seized in sharp fighting yesterday.

The thrust by the 149th came at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, at the same time the tiring 33d division had been ordered to attack.

Brunt of Attack Hits Chicagoans.

The weight of the Blue attack fell on the 66th brigade team, which includes the 131st and 132d infantry regiments of Chicago. This brigade held the south half of the 33d division's sector. The north half was held by the 65th brigade team, including the 129th and 130th infantry regiments.

Brig. Gen. Campbell B. Hodges, commander of the 5th corps [Blues] had massed so much power behind Purdy Valley Ridge tonight that it was evident the Blue main effort was coming somewhere between Flora Dell and Purdy Valley school. An earlier Blue threat on the Blue right flank was seen to have been only a feint.

Battle Still in Doubt.

These factors remained to influence the battle:

First—Tonight at 8 o'clock the provisional mechanized force of 60 trucks representing tanks passed [according to plan] to the Blues. The Reds had had this force since the battle started, but Maj. Gen. Irving A. Fish, Sixth corps commander, had not committed it to action, altho he brought it in a long round about run from Black River Falls over route 54 thru Melrose and thence on route 71 to Sparta.

Second—The 5th division [Red] held a strong position between Iron Mountain and Oak Ridge tower.

Three—The 32d division [Red] was being concentrated on the right of the 33d. More than half of these troops were brought to the Camp McCoy area in trucks from near Black River Falls last night and tonight, and the remainder were being brought here tonight in three trains.

Charles Stehlin (right), showing his croix de guerre to his father, Col. Joseph Stehlin, after his return from Europe on the S. S. Exeter.

New York, Aug. 25 [Special].—Charles Stehlin, 18 years old, of Miami Beach, Fla., was the youngest American to drive an ambulance in France during Germany's blitzkrieg. When he returned to America on the S. S. Exeter yesterday, he was greeted by his father, Col. Joseph C. Stehlin, who was a member of the Lafayette Escadrille of the first world war. Young Stehlin brought back a croix de guerre that was awarded to him by the French government.

AVIATION CADETS TO GET COURSES IN ENGINE WORK

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 2d army and the 6th corps area, announced yesterday that young men enrolling as flying cadets will be given instruction in airplanes and engines as well as in flying. The students study model planes, take down and reassemble engines, and are required to repair motors purposely put out of order.

Applicants must be 20 to 26 years old, unmarried, and must be able to pass a rigid physical examination. Those who have not completed two or more years of college must pass an examination to establish their educational qualifications.

Cadets receive 12 weeks of preliminary training in civilian schools under supervision of army officers and additional training at army flying fields to complete a nine month course. They receive $75 a month in addition to food, housing, uniforms, and medical and dental care. Upon completing the course cadets are commissioned in the army air corps reserve and must serve one to seven years with the air corps.

Bomb Drops 300 Yards from Kennedy's Retreat

LONDON, Aug. 25.—An explosive bomb this morning dropped about 300 yards from the house in a remote suburb of London where Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy spends his weekends. The only damage was done to a beech tree, which split in two. Kennedy, who was there at the time, examined the crater. About 60 incendiary bombs fell on farmland in the neighborhood.

OFFICER RESERVE TO BE TAKEN ON VOLUNTEER BASIS

Marshall Praises Troops on Maneuvers.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 25.—Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, said in an interview this afternoon that reserve officers will be taken into active service on a volunteer basis so far as possible in connection with the recently enacted law for training the National Guard and reserve corps. He left immediately after the interview by plane for Washington, D. C.

"We will go as far as we can on a volunteer basis," he said. "Then we will consider those officers without dependents. The third step will be issuance of orders to active duty. We probably have more than 10,000 reserve officers on extended active duty now, in addition to those running the civilian conservation corps."

He praised the reserve officers, asserting that their availability is the "greatest single asset the nation has at present."

Reservoir for Army.

"There was nothing like it in 1917," Gen. Marshall said. "Thoroly trained in the R. O. T. C. courses at colleges and universities, these men are a reservoir from which the army is drawing officers as it expands. Almost 60 per cent of the officers in the army now grown from 169,000 men to more than 285,000, are reserve officers on active duty."

The general praised the National Guard troops he had seen during his visit to the second army maneuvers being conducted here under command of Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, second army commander.

"We talked to a number of the men," he said. "They seemed very keen despite the mud and cold. The most intensely interested group had slept all night in a culvert."

Commends Large Training.

Gen. Marshall asserted that National Guardsmen require about two weeks of seasoning, and that this year, for the first time, their training period—which is three weeks—gives them an opportunity to reap the full benefit of their training by devoting the final week to a large scale battle problem.

One year of training would be required to make the guard into an attacking force, the chief of staff asserted, tho he said less time would be needed to train them for use in defense. A total of 135 untrained men, he said, would be added to 60 partially trained men to bring a guard company to wartime strength after it is called into active service.

An example of the situation regarding reserve officers in the regular army about which Gen. Marshall spoke is found in the 5th division [regular streamline unit] which is here for the maneuvers. The strength return shows that this division has 437 reserve officers and 227 regular officers. It was explained that about 150 reserve officers are attached to this division for the duration of the maneuvers only. The remaining 287 reserve officers with the division are on duty for one year.

Some on Duty Elsewhere.

Tables of organization call for a total enlisted personnel of 8,519 in this division. Strength reports now show 6,514 enlisted men on duty with the division here. The remainder are on duty elsewhere. Some are back at their home stations as guards or maintenance personnel, or to help with C. M. T. C. Others are on various "housekeeping" duties in the maneuver area. These duties include driving the cars which bear correspondents, umpires and others and serving as military police.

It was asserted that since these maneuvers are intended primarily for National Guard training it was considered desirable to have the regulars perform most of the "housekeeping" duties.

BARKLEY WANTS 'WHOLE STRING' OF NAVAL BASES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the senate Democratic leader, said today that this country ought to acquire "a whole string" of air and naval bases guarding the Panama canal.

Commenting upon the disclosure in Bermuda yesterday that the Great Sound there would be made available to the United States for an air base and possibly for a naval base, the senator said:

"I think it's a very fine indication of the spirit of those who control Bermuda to offer it to us."

PROPOSED PEACE RALLY BRANDED FRONT FOR REDS

Movement Denounced as Junior Fifth Column.

Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion and chairman of the National Foundation for American Youth, announced in New York City yesterday that this organization intends to expose as "phony" the so-called emergency peace mobilization scheduled to be held in the Chicago Stadium next Saturday, Sunday, and Monday.

Murray Plavner.

He said Murray Plavner, natjonal director of the foundation, will arrive Wednesday in Chicago to help "debunk" the demonstration.

Homer O. McGuffey, Cook county commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Capt. William J. Grace, former Illinois commander, yesterday assailed the proposed rally as a false front for communists.

Red Plan for Coup Charged.

"The noncommunists who are participating doubtless do not know the real setup," said Capt. Grace. "The communists are trying to sell a bill of Red goods by taking advantage of the recognized determination of the American people to stay clear of European quarrels."

Grace and McGuffey said Joe Curran head of the National Maritime union, a C. I. O. affiliate, was among known communists backing the meeting. In New York yesterday a revolt split the C. I. O. ranks after Curran had sent telegrams to hundreds of unions asking them to give financial support to the meeting. Thirty-five members of 28 C. I. O. unions there declared Curran's appeal was tantamount to a request that we give sustenance to a program which would benefit totalitarian nations."

Plavner issued a statement in New York City also assailing the proposed meeting.

Movement Called Fraud.

"We have no quarrel with a sincere peace movement," he said, "but this 'emergency peace mobilization' is a fraud. The same people behind it, who are damning all preparedness for the United States, are the ones who a year ago were screaming for active intervention against the Fascist aggressors. They have changed with the change in the communist party. This junior fifth column must be demobilized."

Plavner said the chief organizers of the demonstration are leaders of the Young Communist league and the American Youth Congress.

He listed what he said were well known peace organizations not represented in the movement as the Keep America Out of War Congress, the National Council for Prevention of War, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, World Peaceways, The Fellowship of Reconciliation, and the War Resisters' league.

Tenor Greeted

Giovanni Martinelli holds Marlene Marcus, who brought him a bouquet of gladioli when he arrived in the La Salle street station yesterday.

Giovanni Martinelli, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, was greeted with a gladioli bouquet from a tiny admirer upon his arrival here from New York yesterday. The little opera fan was Marlene Marcus, 3 years old, 4705 North Troy avenue.

Martinelli will be guest soloist at the free concert in Grant park this evening. He will be assisted in the band shell program by the Chicago Opera orchestra under the direction of Leo Kopp.

The concerts, which will conclude Labor day, Sept. 2, are sponsored by the Chicago Federation of Musicians and the Chicago park district.

ALASKA IS OPEN TO ATTACK, SAYS ROAD ENGINEER

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 25 (AP).—Three men with a fishing boat, operating on a dark night, could paralyze the United States Alaskan defense machine in less than an hour, in the opinion of Donald MacDonald, Alaska highway commission engineer.

MacDonald, en route home from Washington where he conferred with military leaders, said in an interview that the most vulnerable point is Seward, the territory's only all-weather entrance.

"The little town of 4,000 would be asleep and the first intimation of invasion would be a series of explosions," he said. "One would be the oil tanks near the only wharf. Alaska's entire gas and oil supply is there, with no reserve anywhere.

"The next would be the wharf itself. Then, as the startled population tried to give chase, they would find the channel markers destroyed and the whole area would be as dangerous as a mine field, owing to the hidden reefs for which the Alaskan coast is famous."

The only answer MacDonald sees to the Alaskan defense problem "is construction of a road from the railhead at Hazelton, B. C., to Fairbanks, curving thru the Yukon territory."

LAST OF BRITISH TROOPS LEAVE CHINESE SOIL

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 25 (AP).—Six hundred Seaforth Highlanders left Shanghai today, enroute to Singapore, it was reported, completing withdrawal of British armed forces from Chinese soil except for a few soldiers left behind to supervise shipment of equipment.

Several British vessels postponed sailing for Haiphong, French Indo-China, because of persistent but unconfirmed Shanghai rumors of a Japanese naval concentration off Indo-China waters.

A dispatch from Hanoi, Indo-China, said that a Japanese mission in Indo-China, seeking trade commitments and right of way for Japanese troops thru Indo-China for an offensive against China at present is concerned chiefly with sports and sightseeing.

SIX DEFENSE BOARD MEMBERS LEAVE FOR PARLEY IN CANADA

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—The six American members of the new United States-Canadian joint defense board entrained tonight for Ottawa to confer with Canadian board members on strategy to defend North America against possible invasion. Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, chairman of the American delegation, said the members would be in Canada at least two days.

The other American members, who boarded the train in Washington, D. C., were Lieut. Gen. Stanley D. Embrick of the army, Capt. Harry W. Hill, and Commander Forrest P. Sherman of the navy; Lieut. Col. Joseph T. McNarney of the army air corps, and John D. Hickerson of the state department.

CHICAGO LITHS PLEDGE FAITH IN DEMOCRACY

Nearly 10,000 persons, gathered in Riverview park yesterday for the annual Lithuanian day picnic sponsored by Margutis, a Lithuanian language magazine, adopted a resolution pledging their "faith, loyalty, and uncompromising support to the government of the United States and to the democratic way of life for which it stands."

A copy of the resolution was handed to "Miss Columbia" [Jean Paul, 2500 West 107th street] by "Miss Lithuania" [Josephine Sokus, 3314 Lituanica avenue.] The crowd then sang a translation of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" prepared by Anthony Vanagaitis, publisher of Margutis.

Honor was paid to 2,000 Lithuanians who have become American citizens during the last year. Speeches advising them on their obligations and duties as citizens were given by George F. Barrett, Republican candidate for attorney general, and by Municipal Judge John T. Zuris.

SAILPLANES ZIP THRU THRILLING CONTEST PACES

Rainy Weather Mars 2d Day of Competitions.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

More than 2,000 persons, many of them Chicagoans, braved an intermittent rain yesterday to attend the third annual American Open Soaring contest at the Lewis School of Aeronautics airport, six miles north of Joliet on highway 66. Yesterday was the second day of the meet, which will continue thru Sept. 2.

Thrilled by the dozens of short motorless flights made by the 30 glider pilots competing in the meet, the spectators sat uncomplainingly in dripping grandstands for five hours, with only occasional dashes to the shelter of nearby hangars during the worst of the rain.

Weather Delays Big Events.

The glider pilots, prevented by the weather from getting away on the distance, altitude, and endurance flights which are the most important events of the contest, spent the day soaring in the vicinity of the field or competing in the spot landing contest which is a daily feature of the meet.

This contest, a hit with the spectators Saturday, drew even more attention yesterday. A 20 mile an hour wind swept the airport, making it necessary for the pilots to exert all their skill in order to land within the 34 foot circle marked out on the field.

Several of the pilots, misjudging the strength of the wind, missed the circle by hundreds of feet and were lucky to bring their sailplanes down on the field at all. One glider landed on a section of the field under construction, scooted along thru 50 feet of mushy clay and then bounced over a three foot embankment. No damage resulted.

Wins Landing Contest.

The landing contest was won by Don Stevens of Joliet, who brought his two place Frankfort Cinema glider to a stop just two feet from the bull's-eye which marked the center of the circle. Randy Chapman of Detroit, who landed his glider 27 inches from the bull's-eye, was second, and John Robinson of San Diego, Cal., who landed 5 feet 5 inches away, was third.

The sailplanes were towed aloft by drum winches powered by automoile motors. At an altitude of from 600 to 800 feet the pilots released the tow rope and began their maneuvers.

Other events on the special "bad weather" program arranged for the day included a parachute drop from a two place glider, a demonstration of how a glider is towed by a powered plane, and a two way radio demonstration from a glider.

Parachutes from Glider.

Michael Burson, 39 years old, a druggist of Dyer, Ind., whose hobby is parachute jumping, made a drop from a glider piloted by Don Stevens. Burson jumped from an altitude of 2,500 feet over the field and opened his parachute after a 900 foot drop.

Officials of the meet said that if the weather is favorable, the glider pilots will take off shortly before noon today on the distance, altitude, and endurance flights. Many of the pilots competing in this phase of the meet will make flights of 100 miles and more from the airport, it is expected.

The glider pilots are competing for cash prizes of more than $3,000. The largest single award is the $400 cash prize and trophy given by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The meet is sponsored by the Catholic Youth organization. Admission to the airport is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

AIR PASSENGERS PROTEST SEARCH BY U. S. AGENTS

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Passengers who arrived today aboard the Bermuda Clipper reported they were subjected to a rigorous search by United States customs agents.

Mrs. Adelaide Strang, who boarded the ship at Bermuda after making a trans-Atlantic crossing on the Dixie Clipper, protested at the extent of the examination. She said she had been searched by a matron.

"I had to come to my own country to be insulted," said Mrs. Strang, a resident of Europe for 13 years. "My correspondence was examined and they searched me. I traveled thru occupied territory and was treated like a human being."

Customs officials described the examination as routine.

LAWS TO DEPORT ALL ALIEN SPIES ARE DEMANDED

Congressman Starnes Is State Legion Speaker.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 25 (AP).—Congressman Joseph Starnes [D., Ala.], vice chairman of the Dies investigating committee, told the 22d annual Illinois convention of the American Legion tonight that the United States should enact legislation calling "for the immediate deportation of every alien spy and saboteur."

"Deport every alien who advocates any change in our form of government," Starnes said amid cheers from the 1,200 convention delegates.

"We should also enact federal legislation," he added, "that would make it possible to deport men like Harry Bridges."

Refers to West Coast C.I.O. Chief.

The congressman was referring to the west coast C.I.O. leader, who has been the target of several federal investigations. Yesterday Attorney General Robert H. Jackson announced in Washington that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had started a new investigation of Bridges to determine whether he is deportable under the recently enacted Smith act.

Starnes said that Fascism, Nazism and communism were the three biggest threats to American democracy.

"Fascists are the least dangerous," he declared, adding: "The Nazi groups are the best organized while the communists are the largest in number and the most dangerous and insidious. The biggest threats of communism are in American schools and colleges."

Calls England Last Outpost.

Declaring that fifth columnists are "at work in America tonight," Starnes said "England was the last outpost, and America was the last citadel of democracy. Security must be our motto."

The congressman advocated immediate enactment of some form of a selective service act, and urged that the government register all males between the ages of 18 and 65.

New officers of the 40 and 8, fun-making organization of the Legion, were announced tonight. They were: Dr. C. L. Lambert, Canton, grand chef de gare; Gerry Doherty, Geneva, grand chef de train, and E. J. Fortier, Kankakee, cheminot nationale.

Committees mulled over 151 resolutions, while the drum corps, bands, drum majorettes, and all contestants plodded thru the routine of their qualifying trials on various fields.

Resolutions on File.

There were 37 resolutions on file indorsing Paul Armstrong of Chicago, former state commander, for the post of national commander at the Boston convention next month. A committee consolidated them into one and passed it along to the convention with a favorable recommendation.

C. Wayland Brooks and Dwight H. Green, Republican nominees for United States senator and governor, respectively, and other G. O. P. candidates held a reception for the veterans in Republican headquarters.

Green also visited veterans in the reclamation center and said in a speech that "we are marching shoulder to shoulder with Wendell Willkie toward a reunited people and toward the goal which your own principles have set."

ILLINOIS WPA HAS 8,000 IN DEFENSE WORK

Danville, Ill., Aug. 25 (AP).—Charles E. Miner, director of the WPA in Illinois, informed American Legionnaires tonight that 8,000 WPA workers were employed on national defense projects in the state.

Other projects will be closed or part of the workers withdrawn to speed defense work, he said in an address before the 22d annual state convention of the Legion.

In addition to work at army and naval stations in Illinois, the WPA is prepared to start a 7 million dollar project for the improvement of highways of military importance, Miner disclosed.

He told the Legionnaires that the state was not going to be as generous in the treatment of veterans as it has been in the past. "I have become convinced," he said, "that one result of the policy has been to give veterans a degree of preference that is a discrimination against other eligible workers.

"I cannot permit this discrimination to continue. Therefore, I report to you that I have instructed the staff that preference to veterans is to be entirely that embodied in the appropriation act."

NATION'S PRESS JOINS CAMPAIGN FOR U. S. STYLES

Tribune Design Contest Initiates Drive.

New York, Aug. 25 [Special].—Stimulated by the example of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which on July 21 announced a $7,500 nation-wide contest to encourage American fashion design, the press of the United States has joined in a campaign to popularize American fashions for American women.

New York newspapers now are particularly active in the movement. Retail designers, officials of wholesale firms, and writers for leading style magazines are pleased by this development and give THE TRIBUNE credit for starting it.

Mrs. Grace Pickering of Chicago and New York, a noted fashion authority who is chairman of the committee managing the $7,500 contest, said unsought indorsements had come from all branches of the garment industry. The contest deadline was last Thursday midnight and Mrs. Pickering is engaged in the momentous task of picking the best sketches from the 12,491 entries.

Initiative Taken by Chicago.

"The editor of one of the country's leading fashion magazines," said Mrs. Pickering, taking a few minutes off from her work, "told me Chicago had taken the initiative in this. He said his publication had considered a similar contest but that THE TRIBUNE had stolen his thunder."

One of those who heartily praised the competition is Sara Hunter Kelly, a New York and Paris interior decorator. She referred to it as "an extraordinary and unique demonstration of what America can do."

Walter Jaeckel, one of the partners in a large firm business, called it a "splendid idea," and Miss Ghitou Knoop, a Parisian sculptress who is exhibiting her work here, said it was a truly American way to discover American designers.

New York Wakes Up.

New York's awakening to the possibilities of American fashion leadership came July 25, when an afternoon newspaper declared that New York should become the fashion center of the world.

On the same day Mrs. Sally Victor, a noted hat designer, advocated a longtime campaign to make New York the style capital. On July 29 another newspaper fell in line.

David Dubinsky, president of the powerful International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, on Aug. 10 congratulated THE TRIBUNE on its sponsorship of the contest, declaring American designing would aid greatly in reducing unemployment. He has since expressed the same opinion to New Yorkers.

One merchant said the discussion started by THE TRIBUNE would have lasting value.

"It was truly a national contest," he said. "It has made all the big American cities rivals for Paris' old monopoly—and that's all to the good."

PROTESTS RULING TO KEEP TROTSKY BODY OUT OF U. S.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25 (AP).—Albert Goldman, Chicago lawyer, said today he had cabled Secretary of State Hull protesting the state department's refusal to permit the body of Leon Trotsky, slain revolutionary leader, to be taken into the United States.

Goldman said he requested reconsideration of the state department's decision, but planned no legal action should the request be denied.

In a press interview Goldman said a letter reported to have been found on Frank Jackson, Trotsky's assassin, explaining he killed Trotsky because of his "ideological disillusionment" was the "most stupendous blunder the GPU [soviet secret police] ever committed because it proved beyond doubt" that Jackson had acted as an agent in that body.

PAROLEE, PRISON ORGANIST, HELD IN QUIZ ON CAR

Henry Donovan, a parolee who was the Stateville penitentiary organist while he was serving a term for robbing a popcorn stand, was in custody again yesterday.

Donovan, 29 years old, was arrested Saturday, shortly after his return to his home at 112 South Spring avenue, La Grange, because the car he was driving had no license plates.

La Grange police then discovered the car was one which a stranger had taken earlier in the day for a test drive from a used car lot at 5135 Madison street in Chicago. The stranger told the salesman he would go for a drive around the block, but neglected to return. Fillmore street police brought Donovan back and locked him up.

MRS. JOHN WASSUNG.

New York, Aug. 25 (AP).—Mrs. Edward H. Schwab said tonight that she and Mr. Schwab were definitely quite reconciled to the marriage of their daughter yesterday to John Wassung, an insurance company clerk.

She added that her daughter, Mary Jane, niece of the late Charles H. Schwab, millionaire steel magnate, and Wassung were visiting her at her Park avenue home and that the couple had no plans yet as to where they would live. Parents of both bride and groom disclaimed any knowledge of the wedding yesterday when told it had been performed at Elmsford, N. Y.

SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDENT ADMITS 30 BURGLARIES

Robert A. Hansen, 18 years old, was held at the detective bureau yesterday after Detectives Marshall Pidgeon and John Lundon said he had confessed 30 northwest side burglaries. With Hansen was held Ira D. Coryell, 70, a jewelery repairman living behind his shop at 3046 Armitage avenue.

Robert A. Hansen [top] and Ira D. Coryell.

The detectives said Coryell admitted using part of Hansen's loot in his work, but that the jeweler insisted he thought the young man brought it from the Hansen home at 1954 North California avenue. Coryell was arrested Saturday while trying to sell a $275 camera for $50 at a loop camera shop. He said the camera was brought to him by Hansen.

The detectives went to the jewelry shop and arrested Hansen, who, they said, confessed stealing the camera in a burglary at the home of Herman Swenson, 2026 North Mozart street. Swenson, a returned missionary to China, identified the camera. He recognized Hansen, who attends Sunday school at a church with which the missionary is connected.

EX-CONVICT HELD FOR INQUEST IN SLAYING TODAY

James Capello, alias James Romano, an ex-convict, was held by Hudson avenue police for an inquest today into the slaying Saturday of Wallace Petzolt, 26 years old, an unemployed machinist. Petzolt, who lived at 1320 North La Salle street, was shot after a tavern quarrel.

Capello and Petzolt quarreled in the Showboat tavern at 1256 North Clark street, where the slaying victim's wife, Neva, was employed as an entertainer. The shooting occurred in front of the tavern.

Capello, 48 years old, lives at 1335 Larrabee street. He served in the Joliet penitentiary for robbery from 1932 to 1935. He also was arrested several times and served two four month sentences in the Bridewell for auto theft and burglary.

GAMBLERS' TRIAL EXPECTED TO AIR POLITICAL TIEUPS

Johnson, 12 Others Face Court Tomorrow.

Some time between tomorrow and next Christmas the veils of secrecy surrounding the liaison between organized gambling and politics in Chicago will be ripped away. That was the opinion yesterday of federal officials who gathered the evidence to indict William R. Johnson and 12 of his reputed associates, including William R. Skidmore, on charges of evading income taxes.

William R. Johnson [top] and William R. Skidmore.

The occasion of the unveiling will be the trial of the reputed gamblers and political fixers. The place will be the federal District courtroom of Judge John P. Barnes, where the first hearing in the trial will be called at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Finish Fight to Be Made.

United States Attorney William J. Campbell and Defense Attorneys W. W. Smith, Edward J. Hess, George F. Callaghan, and Leslie E. Salter have announced their intention to fight the trial thru to the end—a proceeding expected to require months.

The government will call at least 500 witnesses, Prosecutor Campbell said. Many of these are expected to be drawn from the ranks of thousands of employés hired to operate the handbooks and other gambling enterprises in the syndicate alleged to have been organized by Johnson and Skidmore.

Others, however, probably will be politicians of some consequence. Among these are Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien, County Treasurer John Toman, the former sheriff, and Chief Lester J. Laird of the county highway police. They are expected to be called to repeat the testimony they gave to the grand jury which indicted Johnson, Skidmore, and the others last March.

Tax Conspiracy Alleged.

The indictment charges that Johnson evaded income tax payments totaling $1,887,664 during the years 1936, 1937, 1938, and 1939. Skidmore and the other defendants are accused of conspiring with Johnson in evading the payments. Skidmore also is under indictment for evading his own income taxes and faces trial on Sept. 16.

Those who will be tried with Johnson and Skidmore are Attorney William Goldstein, counsel for Skidmore and Johnson; Andrew J. Creighton, Jack Sommers, James A. Hartigan, John M. Flanagan, William P. Kelly, Ed Walt, and Reginald E. Mackay, reputed managers of gambling resorts; Orrie Alexander, a Skidmore accountant; Miss Bernice Downey, alleged secretary to the syndicate, and Stuart S. Brown, an assistant to Miss Downey.

NEGRO SPIRITUAL FETE HELD TO AID WAR RELIEF FUND

13,500 Hear Solo Stars and Choral Groups.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Despite clouds and a spatter of rain 13,500 persons went to Soldiers' field yesterday afternoon for the American Negro Spiritual festival. They heard four outstanding soloists and a variety of local ensembles in a program of spirituals and miscellaneous other music.

The festival represented the contribution of the American Negro people to Red Cross war relief. Any profits accruing will be turned over to that fund. The project was under the chairmanship of Mrs. Joe Louis, wife of the heavyweight boxing champion. [Joe Louis was present on the rostrum as a guest of honor and acknowledged the cheers and applause of the audience. Louis provided tickets for 5,000 underprivileged children to attend the event.]

Roland Hayes Sings Solo.

The first soloist to appear was Roland Hayes, the distinguished Negro tenor. Among his offerings was the well liked spiritual, "Go Down Moses," sung with great rhythmic strength and richness of tone.

In the aria, "Amour, viens aider," from "Samson and Delilah," the rising Negro contralto, Louise Burge, displayed a rich voice capable of numberless expressive shadings. To her, in yesterday's program scheme, fell what is probably the most widely admired of all Negro spirituals, the serene, confident "Deep River."

The two other soloists—Anne Brown, soprano, and Todd Duncan, baritone—are famous for their work in George Gershwin's folk opera, "Porgy and Bess." Excerpts from that delectable score figured prominently in yesterday's program. Miss Brown was heard in the haunting song called "Summertime," and she filled its measures with that drowsy, sultry quality which changes it from a perfunctory tune into an authentic example of musical communication. Duncan sang "I Got Plenty of Nuttin'" with a carefree swagger and bubbling gayety.

Choral Groups Heard.

Excellent tho the work of the soloists was it remained for the choral groups to give the festival its true popular character. These people glorified their spirituals by the sincerity and enthusiasm with which they sang. There was a genuine lift and exaltation in their work. Whether they sang of the troubles of this world or the bliss of the one to come they put into their voices that persuasive quality which can spring only from utter honesty.

Chief among the choruses was the aggregation of 1,000 directed by J. Wesley Jones. Smaller groups were the Armour Jubilee Singers, Cornelius A. Pierce directing, and the "Wings over Jordan" choir, Worth Kramer directing. A male quartet, the "Southernaires," also was heard.

Officers of the festival, in addition to Mrs. Louis, were W. Louis Davis, Alton A. Davis, and Arthur W. Sewell. The board of directors included Arthur Dixon, W. O. Edwards, James B. Forgan, Dr. Louis L. Mann, E. F. Mansure, Col. Robert Isham Randolph, and Dr. Carl G. Roberts.

SHIFT AIR UNITS TO MAKE ROOM FOR NEW PILOTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—The war department announced today a series of shifts in army air corps units to make room for the training of new pilots under the expansion program.

The transfers, to be made about Sept. 1, include: The 7th bombardment group and a detachment of the 5th air base squadron, from Hamilton Field, Cal., to Fort Douglas, Utah, and Municipal airport, Salt Lake City. DR. DE FOREST ARRIVES IN CITY FOR PARLEY ON TORPEDO AIRPLANE

Dr. De Forest.

Dr. Lee De Forest, the "father of radio," said yesterday that development of a pilotless television torpedo plane on which he is working may be completed in a year. He said the device would provide the United States military forces with an inexpensive means of obtaining information by aerial surveys and also would act as a robot bomber.

Dr. De Forest arrived in Chicago from his home in Los Angeles, Cal., on the Santa Fe Super Chief. He was met at the Dearborn station by U. A. Sanabria, president of American Television Laboratories, with whom he will confer on the torpedo plane.

Sanabria was the originator of the idea, Dr. De Forest said. It is being tested at Wright field, near Dayton, O. Dr. De Forest said the flight of the torpedo plane would be directed by radio from a mother ship 10 or more miles distant. Television cameras, movable by ardio, would be placed in the nose of the torpedo plane, he said, and a bomb could be carried beneath the fuselage.

Dr. De Forest, who will celebrate his 67th birthday today, will be honored at a dinner in the Drake hotel celebrating National Radio day.

tween victory and defeat. These 50 world war destroyers could be of no higher service to their country's safety than if, by maintaining England's naval supremacy, they can keep England's enemy and our own from the shores of the United States."

He asserted that destruction of the British fleet, even tho it were not acquired by England's enemies, "would leave us faced in each ocean with a navy superior to our own or any that can be built in the next five years."

If the British navy is overcome, he contended, the United States will need three navies, one to watch the Japanese, one to patrol the western hemisphere, and one to stop "an enemy on the other side of the Atlantic."

Tells Nazi Designs on U. S.

If the British navy should fall into German hands, he said, "our enemies in combination could land an army upon this continent."

And, he added, "Day by day increased evidence comes to hand that the destruction of the United States is part of Hitler's plan."

Col. Breckenridge asserted that "50 destroyers to England today may be worth 500 to us five weeks from now." now."

He contended that the 50 vessels would not affect seriously the defensive power of the United States against the Japanese fleet, but, added to the British forces at this time, "may well avoid the necessity some day of sustaining a united attack upon us by the German, Italian, and Japanese navies, reinforced by captured remnants of the British and French navies."

PASTOR PLUNGES TO DEATH FROM OFFICE BUILDING

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Rev. James W. Herring, 43 years old, Baptist minister of Wauwatosa, Wis., plunged to his death today from the 13th floor of the Pioneer building in the loop.

A widow and daughter survive Mr. Herring, whose body will be sent to Wauwatosa tomorrow.

Bandits Kidnap Jeweler; Rob Him of $12,000 Gems

Three bandits last night kidnaped William Levine, 31 years old, partner in a jewelry manufacturing firm, and took a handbag containing $12,000 worth of jewelry before freeing him. He told Albany Park police that the three forced him into a sedan as he left the firm headquarters at 37 South Wabash avenue. One man drove while Levine rode in the back seat between the other two.

After an hour's drive one man left the car, taking the jewelry with him. The others freed Levine in the 3800 block on North Kildare avenue, he said. He lives at 6916 Clyde avenue.

DICTATOR RULE BASIS PREPARED, BARRETT WARNS

G. O. P. Candidate Cites President's Powers.

George F. Barrett.

George F. Barrett, Republican nominee for attorney general, charged yesterday that the complete machinery for an American dictatorship has been set up in Washington, D. C., ready to be put into motion by a Presidential emergency proclamation. He spoke at a 15th ward Republican rally in Justice park.

"Piece by piece the whole engine has been assembled during the last seven years," said Barrett. "The now dormant emergency powers delegated to the President can be evoked by a single executive order declaring a full state of emergency.

"We have been lulled into a false sense of security by the explanation that these emergency powers are for wartime only. But most of them could be invoked by a mere proclamation of national peril.

President's Powers Cited.

"Under our constitution, only congress can declare war, but, for the first time in our history, a President may declare a full wartime emergency that will make him a complete dictator over industry, agriculture, labor, banking, transportation, and communications."

Barrett said the detailed specifications underlying his charges were based on a forthcoming book, "The Dead Hand of Bureaucracy," by Lawrence Sullivan, a Washington correspondent, an analytical discussion of the multiplication of departments, divisions, bureaus, and commissions in Washington during the last 50 years.

Barrett quoted from Sullivan's book charges that Roosevelt issued 2,538 executive orders in seven years and that Lincoln issued only two such orders during the entire civil war, and that the United States has spent more for emergency relief than Germany has spent for armaments.

Martin Leaves for Oregon.

Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee, who spoke Saturday in Peoria, came into Chicago yesterday but left immediately by airplane for Salem, Ore., where he will take part tomorrow in the official notification of Senator Charles R. McNary, Vice Presidential nominee. He was accompanied by Senator John G. Townsend Jr. of Delaware, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee. Col. Frank L. Smith, Illinois' member of the notification committee, left for Salem several days ago.

It was announced that Congressman Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, who placed Wendell Willkie's name in nomination at the convention in Philadelphia, Pa., will be principal speaker at the Cook county Republican organization picnic in Riverview park on Labor day, a week from today.

DRUGGIST FAILS TO FIND CLEWS IN WIFE'S DEATH

Edward Von Hermann, a Chicago druggist, vainly sought information about the death of his wife, Alice, from passengers and crew members of the Californian, Rock Island train, when it arrived yesterday at the La Salle street station. Mrs. Von Hermann's body was found Friday beside the tracks about 70 miles out of Los Angeles.

Von Hermann was accompanied by his son-in-law, George W. Booth, and an attorney, Morris Sider. They did not proceed far with their questioning when crew members explained they had been on the train only for the latter part of the journey.

A stewardess, Miss Helen Dickson, was on duty during the entire trip but disclaimed knowledge of the matter.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT DISCLAIMS SENATE PROD IN BRIDGES QUIZ

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—The justice department said today that its investigation of whether Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. maritime leader, was subject to deportation was undertaken on its own initiative.

The senate committee on immigration recommended such an investigation in reporting a substitute for a house approved bill which would require expulsion of the labor leader.

Attorney General Robert H. Jackson directed J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, to make the inquiry into the Bridges case. Hoover was instructed to determine whether Bridges should be returned to his native Australia, under the recently enacted Smith law making deportable an alien who at any time has been a member of a subversive organization.

Is America Going Soft?

BY HOLGAR J. JOHNSON
President Institute of Life Insurance

JOHNSON

THE enemies of democracy are saying that we are going soft. I recognize the danger, but I challenge the fact.

Perhaps we are riding when we ought to walk. Maybe we are sitting in the stands when we ought to be playing in the game. That doesn't prove that we are soft, however. In the last war, our boys proved they could hold their own in endurance with anybody.

Our critics say things are too easy for us industrially—that we have far more than our share of raw materials. Well, I can show you places on the world map where there are plenty of raw materials with nobody using them, and I can show you other places where raw materials were never used until Americans came in and started things humming.

A high standard of living does not necessarily mean softness, as long as we realize that this standard depends on an honest day's work. I believe that most people who count recognize this and live up to it.

TO me a real proof of the toughness of our moral fiber is our willingness to sacrifice some of today's luxury and pleasure to gain tomorrow's security for our families and ourselves. A nation where 64 millions people carry life insurance for this purpose certainly hasn't gone soft.

And I have a deep-seated conviction that anyone who tries to take away from the rank and file of America its hard-earned standards of living and its hard-won security, will find he has caught a Tartar.

THE CAMPAIGN
Both Sides of it

The Tribune is under no political or financial obligations to any one. It is free therefore to present the claims of both national committees, so that you may draw your own conclusions.

REPUBLICAN

This Is the Difference!

BY CARLISLE BARGERON.
[Assigned by Republican National Committee.]

There is something pathetically naive about the New Dealers, either real or affected, as they go into this campaign. Startled out of their cynical smugness by the miraculous appearance of the Willkie star in the skies, offering a hope and renewed courage to a sorely distressed people, they huddle together like the heathens of Noah's time and whine:

"What have we done? He's just like us. He believes in what we do. Why does he intend to strike us down?"

Those fellows down in Washington, being smart-alecky "brilliants," are inclined to look upon religion, just as Hitlerites and Stalinists, and other followers of so-called great personalities, as something old fashioned and out of date. But like all gamblers they are superstitious—and how.

So now they see all sorts of evil omens. They see a dynamic figure rise up out of the foggy bickering at Philadelphia, and they see the people turn to him. They are frightened. The cockiness which was reflected in Harry Hopkins' famous statement, "the people are too damned dumb to understand," is failing to sustain them. A serious danger to this country is that as a hysteria envelops them in the next few weeks, they will do something that will fairly wreck all of us.

This is the DIFFERENCE between him and Roosevelt.

Willkie Will Not Perform Any Miracles.

We do not know of any LAW he intends passing to bring this difference about, or of any particular law he intends to repeal. If he were not genuine he could undoubtedly think up a new law to appeal to particular blocs of voters, maybe one making it the LAW OF THE LAND, that henceforth everybody shall be happy with a penalty for violation of a $5,000 fine or five years in jail, or both. This is the New Deal's way of doing things.

No, Wendell Willkie will not perform any miracles—we don't think. What he will do will be to give the country the INSPIRATIONAL leadership it so badly needs. We can't imagine he will have the time to comment on this person or that person's salary, that he would complain about the fact that a boy prodigy in the movies gets more money than the President, as Mr. Roosevelt once did, that he would be envious of successful men when ours is supposed to be a nation of successful men.

He would not spend his time cultivating the less-privileged by saying to them "Look, how much that fellow up there gets." He would be concerned in the less-privileged getting more themselves.

They Have Ruined English Language.

They may frequently use the SAME words—Messrs. Roosevelt and Willkie. The DIFFERENCE is in the meanings which the two men attach to them.

Mr. Roosevelt and his "brilliant" associates have ruined the English language, perhaps as something else out-moded. When he says "making democracy work," he means packing the Supreme court and abandonment of the legislative processes. For Wendell Willkie, "making democracy work" means a free people, unrestricted in their energies and initiative and spirit of enterprise, creating enough wealth to take care of those of lesser opportunity or lesser ability.

Mr. Roosevelt apparently has never realized that the greatest single complaint against him, is not the supposed beneficences to less privileged people, but that they have been given out of DEBT instead of increased wealth which the more privileged people would gladly create if given the opportunity.

The DIFFERENCE between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie is a difference of heart and of mind. How on earth Mr. Roosevelt can have any appreciation of the "working man's" problems, except as he reads about them in books or is informed in the memoranda of his brain trusters, is impossible of understanding. He has never lived other than a cloistered existence, he has never known the pain of hunger.

Wendell Willkie knows more about plain people than one picks up from the servants on a Hyde Park estate. He knows about plain people from being one of them.

There are a lot of differences between the two men.

A Present Bewildered and Sick People.

The difference is as between night and day; between a present bewildered and sick people and a nation on the march again, which in the past has had the admiration and respect of the whole world. The difference is as between a people plaintively saying they hope Hitler doesn't get over here, and a people so strong and so restored in confidence in themselves that the very suggestion of his coming over, would give them a laugh.

The New Dealer's can't understand these things because life has been a bed of roses for them. There are pay raises in Washington and the ranks of burocracy, generally, every day. The wife of a burocrat doesn't have to long for a new hat. There has never been any suggestion that the "frontiers of opportunity" are closed in the field of burocracy.

It is to the great rank and file of people, those millions not a part of the great "social movement" which the New Deal calls itself, those millions not drawing $10,000 a year and more, as well as the perquisites that go with a government big shot, for thinking—the millions not in on this gigantic racket are the ones to whom Wendell Willkie gives a new lease on life.

DEMOCRATIC

Death of a Newspaper!

NIGHTMARE.

No matter what he professes to believe, a man's attitude on the fundamentals of democracy is best evidenced by his treatment of the basic rights of free press and free speech.

This space today is given over to the story of the Chattanooga News, a newspaper published in Tennessee, which was driven to the wall by financial pressure applied by the Commonwealth & Southern corporation during the time when Wendell L. Willkie was the corporation's president. The owner of the News, George Fort Milton, a liberal publisher, lost his paper because he had the courage to speak out in favor of municipally owned power plants, a policy violently opposed by the Willkie company.

The story briefly is this. The legislature of Tennessee authorized the city of Chattanooga to establish a municipal power plant, provided the project was approved by the voters in a referendum. Milton's paper, the News, favored the project. A campaign in opposition was started by the Tennessee Electric Power company, a subsidiary of Commonwealth & Southern, which was then supplying the city with power.

Is This Fair Play or Not?

The power company, of course, had a perfect right to use legitimate methods in fighting the municipal plant. The newspaper had a perfect right to carry on a campaign in favor of its construction. The question is one of ethics and fair dealing. The power company decided to punish the News for its stand.

The Chattanooga Free Press had been published as a semiweekly, but after the battle over the municipal referendum it suddenly blossomed forth as a daily afternoon newspaper published in competition with the Chattanooga News. The power company immediately switched its advertising from the News to the Free Press, paid the latter exorbitant rates for advertising, and gave $10,000 to one of its own attorneys, who in turn handed the money over to the Free Press.

Other tactics favorable to the Free Press were employed. The character of these tactics may be judged by the fact that the railroad and public utilities commission of Tennessee investigated the case and found the power company GUILTY on 917 counts of using illegal methods to destroy the Chattanooga News.

Report to Congress on Investigation.

The charge that a newspaper was driven out of business because of its editorial stand on vital public questions should not be made lightly. Therefore we quote from the joint committee of congress, appointed to investigate the Tennessee Valley authority. This committee was composed of both Democrats and Republicans. The report said [page 200]:

"In October, 1938, after the committee had heard testimony on the matter, an investigation was ordered by the railroad and public utilities commission of the state of Tennessee. On Feb. 10, 1939, the commission handed down an opinion finding that:

"[1] The Tennessee Electric Power company had from September, 1936, thru June, 1938, allowed the Chattanooga Free Press to pay less for electric energy than was called for by its schedule of rates; [2] the power company paid to the Free Press for advertising amounts far 'in excess of regular rates for advertising'; and [3] the power company paid to the Free Press $10,000 thru Silas Williams for the purpose of aiding the Free Press 'to pay these past and future power bills.' The commission referred the whole matter to a state district attorney for action under the Tennessee laws relating to public utilities."

Harassed by Economic Pressure.

A small city newspaper limited in revenue is a ready victim when harassed by economic pressure. An ironical circumstance is that the name of the rival paper, backed by the power interests to do the job, was the Free Press.

It would be in error to assume that Mr. Willkie was unaware of what his subsidiary company was doing because his own company participated in the municipal election by other means. How this conforms with the announced intention of Candidate Willkie to defend "the American way of life" is something for him to explain.

WILLKIE QUOTES F. D. R.--'NO MAN INDISPENSABLE'

Recalls 1932 Statement of President Roosevelt.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 25.—Without comment, Wendell Willkie today produced an excerpt from a speech delivered almost eight years ago by his Democratic opponent for the Presidency, Franklin D. Roosevelt, in which Mr. Roosevelt quoted and approved Woodrow Wilson's political adage that "there is no indispensable man."

The G. O. P. nominee called attention to three paragraphs in an address the President made to the Republicans for Roosevelt league here in New York on Nov. 3, 1932, as his campaign for his first term was ending.

Recall Roosevelt's Words.

Roosevelt told that meeting:

"In speaking for the common purposes of all of these forward looking men and women I have, I believe, avoided the delusion that this is a campaign of persons or of personalities.

"To indulge in such a fantastic idea of my own individual importance would be to betray the common hope and the common cause that has brought us all together this year.

"A great man [Wilson], left us a watchword that we can well repeat: 'There is no indispensable man.'"

Willkie spent a fairly quiet Sunday but was at his hotel headquarters for a part of the day. He was asked whether he would accept the invitation to debate campaign issues extended by his fellow Hoosier and old school mate, Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator.

No Substitute for Willkie.

Willkie's reply indicated that it is his intention not to accept any substitutes for his opponent in an oratorical battle. He challenged the President in his acceptance speech at Elwood and repeated it the moment he was informed Roosevelt had declined.

"These debate suggestions of New Dealers are quite amusing," the nominee said. "It is particularly interesting that the President refuses to debate because he is too busy, while having ample time to make purely 'non-political' dedicatory addresses. Perhaps Secretary Ickes assigned the real cause for the refusal, —namely, that it would lessen the Presidential dignity.

"Debating with McNutt would be a pure loss of time. Paul is a persistent fellow who is trying to keep in the picture after a rather rough and forced exit at the Chicago New Deal convention. It is a little tough going for him, but he is a likeable chap."

Talks With Simpson.

Willkie disclosed that he had talked over the long distance telephone with Kenneth F. Simpson, former Republican national committeeman from New York, who is in Nova Scotia recuperating from a recent illness.

Upon his return Simpson will go out to Rushville, Ind., to discuss the New York political situation with Willkie, who expects to return to Rushville some time this week.

Among the nominee's appointments tomorrow is a luncheon with former State Senator Frank J. Harris of Pittsburgh, independent Republican and former Pinchot leader, who will advise the nominee on conditions in western Pennsylvania.

Indorsed by Novelist.

Willkie today released the text of a telegraphic indorsement he received from Ellen Glasgow, the Virginia novelist whose works he has read for years and thoroughly admires.

"I rejoice in your sincere and courageous declaration of principles," Miss Glasgow wired. "You stand, I believe, for the enduring values in American life. With other Virginians who have been loyal to Democratic tradition I shall vote in Virginia not for the name of a political party but country in this critical hour."

Campaign Aids Appointed.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 [Special].—Francis E. Rivers of New York City and Sidney R. Redmond of St. Louis, both lawyers, have been appointed heads of the eastern and western sections, respectively, of the colored division of the Republican national campaign, Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr., chairman of the Republican national committee, announced today.

URUGUAY CELEBRATES 115TH ANNIVERSARY OF HER INDEPENDENCE

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug. 25.—Uruguay today celebrated the 115th anniversary of her independence. Civic organizations thruout the country held patriotic meetings and crowds shouted insults at Fascism and Nazism as orators extolled democracy.

Newspapers, with the exception of Montevideo's three Fascist sympathizers, urged their readers to defend democracy against Fascism.

In Montevideo President Alfredo Baldomir reviewed a parade of Uruguay's armed forces.

THE THIRD TERM CALL TO ARMS.

Mr. Roosevelt now has the authority he desired to call the National Guard out for training and for service as far away as the Philippines. That commonwealth is included, he said, just in case. There was only one chance in a hundred of an overseas expedition being required, but Mr. Roosevelt wanted the authority for it. The guard and the regular army have been engaged in very useful maneuvers in the regular course, not the least useful because they revealed that the men had to use trucks for tanks and gas pipes for antitank guns.

Mr. Roosevelt also wants conscription, and he wants it now. He demands that congress pass a law which will permit the draft boards to go to work as soon as possible. A senator remarked that he didn't see the political sense of sending men to their polling places to register for peacetime conscription in October when many of them would be returning to the same polling places to vote in November. Some one must see some political sense in it.

Any one who thinks that the Democratic candidate would jeopardize his chances of election with his eyes wide open has a strange opinion of that candidate's interest in his own future. Mr. Roosevelt has already made the supreme sacrifice to get that third term. He said he had sacrificed the desire to retire to the demands of his conscience. Such a sacrifice absolves him from making any others.

Consequently it isn't to be assumed that Mr. Roosevelt thinks he is risking anything by demanding conscription now, and the reasoning back of his idea makes itself very clear. He has offered himself as a war candidate. It is his story that if there had been no war nothing could have induced him to go after another term. If he is to be taken at his word, he would not have run again to preserve what he calls the social gains of the New Deal. He would have left them to take their chances with another man, possibly a Republican, or possibly a Democrat who was not a New Dealer. Only the war changed Mr. Roosevelt's mind, according to his account of the inner struggle between inclination and duty.

According, then, to the New Deal campaign prospectus, the war makes Mr. Roosevelt the indispensable man. This is the campaign slogan. It is the cry which is to arouse the country. It is the vote getter. If that is the program, the New Deal will be played down and the new war will be played up. If the campaign is to be made on the war, the war activities must be multiplied. The imminence of war must appear greater as the election comes nearer.

A candidate who has put that sail up on his boat must fill it with the winds he needs. If war is his only excuse for doing something no other President ever did, then war must be made to seem very near and very real, if, indeed, it is not actually to be undertaken. Anything which made it seem very close and very terrible, according to this line of reasoning, would be good politics. And so Mr. Roosevelt can be explained politically. If there is a better political explanation it will be welcomed.

Mr. Willkie, it would appear, intends to direct the attention of the people to their domestic problems. He says that they cannot undertake the defense of their country with the best guaranties of success until they have corrected some of the economic ills into which they have been pushed. He proposes to correct those ills without omitting any right measures to build up the army, navy, and air force.

But Mr. Roosevelt will attempt to smother the discussion of the troubles at home with the roll of the drums and the sound of marching men. He is too busy to discuss the conditions which the New Deal has created. He is inspecting military works and drafting military bills. He is in consultation with his generals and admirals. He is trying to send American warships into combat. Each week he raises the war excitement a little higher. He will make war, if he can, the overwhelming preoccupation of the people. Their men folk will be in camps which don't exist, learning to use weapons they don't possess. And he will be indispensable to the whole vast scene of confused military activity.

Long ago it was foreseen what would happen if he could not be deterred and would not restrain himself from seeking a third term. That ambition would upset the country when it should be considering its defense needs without even the suspicion that the third termers were playing politics with them. The drive for the third term plunges head on into questions of military policy and scatters sober and reasoning consideration of them to the winds.

People who believe that most of the present agitation is vote getting stuff intended to put over the third term at any cost, even of war, cannot have any faith in the proposals or the proposers. When an unruly political ambition is entangled with a defense program in critical times two dangers are presented; one that the ambition will succeed; the other that the defense program will fail. Mr. Roosevelt's conscience was no friend of his nation. If he wishes he had more than one life to give to his country it would be to spend all of them in the White House.

NLRB IN THE COURTS.

In what is usually the quiet season in the courts, the federal Courts of Appeals about the country have been unusually active in handing down decisions interpreting the most contentious of the New Deal's measure, the Wagner labor relations act.

The Timken Silent Automatic corporation was ordered Tuesday by the Court of Appeals in New York to reinstate 18 employés found to have been discharged for union activities, and to cease from further labor practices. This sustained an order of the National Labor Relations board. What makes the decision remarkable is that the corporation was dissolved three years ago. A dead corporation is no more able than a dead person to provide jobs or alter its practices.

More to be wondered at is the decision of the same day by the federal Court of Appeals at Boston in the case of the Waumec Mills, Inc., of Manchester, N. H. The two textile workers who were involved in the case had applied for jobs when the company began to manufacture rayons in an old mill of the Amoskeag company which had been idle for two years. There was considerable unemployment at Manchester at the time and several applicants for every job. In interviewing the applicants the mill superintendent asked them about their union affiliation and learned that the two had been textile union officials. Testifying before the labor board examiner, the employer said that he hadn't hired the two men because he learned they were trouble makers, and anyhow, plenty of younger men were available. The two men sought reinstatement and back pay altho they were working all the while in another rayon mill. The court sustained an order of the labor board which ordered the Waumec mills to "reinstate" and pay several years' back pay to two officials of the textile workers' union who had never been on the firm's pay roll.

It may be another year before these cases are finally passed upon by the Supreme court, and by that time the labor relations law may be a far different instrument than it now is. If the law really means what the courts have said, the arguments for amendment or repeal have been strongly reinforced. Popular opinion won't support a law which makes it possible for a man to collect years of pay from a job which he never had.

HOW TO AVOID EXCESS PROFITS TAXES.

It is now proposed that the contemplated unified traction company lease and operate the Chicago Motor Coach company instead of buying it.

The reason given for this is that the bus company is carried on the books of its parent corporation, the Omnibus corporation, at a valuation of $2,750,000. It has been reported that $8,500,000 would be paid for the property. If that were done the Omnibus corporation would realize a profit of $5,750,000 and would have to pay about $2,300,000 of the sale price to the federal government in income and excess profits taxes.

A simpler solution of this difficulty would be to buy the bus company for what it is actually worth, which is probably far closer to its book value than to $8,500,000. Its physical properties, consisting of a few garages and shops and some buses that are being bought on time and are running up obsolescence as they are being paid for, may be worth the book value, but we prefer to see an accurate appraisal before committing ourselves.

The only basis on which a price even approaching $8,500,000 can be justified is that of capitalized earnings. The bus company has thruout its history been a marginal utility. It has charged a 10 cent fare and has skimmed the cream off the transportation market by cutting out owl service and abandoning routes that proved unprofitable. Its own officers have justified these tactics by the statement that the public has not suffered, since the surface lines and "L" have given the unprofitable service that the buses failed to provide.

The bus company is the only one of the three existing transportation systems which it has been suggested should be valued on this basis of capitalized earnings. Indeed, if that basis were applied to the "L" lines, the present owners would have to pay a purchaser to take the properties off their hands. If the bus company were merged in a unified system most of the advantages to which it owes its profits would disappear. The purchaser on the capitalized earning basis would be paying for a dead horse, which the users of the system would have to embalm with their fares.

The public has not forgotten the anxious cries of the aldermen, "Where is the bus company?" every time they met to discuss the traction settlement. On behalf of the bus company officials it must be conceded that none of their public acts has given any justification for that anxiety. Nevertheless, the tenderness shown at the city hall toward bus company valuations leaves ground for suspicion that some people still think there's gold in them buses.

This discussion may be regarded as largely academic. It does not appear that the politicians, the courts, the securities holders, and the New Dealers are going to get together on the traction franchise for a long time. If Harold Ickes is interested in the fate of his subway he should advertise for bids on a few tons of mushroom spawn. It's not going to be used for anything else for quite a while.

Honest Harold has, of course, already collected one dividend on his PWA millions. They helped reelect Mayor Kelly, and thus were a means of providing that peerless leader of sentiment at the Chicago Stadium—The Voice of the Sewers.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER.

[Memphis Commercial Appeal.]

Once regarded as a purely southern institution, but long since disowned and revealed as the antithesis of all that is pure southern Americanism, the Ku Klux Klan has finally degenerated to the point where it seeks refuge in the camp of the German-American bund.

On Sunday the eastern units of what remains of the $10 a head nightshirt organization took over the bund sector in New Jersey's Camp Nordlund and staged a mutual lovefest with the American Nazis. They called it an "Americanism" rally.

It was inevitable that the two should get together in the same nest, for their feathering is identical. Both are intolerant. Both make the inspiring of racial hatred a fetish. Both make organized religion the butt of their attacks. For some months they have been carrying a propaganda torch for each other. Now they have gotten together and the country should be glad of it. It will be easier to find them when the time comes.

POLITICAL FOLLOWINGS IN MEXICO.

The personal opinion of a Mexican in an important post in the Cardenas régime as to the political situation in Mexico is contained in a recent letter. "I have obtained the most exact information possible," the writer says, and appends the following table:

	Pct. with Camacho.	Pct. with Almazan.
People in general	5	95
People who voted	10	90
Governors of the 32 states	95	5
Mayors of towns	80	20
Senators and deputies	98	2
Members of the cabinet	90	10
Generals of the army in service	80	20
Highest grade officials of the army in service	70	30
Lower grade officials of the army in service	10	90
Soldiers of the army in service	5	95
Supreme court	75	25
President Cardenas	?	?

"Note: Five per cent of the voters were forced to do so for Camacho and the voting machinery was in the hands of the Camachistas, since the day before the election, against the law, thus preventing the Almazanistas from voting in the official places. Therefore, the Almazanistas had to install their own places against the official rules for voting.

Style News.

The days are shorter, there is a distinct premonition of autumn in the air, and the fashion shows that indicate the styles in clothes, hats, and complexions for the new season are under way. There was a corset manufacturer's style show last week, too. The firm member who was describing the models made an interesting announcement.

"Breasts," he said pontifically, "will be in a normal position this year."

• • •

The corset manufacturer's pronouncement brings to mind Princess Rostislav's story of the two dress shop proprietors who were lunching at an adjacent table in a New York restaurant. It was when the "long torso" first became style news last spring.

"You ought to see my new long torso," said one. "It's selling like hot cakes."

Indian Art Motif.

A visitor in town last week was Rene D'Harnoncourt, big, broad-shouldered artist and authority on Indian art for the American government, who was on his way east to help arrange the forthcoming exhibit of American Indian art at the New York Museum of Modern Art which is being put on by the Indian arts and crafts board of the United States department of the interior. The American theme in autumn styles includes American Indian inspired clothes and jewelry, as well as South American. Mr. D'Harnoncourt is working with clothes designers in the east, transmitting authentic American Indian designs. Beaded buckskin jackets, for instance, are an autumn style.

"The trouble is," worried Mr. D'Harnoncourt, "when real Indian craftsmanship is used it is impossible to turn out the desired quantity, so, because of the craze for things Indian, department stores will be flooded with cheap imitation Indian things."

An Indian woman who does bead work practically dreams her designs, he pointed out, and her skilful fingers copy out the dreams in her head. You can't dream enough designs for an order for, say, 2,000 jackets for one department store.

Editorial of the Day

GO TO PRISON AND GET RICH.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Go to prison and make yourself rich. Since life in a penitentiary is not usually associated with business opportunities, that idea may seem a trifle odd, but it's no dream, anyhow not in our state.

For if we understand George A. Kropp, corrections commission secretary, a Michigan thug in retirement from the world needs only a few dollars for capital, an acquisitive mind, and maybe a little pull with the management to be set. While others work for the state in expiation of their sins, he can have people working for him.

Take the case of Killer Burke, lately deceased in Marquette prison. According to the record as now published, Burke cleaned up $8,000 while sojourning at the institution. He did so by obtaining and operating an exclusive concession for the manufacture and sale of curios. He had several fellow convicts on his pay roll, and he peddled his stuff to tourists who stopped at the familiar little shop on the highway which runs past the prison.

Mr. Kropp in revealing these somewhat plutocratic details hastens to explain that the concession system is a fairly common practice in Michigan and there really is "no favoritism."

That is as it may be, but allowing a man to go into a manufacturing business on a more or less monopolistic basis and employ a number of hands, seems like a funny way of punishing him for committing a heinous crime.

A 75 m. p. h. hurricane ripped thru Charleston, S. C., the other day, doing considerable damage. However, it was reported that none of the older natives were blown off their high horses.—Washington Post.

A boom between now and Nov. 5 will be ascribed to [A] the New Deal and its works or [B] the expectations of a Republican victory. Vote for one.—Illinois State Register.

VITAMIN B IN FACIAL NEURALGIA.

NOWADAYS one cannot take a mouthful of food without encountering one or more vitamins. Some of our friends, fearful of these powerful chemicals, look under the bed at night to make certain that none is in hiding. For the most part, however, they are peaceful substances and much unhappiness can come if the diet does not contain them in adequate proportions.

We know that certain specific diseases may follow their absence. For example, when totally deprived for weeks of oranges or fresh edibles [vegetables or meats] the loathsome sores of scurvy may appear. But to expect that every malady known to man will be checked thru their influence is asking quite too much.

Recently, however, reports on what is termed the Borsook technique for the control of tic douloureux [trigeminal neuralgia] have shown such striking results that further trial is warranted. The program calls for intravenous injections of one of the fractions of B. In addition, rice bran extract and liver are administered by mouth. The diet is held low in starches and sugars altho extra quantities of fish oil for the purpose of supplying D are prescribed.

Within two or three months there comes a definite response and the management is continued until the patient is free from discomfort for at least 60 days. Thereafter, the daily "shots" are reduced gradually to one per week.

A case described by Matzger is that of a woman of 59 who had been troubled since 1932. The old-time remedy—the injection of alcohol—was utilized in 1933. For 18 months she was without pain. The second treatment in 1935 was less successful, while the third in 1937 and the fourth in 1938 were without the slightest value.

Under the Borsook plan, which was initiated in February, 1939, there was continuous alleviation from the outset. By June the patient was herself again—with a new outlook on life, increased appetite, normal body functions, and a generous amount of energy. The remedy was discontinued in August but a relapse occurred in November and she is now convalescing slowly under a renewal of the régime.

Another individual had been a victim for 12 years. A seizure would be experienced should anything touch the left side of the lower lip, or should he face a cold wind or engage in chewing or talking. He had been wholly incapacitated since 1934. Alcohol introduced into the vicinity of the affected nerve brought but temporary respite. The new treatment was begun in June of 1939 with progressive recovery. Entire cessation of all indisposition was achieved by August. He is now taking B orally—so far without any sign of recurrence.

In addition to the pronounced effect upon the principal ailment, Matzger states that the improvement in general health and nutrition was so marked that he has employed the routine procedure with others not afflicted with periodical attacks of pain. Apparently many conditions once thought to be inflammatory in origin may be proved to be merely food deficiencies.

Investigators were led to try the method in tic douloureux because of the effectiveness of B1 in easing the distress which so frequently accompanies chronic alcoholism and pregnancy. In addition it was hoped that there might be found a substitute for the surgical process which involves cutting completely or partially the sensory root of the Gasserian ganglion within the skull.

In the original study of Borsook and others, 58 patients with facial neuralgia were given large doses of vitamin B1, most of whom were offered the added assistance of liver extracts. Fifty-two of this number were helped and others had short remissions with freedom from symptoms. Observations of these authorities have now extended over 16 months. Only four failed to receive some benefit.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

THE WARLIKE MR. BULLITT.

Keokuk, Ia., Aug. 21.—In his Philadelphia speech Ambassador to France William G. Bullitt, asked: "When are we going to tell our government that we want to defend our homes and our children and our liberties, whatever the cost, in money or blood?"

Mr. Bullitt was really addressing, I would say, our young men approximately 26 years of age—average age between 21 and 31. Now note that Mr. Bullitt himself was just 26 when our government was calling for young men for the world war; one might imagine that he has a 23 year old army rifle with notches all over its barrel to help him keep track of the Germans he slew in battle.

But Senator Wheeler, statesman with a distinguished world war record, comments on Bullitt's speech as follows:

"That is what Bullitt did the beginning of the last war. After shouting for war at the top of his lungs, he being 26 years of age at that time, he found himself a safe place in a 'coffee cooling' job in the state department during the progress of the war."

But Mr. Bullitt was probably required by the federal administration to send up this "trial balloon" just as Senator Pepper of Florida a few days ago suggested a dictator would be about right for now. Mr. Roosevelt would hardly be too busy to consider well the reactions to these inspired statesmen's [?] wise cracks, notwithstanding his assurances to our citizens that he doesn't have his mind on political matters at all, at all, at all.

BIRDWELL SUTLIVE.

PLEADS FOR MOURNING DOVES.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Last Sunday morning a gentle rain was falling. In the tall elm on the parkway a mourning dove was cooing softly—one of the sweetest sounds in the world. "Each cooing dove and sighing bough."

In the country when we were children a pair built each year on the low branch of an evergreen tree. We guarded the little nest as something precious. Yet these innocent, lovely birds, so rarely seen or heard any more, are listed as "game birds" to be slaughtered by "sportsmen" when the season opens in October. Why they were ever put there in the first place is one of the mysteries of our so-called civilization.

Legislators, humane agents, and a prominent nature writer promised several years ago to do everything in their power to change this law, but these vanishing birds are still on the death list. C. W.

BLOCKADE WARFARE.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Ever hear of the Boston tea party? Remember how the colonists resented the restrictions on getting their tea with the exorbitant taxes levied? "Take it or leave it," and they wouldn't take it.

Well, you have a coffee party in Europe today altho it embraces pretty nearly everything man needs or uses. Can't buy coffee in Europe neutral or otherwise, England says so. Brazil needs the business, but that is beside the point.

Incidentally no warfare is so cruel, so devastating in result as the blockade warfare. Easier to drown or die from bombs than to see women and children slowly starved to death and be impotent. Let us keep out of the war—there are two sides to it. OBSERVER.

COLORED WOMEN'S WORK.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—I wish to voice appreciation, as I know thousands of our men and women also feel, for the splendid article which appeared in The Tribune on Woman's week at the American Negro exposition.

The article which Miss Betty Browning wrote will serve as a stimulation to the great army of colored women whose lives are devoted to service and the betterment of all humankind. ETTA MOTEN.

MR. ICKES' PARTIES.

Appleton, Wis., Aug. 22.—Listening to Secretary Ickes' criticism of Wendell Willkie's departure from the Democratic party and his talk about Mr. Willkie's "current party," one wonders whether he, himself, has been as loyal in his party affiliations as he would have the public believe.

The following record is taken from his biography in "Who's Who in America," 1938-'39:

1912-'14—Chairman Progressive County committee, Cook county.
1914-'16—Chairman Illinois Progressive State committee.
1915-'16—Member Progressive National committee.
1916—Member Republican Campaign Executive committee in charge of Hughes' campaign for President.
1916—Delegate at large to Progressive National convention.
1920—Delegate to Republican national convention.
1924—Illinois manager of Hiram Johnson's presidential campaign.
1926—Manager, Hugh S. Magill, independent Republican candidate for United States senator.
1932—Chairman National Progressive League for Roosevelt and Garner.
1933-'40—Secretary of the Interior in President Roosevelt's cabinet.

PROTESTS MUSEUM DISCHARGES.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Whatever the reason for such a course, it must always produce a painful impression on the public when a new institutional head proceeds to discharge valued members of the staff who are familiar with their duties.

I have no personal acquaintance with any member of the staff of the Rosenwald Museum of Science and Industry, but whenever I have had occasion to seek information or advice there I have always been impressed with the intelligent and efficient service rendered by various staff members. For instance, I have greatly admired the evidences of skilful and devoted planning, carried on apparently under difficulties, by the librarian to build up a library and library service which should be useful to the public interested in science and industry.

Presumably the reason for wholesale dismissal of valuable museum employés is economy. If the board of the museum were to take the public somewhat into its confidence, is it not possible that a way might be found to avoid what can scarcely fail to be a serious blow at the usefulness of the Rosenwald museum?

AMONG THE PENSIONERS.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—I am on no pension, but I am getting over 1,000 pensioners every month to say they will not vote for any Democrat in this state. THE OLD, HAPPY DAYS.

Elk Rapids, Mich., Aug. 18.—Antrim county in Michigan is celebrating its 100th anniversary at Elk Rapids. The streets are full of farmers, some very young and some very old. There are Indians from Cross village. And there are tiny babies that look as if they had just started their first hundred years. Everywhere groups are talking, and they talk of what happened years ago. They recall the old days and the old times. Nowhere do you hear a word about war, not a word about elections. It's all just home talk; who got ribbons at the 4-H show; listening to the old couple play, she on a spinet piano and he on an old dulcimer made for him by the Indians some 40 years ago. And the Indians, real Americans, some of them walking with the same straight stalk their ancesters had when they first settled here 100 years ago.

Elk Rapids was the playground of the Algonquins; no wars were fought here and it is as if the people here just kept that tradition. But, ominously enough, overhead is the almost constant buzz of airplanes. MERAB S. FERGUSON.

MOTHERS AND THE EFFIGY.

Sycamore, Ill., Aug. 22.—After reading about the hanging of Pepper in effigy on Capitol hill. I think those women in the Congress of American Mothers have one-track minds. I think their attitude was wholly un-American and their conduct outrageous.

I have brothers and friends whom the draft bill would affect. But I feel it would be far better to see our sons, brothers, husbands, or friends go to war trained and thus better able to defend themselves as well as their country.

RITA E. DUGAN.

FINE SKY LINE; UGLY SIGNS.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Wake up, Chicago! Why should gasoline companies be allowed to spoil our splendid sky line with their ugly signs atop Michigan boulevard buildings?

Who is responsible for permitting this atrocity? To whom can we appeal for an ordinance to stop this practice?

SEWER CAPACITY.

Chicago Aug. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—My property at the above address, also the five others in a row here up to the corner, have flooded basements every time there is a strong rain like we have been having. What can be done for us?

REPLY.

Please be advised that a thoro investigation was made on July 15 which discloses the main sewer and catch basins adjacent thereto to be in good order. The main sewer was temporarily overtaxed due to heavy rainfall.

The sewer is of sufficient size to take care of ordinary rainfall.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 26, 1914

Togoland, German colony in West Africa, captured by British and French forces. Before giving up the Germans dynamited their powerful wireless station, which communicated directly with Berlin. Germany had held the colony since 1884, when she had persuaded the native king of Togo to place his realm under German suzerainty. Subsequently the allies divided the country into mandates, the French taking the coastland and the British the interior.

A MAN WITH $55 BUILDS BIGGEST JUNGLE AIR LINE

Planes Link 235 Towns in Latin America.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Aug. 25.—The world's most successful air line—a commercial air transport company that makes a profit carrying barefoot Indian passengers, drums of oil, tons of dried beef and bags of bottled beer over dense Central American jungles, has its headquarters here. The company is incorporated as Transportes Aereos Centro Americanos—but is is known from Mexico to the canal as TACA.

Literally TACA is the life line of many communities in Honduras, Guatemala and Nicaragua. TACA's airplanes—mostly Ford trimotors that went out of service in the United States seven years ago—furnish the only means of entrance and exit for many towns in the jungle country.

TACA's service is so regular and reliable that the mule trails and Indian paths that connect these communities with civilization have grown over and become lost thru disuse. TACA brings in new workers to these mining towns, supplies food, drink, and mining machinery, and it flies out the dead, and even on occasions acts as peacemaker in a revolution.

Peace for Nine Years.

It is quite a coincidence that Central America has had peace since the first month TACA started its operations, some nine years ago. At that time Lowell Yerex, a New Zealander who attended Valparaiso university at Valparaiso, Ind., and later served in the royal flying corps in the world war—was the sole pilot of the company.

He has one four place Stinson Jr. airplane with a 200 horsepower motor. Using this airplane for bombing and machinegun attacks—the gun was fired by a passenger who lay on the floor and shot out the door—Yerex "scattered the enemy" and enabled the forces under Gen. Tiburcio Carias Andino to win.

The general became president—he still is in office today.

Yerex was given concessions for flying all over Honduras. Today he owns 52 planes and operates in British Honduras, Guatemala, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Honduras, Costa Rica, and Panama. The line claims it has not injured a passenger in three years. It has succeeded in countries so poor that the average income of the 10,000,000 Spanish, Indian, and Negro population is under $50 a year.

Landed with Only $55.

Yerex had only 200 Mexican pesos—about $55—to his name when he arrived here.

With the revolution over Yerex began flying from Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras, to San Pedro on the Atlantic coast, and to Choluteca on the Pacific side. He drummed up business by carrying a crate of oranges for one grocer and a bag of cabbage for another. He constantly told each merchant what the other was doing and soon he had a regular freight business established. Soon he had more than he could handle.

The company at one time had 30 Ford trimotors. It lost a few, usually from engine failures at take-off from tiny jungle fields, but still has 20. In addition Yerex bought up Bellanca and Travelair monoplanes, four Stinson mailwing biplanes, and one Steeman mailwing biplane, and recently bought five Lockheed 14s—the latest and finest small air liners on sale in the United States, and three Curtiss Condors for reserve.

Serves 235 Cities.

Yerex lines now serve 235 towns and cities—most of them from 10 minutes to an hour's flight apart. New fields are constantly being opened by engineers experienced at cutting airports out of the jungles.

TACA was doing all right with straight freight and passenger business even before the Nicaraguan and Honduran mines opened up again. Then TACA went to town, for Yerex wrangled contracts to supply the mines with all their necessities. These even included enormously heavy steam shovels, sulphide tanks, rolling and crushing machinery and Diesel engines.

When Yerex got the first of these contracts he rebuilt his Ford planes. Steel beams were put on the floor so that the machine, licensed for 2,500 pounds of payload in the United States, would carry up to 5,000 pounds in the cabin. He installed trick doors that gave an opening six meters wide for loading and unloading heavy pieces.

Carries 5,300 Pound Load.

These doors were arranged so they slide like a roll top desk up and around the fuselage, with handles so they could be opened from inside. This has proved wise for often, when the Fords developed engine trouble, it has been necessary to dump cargo out into the jungle.

In a single one of these freighters Yerex' expert pilots have flown pieces of huge flywheels weighing up to 5,300 pounds. One Ford had a 400 gallon tank welded into its insides, which when full, means a fuel weight of 2,800 pounds.

Two years ago TACA got a contract to haul supplies in, and chicle out of the Peten jungles in Guatemala, where the Wrigley company and the United Chicle company have vast plantations. TACA's experienced men serve them under all conditions of weather.

This country is so bad that two fields, Dos Lagunas and Carmelita, are only 10 minutes apart in a plane, but are 10 days by mule in good weather and 15 in the rainy season. From these two and other Peten fields TACA carried the entire chicle crop of more than 2,000,000 pounds of the gray, puttylike gum in 150 pound boxes last year. This year a bumper crop is promised and TACA expects to carry 5,000,000 pounds of gum alone.

In 1939 TACA carried 65,000 passengers, 22,000,000 pounds of freight, 3,500,000 pounds of mail, and much baggage and express. For the first half of 1940 the company already has carried 48,350 passengers, and 12,583,580 pounds of freight.

TACA's passenger and freight rates are probably the lowest in the world. Fares for passengers between points also served by Pan-American Airways here run about 50 per cent less than Pan-American charges.

A recent inventory showed that the company's physical assets today—including the fleet of planes and the repair base at Tegucigalpa, which is the finest of its kind between Brownsville and the army bases at the Canal Zone—amount to $3,000,000.

This is entirely owned by Yerex.

BOTANIST LEAVES TO STUDY POLLEN IN YELLOWSTONE

Migratory habits of the pollen which cause so much trouble for hay fever sufferers will be studied by O. C. Durham, chief botanist of the Abbott laboratories, who left yesterday aboard a United Air Lines plane to make a pollen survey of Yellowstone National park.

Durham took along a "sky hook" which, projecting from the cockpit window of the plane, will collect pollen specimens as he flies. His data concerning the maximum height of pollen will be correlated with information collected during recent weeks by the United States weather bureau on the ground at the park.

"I have flown 50,000 miles during the last year," Durham said. "Last week I took the Clipper plane to Bermuda to learn something about pollen drifting over the ocean. The better our understanding of pollen movements, the more medical science will be able to help hay fever victims."

ALIENS ARE GIVEN REASSURANCE ON REGISTER LAW

Francis Biddle, solicitor general of the United States, speaking from Chicago radio stations yesterday, assured noncitizens that they had no need to fear hostility in connection with the national alien registration act. Registration starts tomorrow at postoffices and lasts thru Dec. 26.

The solicitor general cited the general rules covering the compulsory registration. All aliens over 14 years old must register in person. Those under 14 are to be registered by their parents or guardians. Aliens with only first naturalization papers also must register.

In assuring noncitizens that they need not fear persecution, Biddle asserted, "It was not the intention of congress to start a witch hunt or a program of persecution of peaceful and law abiding aliens."

3 KILLED AS CAR PLUNGES THRU A VIADUCT RAILING

Falls 40 Feet; Slippery Roadway Blamed.

Two women and a man were killed yesterday when their automobile plunged thru the railing of a viaduct over the Milwaukee railroad tracks at Glenview road and Milwaukee avenue, west of Glenview, yesterday. The car fell 40 feet. Police said rain probably had made the viaduct slippery.

The victims were Miss Gertrude Borchers, 32 years old, 835 Wellington avenue; Miss Minnie Margodonna, 50, of 5904 South Halsted street, and George Powell, 30, a colored chauffeur employed by Mrs. Sarah Friend at her reducing establishment in Lake Villa.

Two Killed Instantly.

Powell was driving the two women, employés of the reducing institution, to their homes. He and Miss Margodonna were killed instantly. Miss Borchers died in the Northwestern hospital at Des Plaines.

Leo J. Wiora, 52, of 5831 Lake street, a night watchman, was killed when he walked in the path of a car driven by Edgar Alfred, 50, of 105 West St. Charles road, Villa Park. The accident happened at North and 5th avenues near Melrose Park.

Martin Gruff, 84, of 12241 Green street, a retired carpenter, was killed last night when a car driven by Edgar Karlson, 26, of 2649 West 97th street, struck him as he crossed Halsted street at 122d street.

Police were on the trail of a hit and run driver last night after an accident in which Mrs. Anna Nowogrodzki, 51, of 2214 Marshall boulevard, was injured at Cermak road and Western avenue.

Promises to go to Hospital.

The driver whose car had struck Mrs. Nowogrodzki promised to follow when another motorist volunteered to take the injured woman to St. Anthony's hospital. But when he had not appeared several hours later, the police began a search for him. Witnesses supplied a license number, which was traced to a man at Edwardsville, in Madison county. At this man's home it was said he had left on a trip.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 544 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 405 were killed in Chicago, where 14,878 were injured in the same period.

BUTLER, EX-HEAD OF ST. CHARLES SCHOOL, IS DEAD

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 25 [Special].—Maj. William J. Butler, 72 years old, former head of the St. Charles school for boys where he introduced the strap to curb escapes, died at his home here today.

Altho Butler insisted that corporal punishment and military training methods were beneficial in reforming youthful criminals, he was removed as head of the school in 1928 by Roy Ide, director of the state department of welfare.

Butler, prominent in Republican politics for years, practiced law here most of his life. In 1894 he was elected to the state legislature, later was Republican state central committeeman, and was returned to the legislature in 1914 for two years.

When Abraham Lincoln first came to Springfield to practice law he boarded at the home of Butler's grandfather. Many valuable articles of Lincolniana, given to the elder Butler, were passed down in the family. They included the well known Wright painting of Lincoln, now owned by the University of Chicago.

Miss Suzette Crawford Will Wed in Delavan

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHETHER or not all the world loves a lover, certainly all small towns love a wedding and the little city of Delavan, Wis., is proud of having been selected, in preference to Chicago, for the wedding of Miss Suzette Crawford to Norman L. Cavedo of Richmond, Va., on Sept. 28.

Miss Crawford is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Nelson Crawford of Chicago and Delavan Lake. Miss Mary Austen Brockenbrough of Richmond, a schoolmate of Miss Crawford's at Noroton-on-the-Sound and at Manhattanville college, will be her maid of honor. Miss Crawford's cousin, Miss Caterina Bolognesi, daughter of Count and Countess Giulio Bolognesi, will be a bridesmaid, as will Mrs. Edward O'Hara of Norwich, N. Y.; Miss Jane Patara and Miss Katherine Gilman of Chicago, and Mrs. Lowry K. Grulee, the former Miss Susan Vilas of Evanston. Miss Crawford was a bridesmaid for Mrs. Grulee when the latter was married last March.

Bridegroom's College Friends to Be Ushers.

Russell N. Crawford Jr., the bride's brother, will have the rôle of best man. Several former schoolmates of Mr. Cavedo's at the Virginia Military institute will be ushers, including the brother of the maid of honor, David Brockenbrough, William Kirkpatrick, John Curley Jr., Frank Jones Jr., and Francis M. Raffo, all of Richmond, and Charles Morrison of Lynchburg, Va.

While the Pines, the Crawford Delavan lake country home, is not a small house, it was not considered adequate for the wedding party, so after the ceremony at St. Andrew's Catholic church in Delavan, the guests will motor about 12 miles across country to the Lake Geneva Country club, where the reception is to be held. In order to care for the large number of out-of-town guests, the Delavan lake summer home and guest house of the late Mr. and Mrs. John G. Garibaldi will be opened for the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Garibaldi were Mrs. Crawford's parents. The two estates adjoin.

Miss Brockenbrough and Mr. Cavedo will be house guests at the Pines for at least a week before the wedding. They will be among the Crawford guests at the Harvest Home dinner party on Sept. 21 at the Lake Geneva Country club. Mr. Cavedo and his bride plan a motor trip east for their honeymoon. They will live in Richmond.

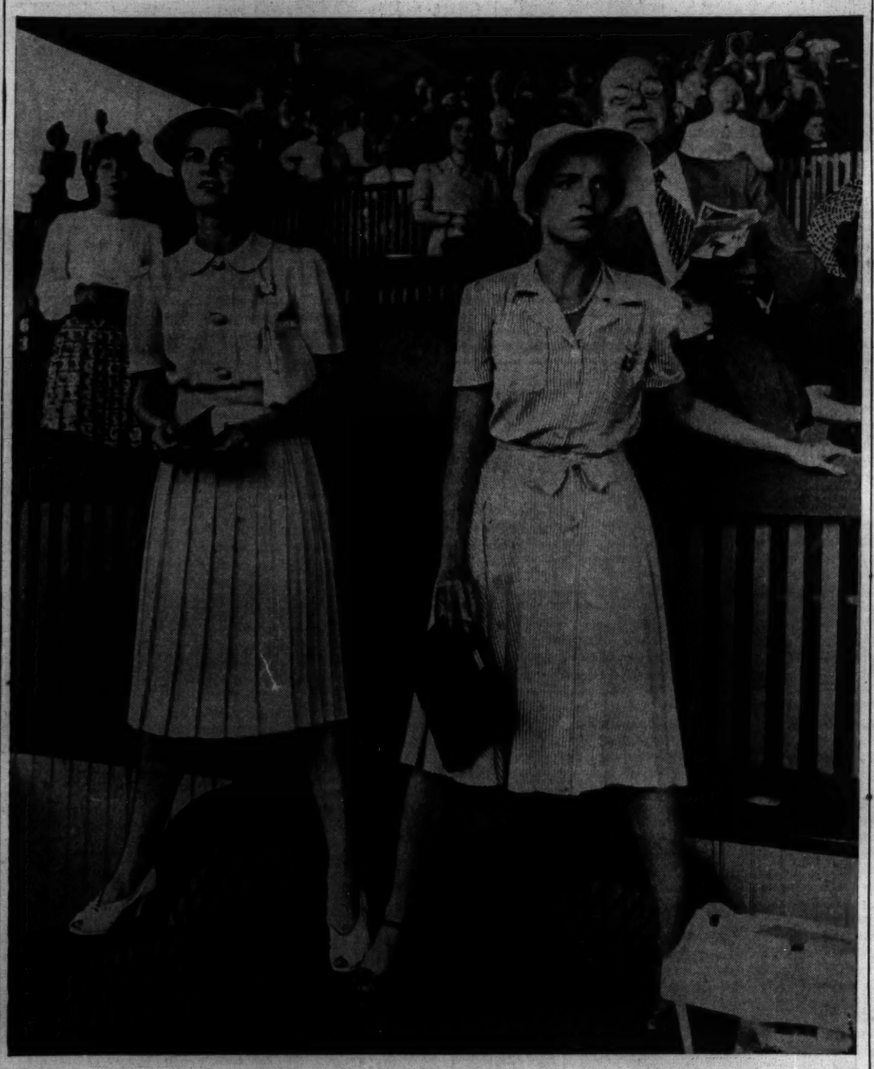
Eager Eyes on Finish Stretch



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

"Come on, Something" might have been the unvoiced cry of Mrs. Hugh M. Johnston (left) and Mrs. Thomas Sheffield as they anxiously watched the finish stretch at the Arlington Park race track this summer. Racing enthusiasts are duplicating these expressions daily at the Washington Park track in Homewood, where the season will close on Labor day.

Designers Give Everything in New Fall Hats

BY REA SEEGER.

From the sidelines of a fall hat review, even veteran fashion sleuths sit up and take notice, since hats are barometers of trends that become established fashions in outlines, color, and size. A new showing, launched by America's most brilliant designer, features new ideas that are flattering, exciting, and feminine, three qualities every hat should possess.

A triangular outline is something new to cause comments, 'way up in front to show the pompadour or front locks, going down to a point at the back, the crown fitting as snug as skin. Huge velvets, fine felts and combination of felt and velvet with feathers make these rivals of the famous Gainsborough creations.

Turbans are dateless as far as fashion can be dated. Each year new intricacies arrive, new swathings, new twists, and knots, and new fabrics. This fall you'll wear the exotic color combines found in South America, strange color schemes using brown for a foil contrast of gun-metal gray with smudgy blues and hazy, dark mauves or orange reds. On the headlines these difficult colors blend, soften, and flatter with incredible chic.

Feathers—amusing tufts and wings from barnyard chanticleers and biddies, even the mottled gray and white brown effects, great choux of iridescent coq feathers, long curling coq feathers, dove breasts or small wings dipped in alluring shades of cerise, French blue, giddy greens—are used with great effect on large and shallow brim hats as well as on turbans.

Wool and knitted fabrics that do a double job of color effects with cozy comfort on a cold and windy day come in some of the most distinctive color combinations, stripes of many colors, monotones of brick red, copper, dull green, tangerine, and so on. Bags to match make the oldest dress resplendently new and dramatic.

All shades of brown are tremendously interesting with a neutral shade called potato and a trick shade called "huaca," the surprise of the showing; everything goes with it. Any coloring can be dramatized with either of these browns as a foundation color. Ear tabs with either jeweled earrings or plain are part of the newest creations, and are used on both large and small hats. Wool hats, velvet hats, fur hats, all are excitingly different from previous showings.

WEDDING

Cox in the Thorndike Hilton chapel on the University of Chicago campus. The bride, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Boller, attended Northwestern university and was graduated from the Bush Conservatory of Music. Dr. Gould, a graduate of Brown university and Harvard medical school, is assistant professor of hygiene and assistant medical adviser at Cornell university. He and his bride will be at home in Ithaca, N. Y., after a wedding trip to Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

6,000 Attendance Opens Convention of Walther League

More than 6,000 youths from various parts of the country crowded ballrooms and foyers of the Stevens hotel yesterday afternoon for the opening service of the 48th annual international convention of the Walther league of the Synodical Lutheran conference.

The sermon by the Rev. E. J. Friedrich, head of the church's sanitarium, Wheat Ridge, Colo., on the subject, "Rise Up and Build," was a religious forecast of new enterprises, including a new $100,000 league headquarters building to be located in Chicago.

Featuring the convention are exhibits in a talent quest program carried on among the 80,000 members of the league. The talent quest includes vocal and instrumental excellence, needlepoint and crocheting, model sailboats, altar cloth embroidery, wood carving and photography, oratory and many other types of achievement. Various awards will be given to contest winners.

The convention will be concluded Wednesday.

Lutheran Choir of 1,000 Draws a Full Theater

BY CECIL SMITH.

Members of the International Walther league, which is holding its forty-eighth convention at the Stevens hotel this week, filled the Auditorium theater from orchestra pit to second gallery last night, to hear a musical program by a 1,000 voice chorus of the Lutheran Choral union. William B. Heyne, director of the St. Louis, Mo., a cappella choir, conducted. Waldemar Schroeder appeared as baritone soloist, Gene Alders as organist, and William O. Haeuser as pianist.

The choir sang with impressive volume and fresh tone. Within the limits of flexibility automatically prescribed by so large a group, Mr. Heyne directed with intelligent, unostentatious musicianship. The choral items in the program included not only Lutheran chorals, but also liturgical works from the repertory of the Church of England, by such representative composers as Purcell, Farrant, and Goss.

In two airs from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" ["It Is Enough" and "Is Not His Word Like a Fire?"], Mr. Schroeder revealed a voice of rewarding richness. His interpretations, however, were bound by the stultifying and unmusical "traditions" American vocal coaches have seen fit to impose upon pupils who study the "Elijah."

Out in Grant park Jerzy Bojanowski, returned from a series of outdoor symphonic concerts in Tulsa, Okla., conducted his last program of the current season. He is a competent baton technician, and in the main conducts with clear musical vision. A single exception to this rule last night was Liszt's "Les Préludes," presented with strangely variable tempi and with exceedingly rough transitions.

Valerie Glowacki, who possesses one of the loveliest lyric soprano voices in Chicago, pleased her audience in light music. While she has not fully realized her own artistic potentialities, Miss Glowacki has every opportunity to go as far as she likes in learning to capitalize upon so beautiful and well produced a voice. At present her singing intrinsically lacks variety of color and nuance.

Giovanni Martinelli, tenor, will be the soloist at the Grant park concert at 8 o'clock this evening. Other numbers of the program will be by the Chicago Opera orchestra. The program:

Overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor" ..... Nicolai
Waltz, "Vienna Beauties" ..... Ziehrer
[a] Largo from "Xerxes" ..... Handel
[b] Flower Song from "Carmen" .... Bizet
Giovanni Martinelli.
Festivals from "Nocturnes" ..... Debussy
Serenade from the "Rustic Wedding" symphony ..... Goldmark
Swedish Rhapsody, "Midsummer Wake" ..... Alfvén
Prelude to "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg" ..... Wagner
Country Gardens ..... Grainger
Sheperd's Hey ..... Grainger
Ballet Suite from "La Source" ..... Delibes
Dances from "Price Igor" ..... Borodin
[a] O Paradiso, from "L'Africaine" ..... Meyerbeer
[b] Serenade ..... Schubert
[c] Celeste Aida, from "Aida" ..... Verdi
Giovanni Martinelli.

The concert will be given at the bandshell opposite 11th street. All seats will be free.

W-G-N Casts Four Stars in One Program

A star studded cast will appear Thursday night on the program, "In Chicago Tonight," to be broadcast over radio station W-G-N and the coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Kitty Carlisle.

The performers include Ted Lewis, famous bandleader, who will be master of ceremonies; Kitty Carlisle, motion picture and musical comedy star; Eddie Peabody, the "Wizard of the Banjo," and Eddy Howard, radio singing star.

Lewis, who is just closing an engagement at the Chez Paree, will introduce Miss Carlisle, who begins appearances Friday at the same night club, and the other performers. Lewis, a veteran in the music world, has appeared in several motion pictures.

Miss Carlisle appeared on the stage in several musical comedies and then went to Hollywood for four or five pictures before returning to the stage. She is a singer and actress.

Peabody, whose banjo playing carried him to the top in the amusement world, is at present in Chicago recruiting for the United States navy. He served five years aboard navy submarines, and, as a reserve officer, has been recalled to active duty.

Howard, co-author of popular songs, including "Careless," "My Last Goodby," and "A Million Dreams Ago," left Dick Jurgens' band some months ago and since has been singing on the stage and over the radio.

"In Chicago Tonight," to be broadcast from 7:30 to 8 p. m., will be directed by William A. Bacher. The musical background will be provided by Harold Stokes and the W-G-N orchestra.

Jarmila Novotna Triumphantly Fulfills Chicago Expectations

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A musical event of the first importance took place in W-G-N's main studio last night when Jarmila Novotna, Czech soprano, made her first Chicago appearance as soloist on The Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour, a regular W-G-N and Mutual Sunday evening feature. She sang with the W-G-N orchestra under Maurice Abravanel's direction.

Mme. Novotna, who has been eagerly awaited here since her successes during the last year in San Francisco, St. Louis, and New York, and who has been promised for the 1940 season of the Chicago Opera company, fulfilled triumphantly the expectations which she had aroused.

Before she had sung a note her appearance and demeanor bought the friendship of the studio audience. She has sensitive, finely chiselled features, she gives the impression of tallness, and she carries herself like a particularly gracious princess. She was dazzlingly gowned.

As she began the "Depuis le jour" from "Louise" it was obvious that Mme. Novotna is a singer who cannot be dismissed by a few remarks on type and quality of voice, agility or lack of it, and other such things. For over and above her technical excellence—and giving this technical excellence a point and a reason for being—is a remarkable gift for piercing right to the heart of a piece of music and bringing its true meaning out where an audience can grasp it and be excited by it.

Thus the "Depuis le jour" was no mere collection of notes and rests, but rather an overwhelming expression of rapture. True, the singer shaped her phrases beautifully, employed many a nuance of tempo, and shaded with the utmost skill—but these were merely the devices by which the meaning that her discernment had found was externalized for the benefit of the audience. So complete, in fact, was her absorption in the music that all of the effects seemed to come automatically.

Allowing for the difference in the musical character, the above remarks apply also to Mme. Novotna's performance, a little later, of Liszt's "O, While I Sleep."

For those who will not be put off and who demand of a reviewer a little technical information, Mme. Novotna's voice is a lyric soprano of moderate size. It is not broad and opulent, nor voluptuous in quality, but is well focussed and extremely reliable.

Mr. Abravanel, who also will be a member of the Chicago Opera company this fall, revealed himself as a conductor in whom a talent for vivid projection is held in leash by a fastidious taste. Besides Mme. Novotna's accompaniments he offered music as far apart in character as Sibelius' "Finlandia" and Johann Strauss' "Perpetual Motion." In the former, as well as in the excerpts from "Martha" with which the broadcast closed, he had the assistance of the W-G-N chorus.

Murder Is Not Mute

By Audrey Newell

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Detective Doyle of New York is vacationing in a small town when, while walking in the woods of the estate of Adolph Wunsch, wealthy ex-brewer, he stumbles upon a skeleton. Reporting to Truman Briault, Wunsch's brother-in-law, he rejects the bribe to keep quiet and notifies the town police. Returning to the scene with Policeman Madden and Judge Blain, he finds the skeleton has disappeared, but by trailing fresh footprints they discover it, where it has been hastily buried. Dr. Blake, the coroner, says it is the skeleton of a girl in her late teens, who was murdered about a year ago. Wunsch's household consists of his beautiful young second wife, Paula, her brother and mother, his aged father, and his 16 year old daughter, Texie, Miss Doty, a trained nurse, who cares for Grandfather Wunsch, Helen Voss, Texie's young companion, Follins, the chauffeur, the housekeeper and her staff of servants. It is a strained and unhappy home with Wunsch dominating every one. Doyle learns that Wunsch sent Helen to New York to take a business course about a year ago, at the same time he sent his headstrong daughter to Europe accompanied by Paula's mother, when he learned that Paula was trying to promote a marriage between Texie and Truman. Nearly every one in the household is under suspicion. Blue yarn found in the woods near where the skeleton was buried proves to match the yarn in Truman's sweater. A watch clasp found near where the skeleton was first found by Doyle, is identical with one on a watch Paula wears and when Doyle tells this to Paula she faints. He learns that Wunsch bought Paula's watch for a wedding gift but that 18 months later he had a duplicate watch made. It is evident that Paula knows who the second gift was for. She has a nervous collapse but sick as she is she wakes up in the early morning and telephones Doyle. Just as she gets him, a shot is fired at her by a dark figure on the balcony. Tho it is 3 a. m. Doyle begins an intensive questioning of the household. Grandfather Wunsch mutters something about his cane. In turn Doyle suspicions every one including Follins, who, according to gossip, has a romance with Texie. Even young Miss Doty has no alibi except her white dress. Doyle watches Paula's door and falls asleep. Miss Doty points out that as she fell asleep too, the coffee they drank to keep them awake must have been drugged. Wunsch has been driving to town every night lately with Follins, and Doyle learns that Paula has put detectives on her husband's trail. Doyle waylays the trailing detectives and accompanies them on their pursuit of Wunsch. He finds that Wunsch has been going to Helen Voss's apartment, and from there, on a tour of night clubs alone. Doyle visits Helen and while she is in another room, a door opens and a woman hastily whispers she is being held a prisoner. He gets no information from Helen except that she is doing some confidential work for Wunsch. Doyle decides to encounter Wunsch at one of the night clubs and question him further.

MISSING DAUGHTER.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.

Follins looked flabbergasted when Doyle eased himself into the back seat of the car.

"I'm waiting for Wunsch," was all the detective said. He leaned back, closed his eyes and appeared to fall deep asleep. After a puzzled, uneasy interval, Follins decided to do likewise.

But for all his immobility, Doyle was wide awake and thinking furiously.

Who was the woman Wunsch was seeking in the night clubs? Why must the search be so secret that he dared not hand it over to the Missing Persons bureau or a private agency? What was its nature that he must keep it secret from his wife?

Doyle's thoughts went off on a tangent. He recalled Wunsch's first hostile reaction to the discovery of the skeleton, and his subsequent anxiety to believe that one of his servants had been murdered, and his relapse into sullen fury when the housekeeper disproved that theory. What was the key to this strange moodiness?

Suddenly Doyle experienced a rising excitement—the struggle and tantalization of a borning conclusion. Like a child repeating a reading lesson he found himself fashioning words under his breath.

"Wunsch is seeking a young woman. A young woman was murdered on Wunsch's property."

And then, with a surge of relief and certainty, Doyle told himself, "The murdered woman is the woman Wunsch is seeking."

Altho Wunsch did not know this, or perhaps consciously suspect it, it was the reason why the discovery of the murdered girl had terrified him and made him so difficult to deal with. For it brought to birth the first intuitive feeling that this might be the fate of the girl he sought.

Who was she?

Who was her murderer?

Was it from the same source that death had struck at Paula Wunsch?

. . . . . .

Coming out of the air conditioned chill of the Wildwood into the sultry dawn, Wunsch recoiled, overwhelmed by the hot air languidly swirling down the sweltering tunnel of the crosstown street. As he stood there gasping for breath, the doorman spoke to him.

"I'm signaling your car, Mr. Wunsch. But I guess your chauffeur's asleep. I'll run down and wake him."

"Don't bother," Wunsch said, automatically producing a tip. He moved listlessly toward the car. With his hand on the rear door he called, "All right, Follins."

Before Follins could assemble his wits, Wunsch had opened the rear door and was heaving himself into the car. But with one foot still on the running board, he went rigid, seeing Doyle.

"I've been waiting for you, Mr. Wunsch," the detective said quietly.

Wunsch backed out of the car and stood on the pavement.

"This is too much," he said. His voice, his eyes, his drooping body, all seemed weighted with despair.

"I couldn't stop him, Mr. Wunsch," Follins explained anxiously.

"Mr. Wunsch doesn't mind giving me a lift," Doyle said with that suave tone so curiously compounded of threat and warning.

Wunsch got into the car. "Go ahead, Follins," he ordered wearily. He sat back, staring at the floor, ignoring the detective by his side.

Doyle did not speak until they had cleared the city and were speeding off the bridge. Then he said, "I don't like this any more than you do, Mr. Wunsch."

Wunsch muttered, "I will not talk to you."

"I think you will," Doyle told him quietly. "When you know that I've seen Helen Voss."

At that Wunsch's head came around with a jerk. Then he lunged forward and cranked up the glass which divided the chauffeur's seat from the tonneau. When he sat back he said tensely, "Well?"

"Miss Voss didn't say any more than she could help," Doyle admitted. "So I'll have to ask you to describe the work she is doing for you."

Wunsch answered curtly. "Routine secretarial stuff. Income tax records and so on."

Doyle shook his head. "Don't lie to me."

The blood congested darkly in Wunsch's face and he made a movement toward the speaking tube.

Doyle's hand clamped down on the millionaire's wrist. "And don't do anything foolish," he warned.

For a moment the two men stared at each other, deadlocked. Then Doyle demanded, "Why are you hiding your mother-in-law in Helen Voss' apartment?"

A vein swelled and throbbed across Wunsch's temple. He spoke thickly. "My mother-in-law is in Paris."

Wunsch's tongue licked nervously at his lips. "You think you've got me in a tight spot," he said vehemently. "But you haven't, damn you. Because my mother-in-law's presence here—Helen Voss' work—my comings and goings—all these things are none of your business. What you've uncovered tonight are strictly family matters. In no way involving or breaking the law. So keep your nose out of my affairs. You're not concerned with me or mine." He turned on the cushioned seat and looked full at the detective. "Your only concern is with the murder. And I swear to you I know absolutely nothing about that." He threw himself back wearily and turned his face away.

Doyle sat in silence, plotting his course, watching the shining morning countryside move past the car's hurtling progress. When finally he spoke, it was in a mild, pleading tone.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Wunsch. But I must ask you again to tell me why your mother-in-law is in that apartment."

"Haven't I just told you that it's none of your damn business?" Wunsch demanded. Doyle answered him gently. "You make this awfully hard for me. And for yourself." And at Wunsch's movement of impatience and exasperation, the detective continued: "Who was the woman to whom you gave that second watch? The duplicate of Mrs. Wunsch's?"

The abrupt introduction of this topic seemed to stun the millionaire. He repeated dazedly, "The second watch?" Then his brows drew together in a scowl. "What must I do to put a stop to your meddling in things that don't concern you?"

"They do concern me," Doyle said, and his tone was oddly regretful. "Because that second watch was lying in the woods with the murdered girl."

Wunsch's thickset body heaved convulsively. "No," he said. And again, "no." He spoke the negative with anguish, protest and entreaty.

"You've been looking for her," Doyle pressed. "Haven't you?"

"No," Wunsch said again. "No."

"It's best to get to the truth," Doyle urged. "It's doing you no good to drag on like this, ignoring facts. You can't change them."

For a moment Wunsch looked wildly toward the door of the car as if he contemplated throwing himself from it. Then he slumped back on the cushions. His hands lay on his knees, palms up, defenseless.

"When did your daughter disappear?" Doyle probed resolutely.

After a long time, Wunsch mumbled words. "The day she sailed."

Then his hand shot out and clutched Doyle's arm.

"But those bones. That murdered girl. That isn't Texie," he denied. "Texie is alive. I tell you I know it. I have proof."

"What proof?"

"She writes to me," Wunsch said triumphantly.

"What does she write?" Doyle's tone was patient.

Wunsch answered promptly, "To ask money, of course."

"Do you send it to her?"

"Naturally."

"Where?"

"Wherever she tells me. Postoffice substations. Different ones."

If you have some jelly that didn't quite jell, bottle it up and keep it for a sauce to be used on ice cream, making currant or cherry or some other kind of fruit sundae. Add a little wine or brandy to your accidentally made sauce if you like. At Thanksgiving or Christmas, or on some other festive occasion next winter, you may be glad that some of your jelly didn't quite make the grade!

Currant jelly, melted to a sirup if it isn't already that way, and flavored with maraschino or kirsch, makes an excellent ice cream and dessert sauce. Or combine currant jelly with finely chopped or sieved canned cherries for a good cherry and currant sauce.

If you have thin orange marmalade which you aren't going to try to recook to heavier consistency, put it thru a sieve and combine with sieved cooked dried apricots for a sundae sauce. Thin apple jelly may be combined with chopped maraschino cherries, or tartened with lemon. And any of the unsuccessful jellies may be used to flavor whipped cream which is to top a chilly pudding or parfait.

SAUCES FOR ICE CREAM AND PUDDINGS.

1. CHERRY AND ORANGE SAUCE: Combine one cup liquid from sour canned cherries with one cup orange juice and one tablespoon lemon juice. Mix 1½ tablespoons of cornstarch with ¾ to one cup sugar and combine with the juices. Cook in the top of a double boiler until clear and smooth, stirring constantly. Flavor with a few drops of almond extract, a teaspoonful of grated orange rind, or with vanilla.

2. MAPLE NUT SAUCE: Combine one cup maple sugar with one cup boiling water and boil to a thick sauce. Cool and add ½ cup chopped nuts.

3. BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE: Mix 1¼ cups sugar, ¾ cup corn sirup, one tablespoon butter, one cup top milk or light cream, and ½ teaspoon salt. Cook to 234 degrees by the candy thermometer. Cool and store. May be thinned with cream before serving.

4. RUM SAUCE: Cook together for five minutes, two cups sugar and one cup water. Add one tablespoon butter, cool, and add ½ cup rum.

5. GINGER SAUCE: Chop a piece or two of preserved ginger fine, and add to sirup from preserved ginger, and dilute with cream before serving.

6. CHOCOLATE MINT SAUCE: Melt two squares of chocolate in one cup water, stirring until smooth. Add two cups sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, and stir and cook five minutes longer. Add two tablespoons butter and several drops of oil of peppermint.

7. CARAMEL SAUCE: Melt one cup sugar in heavy skillet, stirring constantly. Add another cup of sugar gradually and stir until smooth. Add one cup hot water gradually and stir until lumps dissolve. Or add one cup heavy cream gradually for a rich sauce.

8. MAPLE CREAM SAUCE WITH TOASTED ALMONDS: Boil one cup maple sirup for five minutes and add ½ cup cream, stirring constantly. Cool and add ½ cup sliced toasted almonds.

Home Shampoo Is Good Idea if Done Properly

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We wonder what statistics would disclose on the number of women who do their own shampooing at home. We are under the impression that a great many more women perform this duty for themselves than talks with hairdressers would verify.

The number of those who do the home job doesn't matter so much, however, as does the number of those who do the home job well. We learned from hairdressers that the great majority of those patrons who do wash their own hair at home, and appear at salons for wave, cut and so on, does not come with the type of washed hair on which the hairdressers like to work. They tell us that they often are presented with a head to wave and beautify that has been left, after the home shampoo, dull and sticky and not really clean. It isn't because they are prejudiced against the home shampoo when it is well done. True, in the salons they have to wet it again, or plaster it wet with lotion. But they dislike heartily performing this duty for hair that is not thoroly shampooed.

It seems so simple a job to us to give one's own head a good shampoo, we always wonder about the fuss about it. What's more, we feel that once in a while, at least, it is well to give one's own head the scrubbing and rubbing that she alone can give it when she can give it well. We like the idea, too, of rinsing the head well under the shower, letting oodles of water hit scalp and hair, and rubbing the hair dry with a coarse towel. In this way you do get the circulation stirring.

There are women who are simply awkward about the home job of getting the hair clean. They can't seem to use the patience and the "elbow grease" to remove the soil. They won't rinse enough and their hair, when done, looks badly done, too, in which event we certainly recommend the job done by a professional whose salon is known for its good work and hygienic care of utensils.

Utilitarian or "Dressup"

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Altho the simple lines of this frock recommend it particularly for your hours at home, it need not be restricted to so utilitarian a rôle. There's definite charm in the side button arrangement, and a contrasting surplice collar can do worlds to "glamorize" this plain dress for social life.

Make it of all the cottons for household wear [stripes are especially attractive] and for general wear use a sheer woolen, a crêpe, or satin.

Style No. 3472 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 3½ yards of rickrack.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

The ceremony will take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening, the Rev. Lewis W. Sherwin officiating. Only relatives and the bridal party are being invited to a reception at the Gallup home after the ceremony.

Miss Elizabeth Low will be the maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Gallup's sister-in-law, Mrs. Benton Gallup; the bridegroom's sister, Miss Betty Booth; Miss Katy Lou Vail, and Miss Phyliss Durbahn. Mr. Booth Jr. will be his brother's best man. Ushering will be James Gordon Knox, a cousin; James Stewart Krieger of Michigan City, a cousin of the bride; Loren Roderick Converse, and Robert Rankin.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood B. Low will give the bridal dinner for Miss Gallup and Mr. Booth on the eve of the ceremony at their Highland Park home. Mr. Booth and his bride will live in the Marshall Field Garden apartments.

Everhart-Oliver Wedding to Draw Out of Town Folk.

Several out of town guests will be in Winnetka next Saturday for the marriage of Miss Nancy Oliver and Hawley Everhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Everhart of Evanston. The ceremony will be performed at noon in Faith, Hope, and Charity church in Winnetka and will be followed by a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Maynard Oliver. Among the relatives and close friends who will be present are Miss Oliver's grandmother, Mrs. Robert F. Curtin, who will come from her home in Kansas City, Mo., with her daughter, Miss Louise Curtin, and with the Russell Boyles. Frank Foster will be here from Columbus, O.; John Garden from Charlottesville, Va., and Arwell Fogarty from Des Moines, Ia.

Miss Miriam Richards of Middletown, O., will be maid of honor, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Jean Everhart, will be bridesmaid. Their brother, Stanton Everhart, will be best man. Mr. Everhart and his bride will motor thru Virginia and the Carolinas on their wedding trip.

Grant Park Conductor's Bride to Be in Audience.

The concert in Grant park tonight, at which Giovanni Martinelli is to be guest artist, will have a special significance, for its conductor, Leo Kopp, for it will be the first time Mr. Kopp has taken the podium with his bride in the audience. He and Miss Hazel Mattson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Mattson of St. Paul, Minn., were married last Friday at the Christ Lutheran church in St. Paul. Mr. Kopp, who is a member of the conducting staff of the Chicago Opera company, is musical director of the St. Paul Civic Opera company and of the summer "Pop" concerts of the Minneapolis symphony at St. Paul.

The first prenuptial party for Miss Florence Walsh, whose marriage to Robert E. Hunt is to take place on Nov. 30, will be given today by Miss Jane Wilson, who will become the bride of Cheves T. Walling on Sept. 17. Miss Wilson has planned a bathroom shower for Miss Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Walsh of Winnetka.

Mrs. Tracy Turner is departing for New York tomorrow to be honorary godmother at the christening of Paul Anthony Vieta, who was born on July 8 to Dr. and Mrs. John Vieta [Henrietta Countiss]. The ceremony will take place at the Vieta apartment in East 48th street and will be followed by a luncheon at the Waldorf Astoria. Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr. will be the baby's godmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Stockton of Evanston [Margaret Dunham] are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Margaret, on Aug. 19 at the Evanston hospital. The baby and her three year old brother, Jack, are grandchildren of Mrs. John T. Stockton and of the William H. Dunhams of Evanston.

To the great pleasure of the George R. Folds family, Arwed Boitel has arrived from Switzerland and has joined his wife, the former Camilla Folds, and their little daughter at the Lauderdale Lakes summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Folds. Mr. Boitel is here on business, and how long a visit he will be able to pay is indefinite.

Members of the Rosettes et Rubans de France, formerly known as Les Violettes, will give a luncheon bridge at the Home Arts guild tomorrow. Among those who are planning to attend are Mr. and Mrs. René Weiller, Mrs. Charles Dewey, Mrs. Ralph Winston, Mrs. Jean Morel, Mrs. Francis Gunn, Mrs. Thomas Hinde, and the Count de Rochefort.

About 125 guests will attend a luncheon given today by the board of directors of the Peacock Camp for Crippled Children at Lake Villa. The 22 girls who have been at the camp since the end of July will put on a vaudeville show for the guests. Mrs. Wirt Morton has been in charge of arrangements.

Accessories in Crochet

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Men's crocheted ties and matching suspenders are among the ideal choices when one is trying to determine a suitable gift for the masculine member of the family, or a friend. These are quick and easy crochet jobs, which may be attempted with brilliant success by the beginning needleworker. The stitches are effective and durable. Mercerized crochet cotton or fine embroidery silk may be used for these suspenders and the tie.

For instructions in crocheting the suspenders and tie, No. X-802, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

The Housewife

If a beverage recipe calls for shaved ice and you have only ice cubes you'll appreciate a neat little contrivance that is made to convert the ice cubes, quickly and easily. It's a metal mill that's attached to the top of a glass receptacle. You fill it with ice cubes, turn the crank and the shaved ice is deposited in the glass. This ice shaver would make an acceptable gift or bridge prize.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Earning a Week's Pay.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 25, Sunday:—A morning at the desk, then to E. Selwyn's for a swim, a chin, and a hamburger. . . . To Mary Martin's and Dick Halliday's new Bel Air house for cocktails. It's a lovely place, thanks to two mothers-in-law. The new owners were so discouraged about getting it in shape that, independently, Mary telephoned Dick's mother to come out and supervise the furnishing and Dick phoned Mary's mother to arrange the garden.

Celebraters present include Sam and Bella Spewack, who have finished a new play but don't know who's going to produce it yet; Judith Anderson, Tamara, Dave Kapp, and John Rosenfield, Dallas newsman who was an early Mary Martin booster.

Monday: Cutting up touches of turf at the Lakeside golf course. Dinner at Chasen's with the Whitney Boltons, then to see Howard Benedict's "Men Against the Sky." In timeliness Benny hit his topic right on the nose—airplane building—and the wind tunnel and factory stuff is highly interesting. The ship used in the picture, incidentally, is very new, with plastic wings and fuselage.

Tuesday: To Universal, to prowl around the arsenal and handle some of the movie stars' six guns. On the "Seven Sinners" set to watch Mischa Auer and Broderick Crawford do a scene. Crawford says acting in movies is a wonderful way of making a living. I say, "Yes, it's doubtless more fun than being Lennie in 'Of Mice and Men' at the Music Box eight times a week." He says, "Not on your life." He's stage struck. In the evening to a preview of the Robert Montgomery-Constance Cummings "Haunted Honeymoon," based on a Dorothy Sayers novel. Being an old Sayers fan, I think it's a swell job, catching perfectly the mood and flavor of my favorite detective-story writer.

Wednesday: To see Frank Lloyd, and I'll venture a prediction that movie fans are in for a fine time when they see Cary Grant as Matt Howard in "The Howards of Virginia." Sept. 29 at the Music Hall is the probable date. . . . To Chasen's again for dinner, and the place is awash with stars. Spencer Tracy being magazine-interviewed by J. P. McEvoy; Charlie Chaplin and Paulette Goddard being very gay; Charles MacArthur, John Steinbeck, Nunnally Johnson and Gilbert Miller at one table; Greta Garbo in the back corner eating some solid food.

Thursday: To the Wilmington seaplane base and by the small amphibian to Catalina Island; thence to interview C. B. De Mille aboard his 106 foot Gloucester schooner, the Seaward. The interview takes place while C. B. is piloting his favorite toy, under sail, to the mainland.

Friday: To see "Brigham Young" in a Fox projection room. It's a superduper of a film, with almost unbelievable spaciousness in its migration scenes, and Dean Jagger does a fine job in the title rôle. It's a dignified, convincing motion picture, and my only hope is that it will prove to have enough lift to carry its own weight.

Saturday: For the sheer fright of it, to have luncheon with Bela Lugosi, Peter Lorre, and Boris Karloff at one and the same time. More about that later. . . . Then to the wedding of Esther Pelton and Phil Mason Burnett.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Here is one of those little program pictures that script writers, directors, and actors seem to put together when they are in a state of coma. The story and the acting will not disturb your contemplation if you want to think about your own private affairs while you are watching. In other words, the film is neither interesting nor uninteresting, neither good nor bad. It is just there.

The plot tells how Nancy Kelly manages to marry Robert Cummings, even tho Montagu Love, a crusty and hidebound old grandfather, steeped in the most rigid traditions of Boston's Back bay, wants Nancy to marry some dullard with higher social rating. The happy solution is worked out with the assistance of Roland Young and Hugh Herbert in terms as funny as their unoriginal material permits.

Some opportunities for racy humor are missed, as in the feeble depiction of what might have been a funny Pilgrim day celebration in a New England village. There are, however, some funny lines.

Acting, so far as Miss Kelly and Mr. Cummings are concerned, is what there isn't any of. A pretty nondescript item.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: In last night's rubber game a player fulfilled a grand slam contract thru, what seemed to me, a neat piece of deduction. Since I was merely kibitzing at the time, and had no financial interest in the proceedings, I can make my report without bias. This was the deal:

"North, dealer.
"Both sides vulnerable.
"Rubber bridge.

NORTH
♥ Q J 10
♦ None
♣ Q J 9 7 5 2

WEST
♠ 10 8 5 3
♥ K 7 6 4
♦ 9 8 3
♣ 4 3

EAST
♠ J 9 7 4 2
♥ 9 2
♦ 7 6 2
♣ K 10 8

SOUTH
♠ None
♥ A 8 5 3
♦ A K Q J 10 5 4
♣ A 6

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 spades	Pass	7 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

"West opened the three of spades and the moment the dummy was laid down South made some bitter remarks about his partner's bidding. [Obviously, the grand slam contract would require a successful finesse in hearts or clubs and, moreover, declarer would have to guess which to take.] The gist of South's remarks was that North had had no right to bid two spades over two diamonds, that with his comparatively meager top strength, and with a six card club suit as against a four card spade suit, it would have been far more logical, and safer, merely to rebid the clubs. South claimed that the implications of North's two spade 'reverse' bid had justified him in going to the grand slam.

"It seemed to me that South's points were well taken. However, as things turned out, this was all merely academic [and highly ironical] since South proceeded to fulfill the contract.

"Dummy's three top spades were cashed immediately. Declarer, after considerable thought, discarded three hearts. The club finesse then was taken. When it succeeded, declarer entered his own hand with the heart ace, drew trumps, and claimed the balance.

"The opponents, who had taken South's lecture of North to mean that the contract was hopeless, were none too pleased about the whole thing. Their main cause of disappointment was that South had taken the winning club finesse instead of the losing heart finesse. 'On what had he based his choice,' they wanted to know.

"South's answer seemed to me to be logical. He pointed out that with clubs, diamonds, and spades bid by himself and partner, West very likely would have opened the unbid suit, hearts, if he had not had reason to fear that lead, and his only good reason could be the possession of the heart king. This made the club finesse the better bet, by far.

"Don't you agree that South's reasoning was sound, altho admittedly it was a hair splitting decision?

"R. B., Chicago."

The very fact that South was faced with a hair splitting decision made his choice all the more commendable. I also agree with his criticism of North's bidding.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

The "little red schoolhouse" as a beauty box for the girls going off to college is an amusing idea. Its contents make it a sensible one at the same time. And it's a buy.

The schoolhouse package is very cunning; the little red building is complete even to a tinkling bell. But the contents are what really endear the whole thing to the hearts of the college girls.

That shining-clean look that the schoolgirls value is achieved by relentless fidelity to the rules of cleanliness. Knowing this, the creators of the schoolhouse kit have tucked not only a fine soap but a special cleansing preparation into the box. This last is used in a simple little treatment that brings a beautiful bloom to the skin and is extremely helpful in brightening up the darkened, roughened complexion. It's exactly the kind of a beauty aid those "natural" beauties prefer.

Also in the box are a fine cleansing cream that softens and smooths the dry skin, face powder, tissues, and two lotions. One is a light, satiny foundation—which no college girl would dream of being without—the other a freshening lotion, to be used after creams to remove every vestige of oil. All in all these are the simple, basic beauty aids that the girls like.

As a gift idea for the girl going away this is excellent. It's attractive, appropriate, and surprisingly inexpensive. The schoolgirls around town, who are already shopping like mad, have told us that they're quite smitten with it.

HARRY SMITH NAMED ALL-STARS' CAPTAIN

SOX BEAT YANKEES, 1-0, THEN LOSE, 3-1; CUBS DIVIDE

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THE Cubs have been without a screwball eccentric since Dizzy Dean went away, but they'll have one next year whether Diz comes back or not. . . . He is Catcher Clyde McCullough, now of Buffalo, who probably will be the Cubs' first string backstop next season. . . . He was with the north siders last spring—very balmy, but personable withal. . . . Roundy Coughlin, the sage of Madison, Wis., after watching the Green Bay Packers train for Thursday night's game on Soldiers' field, remarked: "They can't go fooling around with those All-Stars, as they got backs that are faster than a Hitler messenger boy. The Bays can't be going around with big tummies on chasing them babies. Mr. Lambeau and Mr. Red Smith have got their hands full, as on Thursday night the Packers better come out on Soldiers' field with their hair up and their feet pointing in all directions." . . . He evens up with this: "The All-Stars got 69 players. Chances are Coach Anderson will have 30 of them watching Cecil Isbell before the game is over. But you can't tell about Anderson of Iowa. If he says he is going to stop somebody he might do it. But he has never tried to stop Isbell before.

If he is going to do that good, he'll have to be more than a coach. He'll have to be a miracle man." . . . George Ade recently sent Chick Evans a membership card in the Hazelden Farm Golf club, Brook, Ind., which makes him a member in good standing up to Jan. 1, 1999. . . . When it expires Mr. Ade will have no objection to renewing it. . . . The reference in the Wake a few days ago to recently unearthed financial records of Notre Dame games in Knute Rockne's early days brought this item from N. U. '99 concerning the report of Northwestern's student manager at the close of the 1897 season: "The team has had a most successful season," it read. "Receipts from all sources were more than $6,000."

Lon Warneke, who got away to a slow start with the Cardinals, attributes his return to form to the abandoning of his fast ball. . . . He's strictly a curver now. . . . Purdue has lost fewer Western conference games in the last 11 years than any other team. . . . It has dropped only 13. . . . Ohio State has been defeated 14 times and Minnesota 15. . . . All other conference elevens have lost 22 or more games in that span. . . . The shortest championship match in the history of the P. G. A. tournament was Paul Runyan's 8 and 7 victory over Sammy Snead in 1938. . . . Linotype operators will be happy to learn that Eddie Hanyzewski and Erwin Wroblewski will enter Notre Dame this fall. . . . Both are former South Bend high school athletes. . . . Hanyzewski fanned nine White Sox in an exhibition game a year ago. . . . Wroblewski is a half back in football and a third baseman on the diamond.

LYONS SHUTS OUT YANKS ON 3 HITS BEFORE 70,740

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 25.—Ted Lyons, the White Sox's 39 year old mound warrior, stood up in front of the Yankees' belated pennant march today and forced the four times world champions to turn into a blind alley. That's where he kept them until he had scored a brilliant 1 to 0 triumph in the first half of a double header. But later in the afternoon the titleholders escaped, belting Thornton [Lefty] Lee in timely fashion and earning an even break over the Chicagoans, 3 to 1, before 70,740.

The noted perennial, Mr. Lyons, didn't fool around in the handling of his distinguished opponents. More like a frisky, talented youngster than a survivor of 17 big league campaigns, the grandpa of the Sox staff reduced the vaunted Yankee power to three hits, one a fluke double, and only one runner reached third. With his 10th victory safely stowed away, Ted marched off the field under a deluge of back slaps from his fellow workers and a mighty, appreciative roar from the multitude.

Ruffing Good, Too.

While Lyons was a one-man show, he wasn't much better than the pitching fellow who tried to track him down—Charles [Red] Ruffing. Ruffing, who also has seen many baseball summers, sailed thru the first eight innings on a three hit yield. But the Sox mania for ninth inning activity asserted itself and even Ruffing couldn't stop the bats of Luke Appling and Taft Wright. Luke opened the ninth with a single to right and an instant later tore across the plate, propelled by a double bashed against the right center field wall by Wright.

Ernie Bonham, recent import from Kansas City, slowed the Sox down in the second struggle. The bulky rookie operated on a five hit basis, the only run against him jelling when Appling and Wright repeated the treatment they gave Ruffing. But one run meant nothing because Lee, after a strong start, was bounced around by four hits in the fourth, two runs scoring. Thereafter Lee southpawed so stylishly that only three Yank hits, one a phony, were recorded. The phony hit led to the third Yanks' run.

FIRST GAME

The Yanks beat the Sox to the hit column in the first game, DiMaggio opening the second inning with a single to left. He was forced by Selkirk, after which Dickey walked, but an unusual double play stopped the threat. Dahlgren tapped to Lyons, who threw to Kennedy to force Selkirk at third, and Kennedy, instead of aiming the ball to second to get

Lansing Is Safe.

Now that the defense program is going thru, if the government will ship a few thousand bomber racks to Lansing, Ill., we'll have them installed. Don't let any one tell you our mosquitos aren't the best dive bombers on this or any other continent. They come in such mass formation and with such accuracy that we are considering a blackout for the rest of the season.

A Word from the Wise.

Here's a dialog overheard in a north side tavern and recorded as a tip to the uninitiated:

OUT-OF-TOWNER in his cups: "What to do! Gotta serve 10 day drunk driving rap in county jail; out on bond; start tomorrow. Wife's in Minneapolis; mustn't know. Can't answer her letters."

CHICAGO-MAN-ABOUT-TOWN: "That's no problem, my friend. Do like hundreds of others. Tell the little woman your new address is The Greystone hotel, 26th and California. The postman will deliver her letters and he won't ring twice."

—Ellis Haitch.

This Explains Everything.

No wonder the White Sox have no trouble whipping the Tigers. As soon as they step on the field they spot Bartell and he brings back memories of their north side cousins.

So This Is Paris.

Ah, yes, this is Paris, ma chere,
But not the brave Paris of old,
Not the proud, happy Paris we once knew,
Insouciant, carefree and bold,
Where beauty and art were transcendant,
And freedom and gaiety reigned,
But a city defeated and humbled,
Its heart and its spirit enchained.
The gray Arch of Triumph stands watching
A woe stricken, sorrowful street,
And the green Fields Elysian are mocked by
The echo of rude foreign feet.
The city of Paris is conquered
And an alien banner unfurled
From the Tower Eifel that once grandly
Surmounted the top of the world.
O ghosts of the glory and glamor,
And ghosts of the passion and tears
That hallowed and haunted these streets thru
Such splendid and terrible years,
And spirits of valiant rulers,
And spirits of militant men,
When the foe reached the gates of the city,
O, where were you tarrying then?

—Elmer.

DEFEAT GIANTS IN FIRST, 5 TO 4; THEN LOSE, 12-8

Ken Raffensberger Triumphs, Loses.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs engaged in all manner of heroics to come from behind three times, the third after they had fallen behind in the first half of the 10th inning, to win the first game from the Giants, 5 to 4, in Wrigley field yesterday. In the second game, they reversed the procedure, losing leads of 4 to 0 and 8 to 6 as they went about absorbing a 12 to 8 whipping.

Tho the Cubs have the funds to hire a full staff of pitchers, Rookie Ken Raffensberger, losing pitcher in Saturday's game with the Dodgers, was the winning pitcher in yesterday's first and the loser in the second.

A double by Dom Dallessandro with the bases filled gave the young left hander the verdict in the first game after he had relieved Jake Mooty at the start of the eighth. After Bill Nicholson's pinch homer, his 20th of the year and good for three runs, had given the Cubs an 8 to 6 lead in the sixth inning of the second game, Raffensberger came out to pitch in the seventh and was promptly routed by a four run Giant charge.

Lee Routed in Sixth.

Raffensberger was the third of five Cub pitchers in the second game. Bill Lee, who started, was knocked out in the sixth. Then came Charley Root, who left for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Vance Page, who relieved Raffensberger, was pounded for two runs in the eighth. Larry French, pitching the ninth, was nicked for the Giants' 17th and 18th hits.

The outcome, viewed by 18,892 obviously not afraid of rain threats, kept the Giants ahead of the Cubs in the season series, nine games to eight. The Cubs, had they protected their leads in the second game, would have been in a won and lost tie with the Giants for fourth place, a percentage point behind the New Yorkers.

FIRST GAME

The Giants started the afternoon's scoring after two were out in the fifth inning. After Witek and Schumacher had supplied easy outs, Rucker delivered the third hit off Mooty, a single to center. Moore then doubled along the third base line, scoring Rucker.

The score became 2 to 0 for the Giants after two were out in the sixth when Ott drove his first homer of the day into the right field stands.

Then came the Cubs' stupid sixth. Mooty opened with a single, the third hit off Schumacher, and Hack walked. Mooty was caught napping off second, Danning to Witek. Then Hack was seized with a desire to steal second. He was easily tossed out, Danning to Cuccinello. Herman walked, but instead of having the bases full with none out they had a runner on first with two out. Bonura doubled to right, scoring Herman, and Leiber doubled to left, scoring Bonura with the tying run. Gleeson then struck out.

Hack's Error Is Costly.

The Giants resumed the lead with an unearned run in the seventh. With one down, Schumacher reached second when Hack failed to stop his liner and scored on Rucker's single.

Schumacher loaded the bases with three walks in the seventh, but the Cubs couldn't get a run home. Dallessandro walked and advanced on Todd's sacrifice. Nicholson batted for Mattick and walked, but Russell, batting for Mooty, fouled to Danning. Hack walked, loading the bases, after which Herman fouled to Young.

The Cubs tied it up and got Schumacher out of there in the eighth. After Bonura and Leiber had been retired in the infield, Gleeson singled to left and stopped at second when Dallesandro caught Witek off balance for a single on a hit and run play. Schumacher pitched three wide ones to Todd, then came in with two strikes. On the next pitch, Al lined a single to left center, Gleeson scoring and Dallessandro taking third. Walter Brown replaced Schumacher and Warstler flied to Moore.

Rucker Causes More Trouble.

Raffensberger, who took over the Cub pitching assignment at the start of the eighth, was perfect until Rucker opened the tenth with his third hit, a safe bunt. He advanced on Moore's sacrifice and Demaree was given an intentional pass. Young singled to center, scoring Rucker, but Demaree was out, Leiber to Hack, trying to take third. Then Danning forced Young.

Bonura opened the home tenth with the first hit off Brown, a double to right center, and Rogell ran for Zeke. Leiber walked and Gleeson laid down a bunt so perfect that no one even tried to make a play on it. Jim's hit loaded the bases with none out. It was at this juncture that

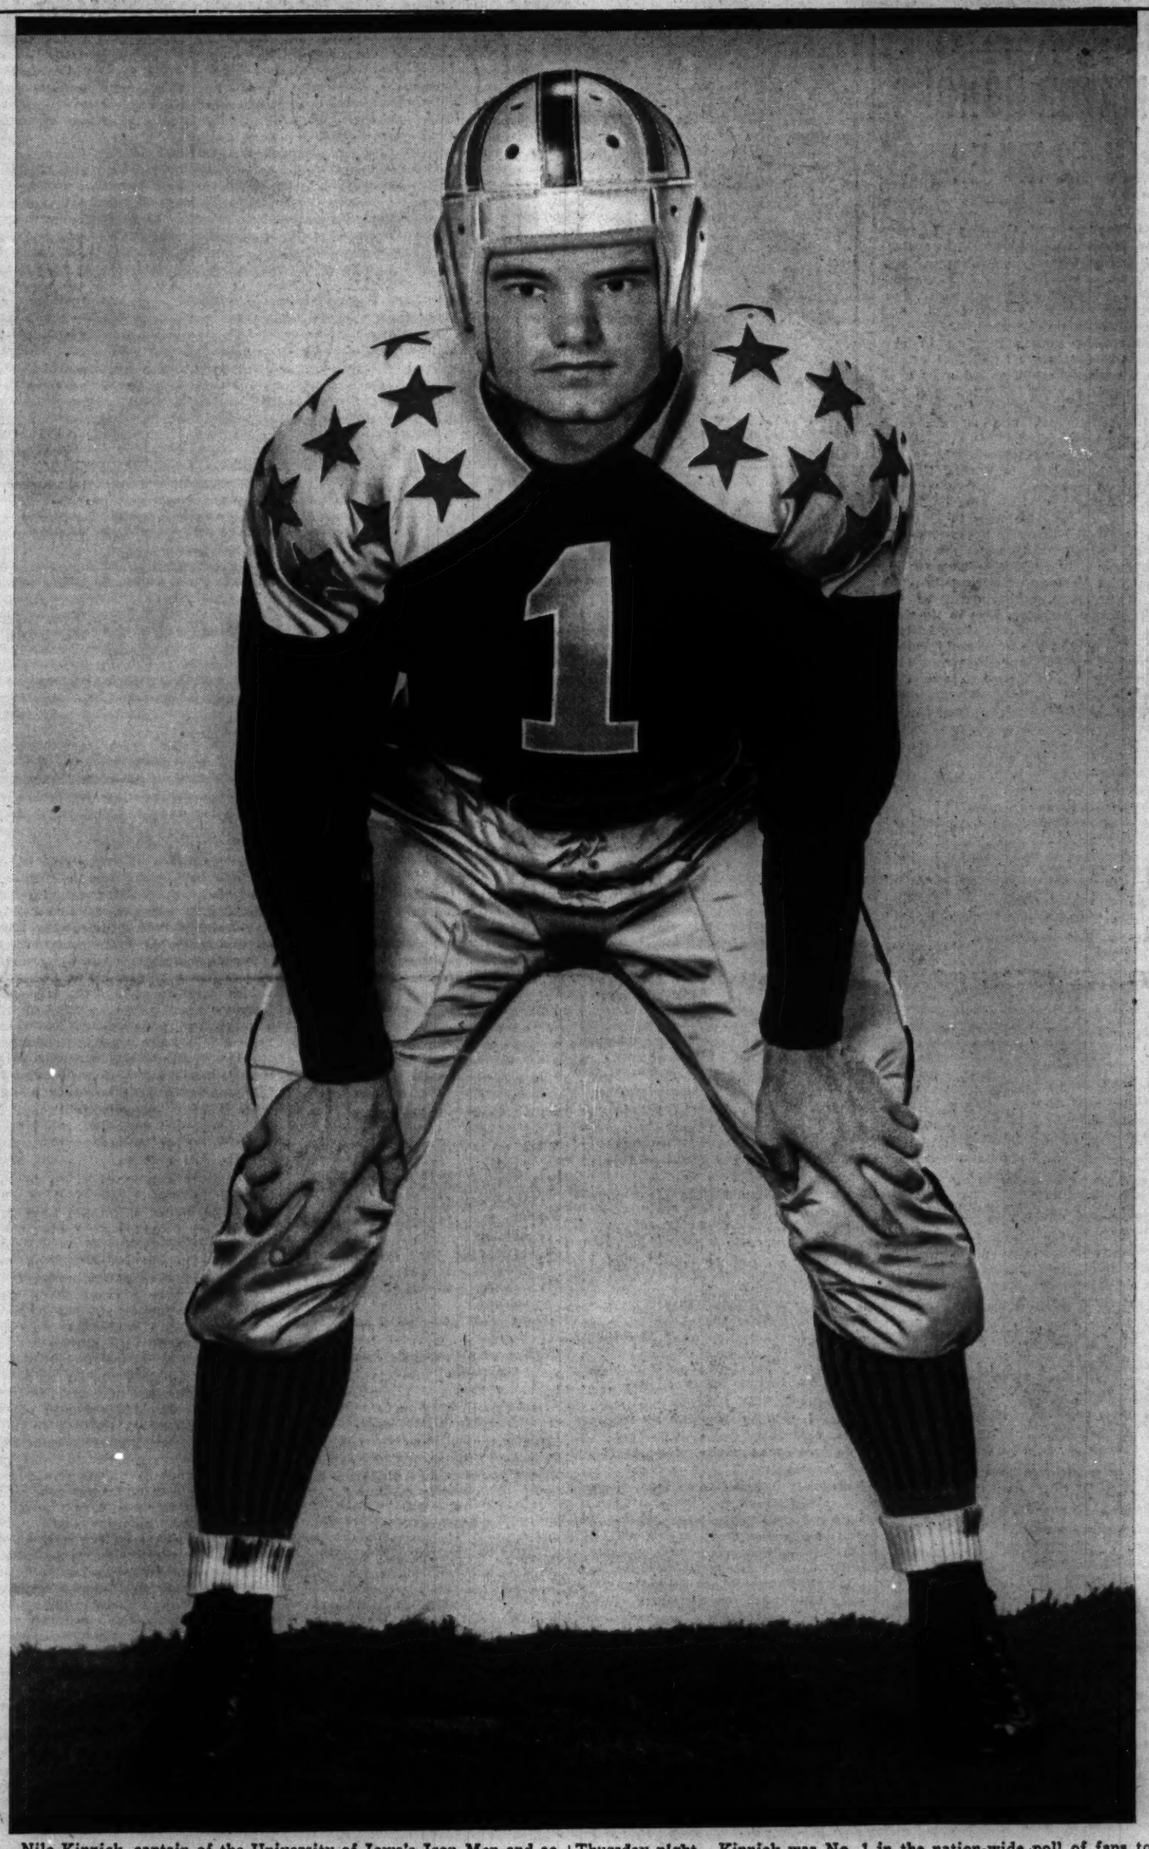
NO. 1 VOTE GETTER IS NO. 1 ALL-STAR



Nile Kinnick, captain of the University of Iowa's Iron Men and acclaimed as the player of the year in 1939, will have the honor of wearing No. 1 on his uniform when the College All-Americans oppose the Green Bay Packers, National Football league champions, in Soldiers' field on Thursday night. Kinnick was No. 1 in the nation-wide poll of fans to select the 1940 All-Star squad. He received 1,189,076 votes—the only one to pass the million mark.

MARBLE, KRAMER DOUBLES TEAMS WIN NET TITLES

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 25 (AP).—The national doubles tennis crowns, usually reserved for seasoned campaigners, were placed on the brows of Jack Kramer and Ted Schroeder, a pair of 19 year old Californians, today after they overwhelmed the more experienced Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Henry Prusoff of Seattle, Wash., 6-4, 8-6, 9-7.

Tradition, however, prevailed in the women's division, for Alice Marble, of Beverly Hills, Cal., and Sarah Palfrey of Reno, Nev., captured those national titles for the fourth successive year by racing thru Mrs. John Van Ryn of Austin, Tex., and Dorothy Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Marble also gained her fourth mixed doubles title since 1936 when she teamed with Bobby Riggs of Chicago, for a victory over Miss Bundy and Kramer, 9-7, 6-1.

The defending champions in the men's veterans' competition, G. C. Caner and C. C. Felton of Boston, surrendered their titles when Watson Washburn and H. G. N. Kelleher of New York, vanquished them, 6-3, 6-2.

TROJAN GUARD WINS HONOR BY WIDE MARGIN,

Play Outstanding in Drills for Pros.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Harry Smith, University of Southern California guard, will be the captain of the All-Stars in their battle Thursday night in Soldiers' field with the Green Bay Packers.

Smith was elected yesterday by his All-Star teammates after dinner in the Goodrich house dining hall at Northwestern university. The popular Trojan guard, who is 22 years old today, was almost a unanimous choice of the All-Stars. For two weeks he has been an outstanding player in his position and one of the best All-Americans in the seven year history of the series with the champions of the National league.

As Popular as Baugh.

There were votes for other players—only one ballot was taken and no nominations were made—but Smith's election to the All-Star captaincy may be ranked with the choice of Sammy Baugh of Texas Christian in 1937, on basis of popularity. That year Baugh threw the forward pass which defeated Green Bay, 6 to 0. However Baugh was not named to the starting lineup by the fans of the nation. This honor was accorded Smith last month.

The Trojan star, whose 215 pounds and rugged physique mark him as one of the mainstays in the All-Star defense, was modest in accepting the captaincy. He did not reply to the cries of "speech" from the All-Stars after Coach Eddie Anderson announced the squad's choice, but later he said briefly:

"This honor is the highest I've ever received and I hope I'll merit the respect of the All-Stars and coaches after we have met the Packers.

All-Stars Will Give Their Best.

"I am determined to do my best," he concluded, "and I feel that I can speak the same thought for all the other fellows."

Smith went to Southern California from Ontario, Cal. He played left guard and led the interference. He was a unanimous choice last fall of all commentators and selectors for an All-American position. Smith will join the Detroit Lions pro eleven next week.

In seven years the list of All-Star captains has been approximately evenly distributed between linemen and backs. In 1934, when the first All-American squad held the Chicago Bears to a scoreless tie, George Sauer, Nebraska full back, and Ed [Moose] Krause, Notre Dame tackle, shared the captaincy. The same situation prevailed last year when a tie vote on the first ballot resulted in Bowden Wyatt, Tennessee end, and Bill Osmanski, Holy Cross full back, being named leaders of the team which was beaten 9 to 0 by the New York Giants.

Second Named From Coast.

Smith is the second Pacific coast conference player to head the All-Stars. In 1938 Vic Markov, University of Washington tackle, who was graduated from a Chicago high school led the team that whipped the Washington Redskins, 28 to 16.

Rain yesterday morning disrupted the coaches' plan to hold a three hour drill in Dyche stadium, and a chalk talk was substituted. After dinner many of the players went to Wrigley field. Others decided upon the movies or spent the afternoon with friends.

The squad will conclude preparations for the Packers with double practices today and tomorrow and Anderson indicated yesterday that there would be no let-up regardless of weather. The second practice tomorrow will be held in secret in Soldiers' field. The squad will not leave Evanston until the afternoon of the game.

Defense Is Chief Topic.

Defense against Green Bay's plays now is the chief topic for study by the All-Stars in diagram and on the field. The primary responsibility for the All-Star backs in defense against passes has been given to the players, but unusual formations coupled with the excellent passing of Cecil Isbell and Arnie Herber of Green Bay, make opposing coaches gray headed in attempting to cope with them.

The scouts' report of the Packers-Giants game in Milwaukee last December has been of inestimable value to the All-Star coaches, but transmitting that information to the players is another problem. Then, too, allowance mnust be made for unrevealed Green Bay plays.

Most obvious handicap to hopes for an All-Star victory actually is the Packers' defeat in 1937. Green Bay will not make the mistake of being overconfident a second time—the Chicago Bears recovered from a scoreless tie in 1934 to win in 1935, 5 to 0—and the Packers also have more and better replacements than they had three years ago.

Dean May Be Lost to Squad.

Floyd [Buzz] Dean, Iowa half back, who was included in the list of first and second teams in Saturday's scrimmage, may be lost to the All-Star squad. This summer Dean, who is a lieutenant in the Reserve Officers' Training corps taught in the

P. G. A. TOURNEY OPENS TODAY ON HERSHEY COURSE

Officials Fear Sarazen May Not Play.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 25.—The twenty-third national tournament of the Professional Golfers' association, as nice a little free for all as you will find anywhere in competitive golf, opens tomorrow morning over the lengthy acreage of the Hershey Country club, with a field of 130 professionals from all corners of the republic battling for the prize that most of them consider the No. 1 title of the game.

They'll all be here, from 54 year old Jim Barnes, the tall Cornishman who won the first P. G. A. crown in 1916 and repeated in 1919, to a number of young pros who are making their debut in the main event of their union. The only absentees of the former champions are Jock Hutchison, Tommy Armour, and Gene Sarazen. The last named, a three time title holder, until late tonight had indicated that he would not appear, but P. G. A. officials still held out hope that the little man would be on the tee tomorrow morning. This afternoon he played an exhibition match with Ed Oliver in Rye, N. Y.

Rain Slows Up Practice.

Rain dampened the enthusiasm of a majority of the field as far as practice rounds were concerned, altho Barnes essayed nine holes with a couple of kids named Walter Hagen, who has won the show five times, and Leo Diegel, twice a champion. Gaffer Barnes, who is still respected by his juniors, as proved in recent Long Island and New Jersey Opens, is playing in his first P. G. A. in several years. He got around today in 37, one over par.

Another foursome involving ex-champions included Henry Picard of the home club, last year's winner; Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., 1935 victor, and two double champions—Paul Runyan of 1934 and 1938, and Denny Shute, winner in 1936 and 1937.

7,017 Yards; Par 73.

How well Col. Picard [a colonelcy given him by the governor of South Carolina, where Pic was stationed for years] can get around the lot is proved by his course record of 65, set during the 1937 Hershey Open. This is mighty handsome going when you consider that Hershey's total championship yardage of 7,017 makes it one of the few 7,000 yard layouts in North America. The par for the distance is 36—37—73.

The Illinois section again is represented by another strong force, 12 being on hand for the firing. Five of these were exempt as former champions, 1939 semi-finalists, or 1940 Ryder cup players. These are Revolta, Dick Metz of Oak Park, Horton Smith of Oak Park, and Ralph Guldahl and Ernie Harrison, both unattached.

Low 64 to Qualify.

The seven who earned their places in the Illinois section trial last month at Twin Orchard include Jim Foulis of Ruth Lake, Harry Cooper of Northmoor, Harry Adams of Medinah, George Smith of Onwentsia, Ky Laffoon, unattached, Eddie Williams of Bryn Mawr, and Johnny Gibson of Ridgemoor.

The tournament will open with 18 holes of stroke play tomorrow, followed by 18 more of the same on Tuesday. The low 64 scorers for these 36 holes will constitute the match play bracket, which gets under way with two 18 hole battles on Wednesday. From there on all matches thru Sunday's 36 hole final will be waged at 36 holes.

JOSEPH PLISKA, EX-NOTRE DAME STAR, DIES AT 49

Joseph S. Pliska, 49 years old, half back on the Notre Dame team which helped revolutionize football with its 35 to 13 victory over West Point in 1913, died of pneumonia yesterday in his home at 6534 Emerald avenue. He had been an invalid for the last 16 years due to injuries suffered in 1918 at Mineola, N. Y., when he was a first lieutenant in the army air corps.

Joseph Pliska.

Pliska was born in Chicago Oct. 17, 1890, and was a star of the Englewood High school teams of 1908 to 1910, inclusive. He played at Notre Dame in 1912, 1913, and 1914, and was graduated in 1915. Among his teammates were the late Knute Rockne; Mal Elward, Purdue coach; Gus Dorais, now head coach at Detroit university, and Ray Eichenlaub, now a Columbus, O., business man and a football official.

Pliska played thruout the 1913 game at West Point, and was regarded as a star in receiving passes and returning punts.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in the chapel at 6915 Wentworth avenue, followed by services in St. Bernard's church, 66th street and Stewart avenue. Interment will be in St. Adalbert's cemetery, Niles, Ill.

Pliska is survived by his father, Stanley; a son, Anthony Joseph; and two sisters, Marie Pliska and Mrs. Anna C. Mallek, all of Chicago.

Oak Park, Washington Park Win in Cricket Tourney

Oak Park and Washington Park advanced to the semifinals of the annual knockout tournament of the Illinois Cricket association yesterday by defeating Lake Shore and Chicago, respectively. Oak Park won its tournament match with Lake Shore, 66 to 34 and then won a second game, 53 to 52. Washington Park's margin over Chicago was 81 to 57.

TWO CRAFT WIN MAJOR HONORS IN 12 MILE RACE

Bangalore and Gossoon II. were major winners of the 14th annual Daily News regatta off Navy pier yesterday. Approximately 1,000 yachtsmen, canoeists, speedboat pilots, junior yachtsmen, yachtswomen, and Sea Scouts participated. A fleet of 108 sailing yachts ranging in size from 22 foot stars to 58 foot racing and cruising craft, sailed over a 12 mile course. Fifty sailing canoes, sailing kayaks, one design sloops up to 19 feet overall, and 50 Frostbite dinghies competed.

Cruiser Breaks Mast.

The Bangalore's corrected time, 2 hours 18 minutes 54 seconds, was the fastest of the cruising division. The 44 foot cutter also won in B class. Ed Lumbard owns Bangalore, which won the 1939 and 1940 Mackinac races in the cruising division. Gossoon II., Malcolm Vail and Sterling Morton's R class sloop, which captured the Lipton cup recently, won in its class yesterday. Its corrected time, 1:54:03, was the best in the Universal [racing] division. Both Bangalore and Gossoon fly the Chicago Yacht club burgee.

The 43 foot cruising cutter Batavia, owned by Commodore Christen J. Peterson, was the only entrant disabled during the regatta. It was dismasted less than 10 minutes after starting in A class.

Cruising Division.

COWIE BROTHERS TAKE TITLE IN STAR CLASS MEET

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 25 (AP).—James and Gordon Cowie, Los Angeles brothers, won the international Star class yacht championship today in their Rambunctious II. They finished second to the Twin Star, sailed by Lockwood M. Pirie and Richard Miller of Wilmette, Ill., in the final race of the five day series, piling up 83 points.

They succeed Walter von Hutschler of Germany as the world's finest Star class sailors. Von Hutschler won the title in 1938, and defended it successfully in 1939 at Kiel in his yacht Pimm. He did not compete this year.

The Cowies won the first and third races, placed second in the fourth and fifth, and sixth in the second race.

The Jade, sailed by Robert J. White and Gordon Holcombe of San Francisco, placed second in the series with 81 points, finishing third today behind the Twin Star, which took third in the series with 80 points.

Shut-In.

When we are laid aside we oft-times think
How little in the plan of things we count,
As days drag by, those lying there in pain
Oft think to very little they amount;
For, seemingly, the world goes rushing past,
The hands upon life's clock miss not a beat,
Are we so soon forgotten?" comes the thought
To row on row in many a quiet retreat.
Then suddenly a white robed nun appears,
And in her hands a gift of magic blend,
For one a letter and for one a card,
A home town paper some one's thought to send;
And all at once despair's no longer there—
Just to be remembered works this spell,
Does this suggest a simple duty bound
To all who know the miracle of being well?

Weather Jolts Packers' Plans for a Workout

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 25.—The Green Bay Packers, in need of much work for their game against the College All-Stars in Chicago Thursday night, ran afoul of the weather again today. A steady, driving rain prevented the world champions from practicing and left only two more days in which to prepare for their clash with the finest All-Star squad ever assembled. It was the second consecutive Sunday that a downpour has forced cancellation of practice.

Four days remain until the game, but the last two can be written off in the training program. If the Packers are not ready Tuesday night to meet the powerful combination Coach Eddie Anderson has fashioned from the 69 All-Americans, there will be nothing Coach Curley Lambeau, or the players themselves, can do about it on Wednesday and Thursday.

Leave Wednesday Morning.

Wednesday will be spent moving into Chicago and setting up headquarters in the Edgewater Beach hotel. The squad will leave here at 9 o'clock on a special train over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road. It will arrive in Chicago in midafternoon. Wednesday night, the players will take a short limbering up drill on Soldiers' field, site of the encounter. This workout has no importance beyond acquainting the players with the lighting system, stretching train legs and fitting new uniforms. Thursday, of course, is the day of the game and eleventh hour lectures and anxious waiting do not improve a players' physical condition.

Veterans among the 43 players know the squad's shortcomings as well as Lambeau and were ready to troop out in the rain this morning. Clark Hinkle, full back, and Arnie Herber, the signal calling half back with the howitzer arm, were especially anxious to work out. They have been having difficulty hitting their strides and have seen their stars dimmed by the performances of younger players. Half the squad, however, is receiving treatment for colds and Lambeau was unwilling to take further risk.

See All-Stars in Movies.

Bud Svendsen, little brother of George, was designated as the starting center today. His first line relief will be Tom Greenfield, rangy Arizona star who is playing his second year of professional football. Behind this pair comes Charlie Brock, Lambeau's first choice for the position, who was forced out 10 days ago with an injury. Brock worked out yesterday for the first time since suffering a shoulder injury.

The Packers today had their first look at some of their All-Star opponents. A local theater held a special show for the champions at noon to show a movie short composed of the outstanding plays in college football last fall. They saw Nile Kinnick throw two touchdown passes for Iowa, watched Kenny Washington snake his way 40 yards off tackle, and had a glimpse of Ken Kavanaugh catching a pass in a Louisiana State game.

The squad left the preview convinced that what they had heard about the All-Stars is true. They expect to meet a team superior to the one that whipped them 6 to 0 in 1937.

JAMES FERRIER GETS RECORD 65 AT NORDIC HILLS

Ferrier played in an exhibition foursome with Chick Evans who scored 35-35-70. Ferrier was paired with Bernie Borst and Evans with Nels Anderson, Nordic amateurs. Borst shot a 79 and Anderson had 74.

175 PIECE BAND IN READINESS FOR ALL-STAR THRILLS

To Use Own Lights During Maneuvers in Dark.

Spectators at the All-Star-Packers game in Soldiers' field Thursday night again will be entertained between halves by a 175 piece college band, representing 40 universities and colleges.

Glenn Cliffe Bainum.

Glenn Cliffe Bainum, director of the Northwestern university band, who has organized the All-Star band at the six previous games, has assembled the largest group of bandsmen in the history of the series. Mr. Bainum and his staff have been engaged for the last two weeks devising a new set of colorful and brilliant formations.

Twenty drum majors from as many institutions will lead the big band thru the intricate marching formations. Among the formations, outlined in colored lights on the darkened gridiron, will be huge stars, a map of the United States and a mammoth American flag which, according to Bainum, will be the largest and most brilliant display ever attempted in a night band maneuver.

Arrange Vocal Finale.

The flag formation will be accompanied by a vocal finale featuring Olive Arthur, soprano, and John Neher, basso, soloists who have won acclaim in the Grant park concerts this summer.

When the band sweeps onto the field the stadium will be plunged into darkness. The musicians will be identified by electric blubs on their caps. Current is supplied by specially constructed portable cases carried by each musician. Four thousand individual bulbs will be required to illuminate the players and their instruments.

One of the reatures of this year's performance will be a flag twirling routine by six girls from St. Joseph, Mich., who scored a triumph at the Holland Tulip festival last spring. The girls are drilled by Franklin Wiltse, band director at St. Joseph High school. They are Ruth Mitchell, Nedra Cobb, Margie Hoeane, Virginia Yeske, Betty Gose, and Maryetta Carlson.

How It's Done.

Weeks of preparation are required to organize the band and place it in readiness to take the field. The 175 players were selected from 400 applicants who were given individual tryouts. Most of the bandsmen reside in Chicago and vicinity and are at home on vacations.

The maneuvers which the musicians will unfold on the gridiron are first charted on paper by Bainum and a corps of six assistants. Each maneuver is then mimeographed and a copy given to each member of the band. These charts contain every move the musician makes on the field, and as a result only three rehearsals are required.

Electricians Help Out.

Credit for the success of the band is due to the staff of TRIBUNE electricians under the supervision of Henry Mau and Dick Fees. To them falls the task of preparing the flashlights and batteries with which each bandsman is equipped, in addition to illuminating the numerous instruments.

Among the drum majors who will appear with the band are:

Fred Eibel, Northwestern university; William Jens, Indiana university; Ward Jenson, Chicago Naval band; Jerry Baum, Illinois Wesleyan university; Wilbur Davis, Wayne university; Harvey Williams, University of Chicago; Enid Payne, De Kalb; June and Jane Hendricks, American Legion band of the Chicago Park district; Jack Davidson and Ruth Wright of Maywood; James Brodfuehrer, Evanston; Tony Pactwa, Burnham, Ill., and Ernest Sandstedt, Annetta and Margie Murphy, Lester Mehlman and Caryl Pedersen, all of Chicago.

Park Ridge Again Wins Men's Softball Title

Park Ridge Merchants last night retained the Metropolitan championship by defeating Gilbert Tool Works of Roseland, 2 to 1, in the 10 inning battle which concluded the Amateur Softball association tournament on Shrewbridge field. The victory also qualified the Park Ridge club for the world championship meet, starting in Detroit Sept. 5. The Rivals previously won in the girls' class. Clarence Heuel, pitching hitless ball the first six innings, won his fourth tournament victory by driving in Fred Kress with the winning run.

Siegel Seeks 14th in Row in Bout Tonight

Don Siegel of Detroit and Henry Wacker of Chicago, heavyweights, and Floyd Hagen of Minneapolis and Eddie Dempsey of East Moline, lightweights, will appear in four bouts of eight rounds in Marigold gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

Siegel, tackle on the 1939 College All-Star football team, who has a record of 13 consecutive victories since turning professional last year, is paired with Selman Martin. Wacker, who defeated Jack Marshall on July 24, faces Elza Thompson. Hagen, who has won five of six matches this year, meets Johnny Pleasant. Dempsey, 1938 Chicagoland Golden Gloves featherweight champion, opposes Eddie Scott.

Altho Martin is not expected to snap Siegel's chain of triumphs, he may be the first opponent of the ex-Michigan student to last the limit.

Juan Humberto and John Swenski, heavyweight wrestlers, will meet in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, tonight. Supporting matches: Al Williams vs. Jack [Bad Boy] Brown; George Mack vs. Farmer Mack; Angelo Leone vs. Walter Palmer; Stanley Novak vs. Tarzan Kraus.

Jim McMillen and Pete Schu will be opponents in the windup bout of the heavyweight mat card this evening in Parichy stadium, Harrison street and Harlem avenue. Other engagements:

George Dusette vs. Bert Rubi; Fred Grubmier vs. Jack Kogut; Sonny Rasmussen vs. George MacKenzie.

BUCK NEWSOM WINS 16TH; TIGERS WHIP A'S, 7 TO 3

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 25 (AP).—Buck Newsom kept nine hits scattered today and won his 16th victory of the season for Detroit when the Tigers rode over the Athletics, 7 to 3, before 19,794. Pete Fox greeted Bill Beckman in the eighth inning with his fourth home run of the season. In the sixth, Joe Gantenbein hit one for Philadelphia. The victory put the Tigers 2½ games behind the Cleveland Indians, who lost to Washington today.

BROWNS, 7-3; RED SOX, 2-17.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 25 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox were a second division ball club for a couple of hours today when they dropped the first game of a double header to St. Louis, 7 to 2, but they came back to slaughter the Browns, 17 to 3, in an abbreviated second game.

Chicago took fourth place from the Red Sox by winning the first game from the Yankees, but the clubs reverted to their previous positions in the standing as New York won the second contest.

George McQuinn practically beat the Red Sox alone in the opener, hammering a homer, double, and single to drive in four runs.

In the second game—only seven innings because of the Sunday law—the Red Sox scored 11 runs in the sixth with Jimmy Foxx's 34th homer—his third grand slam of the year—accounting for four of the runs. Score:

REDS WIN TWO FROM PHILLIES, EACH BY 1 RUN

Take First in Ninth, 3-2, and Second, 6-5.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 25 (AP).—The pace setting Cincinnati Reds gained a full game in their National league pennant race today, putting them seven and one-half games in front, as they swept a double header from Philadelphia, 3 to 2 and 6 to 5, while the second place Brooklyn Dodgers divided two games with Pittsburgh.

Jim Turner, who had yielded only five hits, paced a ninth inning attack which scored the winning run for the Reds in the first game. In the second game Cincinnati got the best of a battle of bats, despite two home runs by Johnny Rizzo for the Phillies.

Rigney to Face Chandler and Yanks Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 25.—John Rigney, who has had only three days of rest, one of which involved saving a decision for Jack Knott yesterday in Washington, will pitch the Sox 1940 New York finale tomorrow. The Yanks will counter with Spurgeon [Spud] Chandler.

The rebellious members of the Cleveland Indians are reported to be working on a new idea. They want to cut their manager, Oscar Vitt, out of the world series money. But they still have to win the pennant. The mutineers name for their boss is Jitterbug.

After going thru three innings of the first game, Joe DiMaggio was taken out of circulation. He pulled a right leg muscle yesterday when he made a triple off Bob Feller in the ninth to beat the Indians.

Today's 70,740 crowd was the season's largest at Yankee stadium except for the Memorial day double header with Boston when 82,437 attended. In the last six days the Yankee gate has totaled 195,967.

THE GUMPS—UNWANTED MONEY

DICK TRACY—One-Man Brain Trust

Lyons Blanks Yankees, 1-0; Lee Loses, 3-1

the slowly moving Dickey, rifled it to first to kill off Dahlgren.

Nothing developed as the result of the first Sox hit, a single by Lyons with one gone in the third, but for a few minutes in the home half it appeared as if there might be developments. Lyons gave Crosetti a pass with none out and Appling increased the pressure by fumbling Ruffing's possible double play ball. Lyons refused to become ruffled. Gordon furnished the customary sacrifice, after which Rolfe flied to Solters in short left and Henrich flied to Kreevich.

Crosetti Gets Fluke Double.

The Yanks' second hit was a fluke fly ball, a double by Crosetti with one out in the fifth. Appling brought the Sox total up to two safeties when he led off in the seventh with a double to left. The next three men flied out. Dahlgren's single in the seventh gave the Yanks their third hit, and in the eighth the Sox picked up their third. Along with it they had a scoring chance. Kreevich singled to left with two out and continued to second on Selkirk's fumble. Kuhel was passed, and Solters slammed a terrific fly to left center, but it was smothered by Selkirk. Then the happy ninth.

SECOND GAME

Lee had two men disposed of in the fourth when the Yanks suddenly turned loose the barrage that netted the first two runs of the battle. Rolfe singled with one out and Henrich fanned, but the firing started with a single by Rosar, Rolfe taking third. He hiked home and Rosar went to third on Selkirk's single to right. Powell also singled to right and Rosar registered. Dahlgren's pop foul to Turner concluded this bit of distress.

Hayes' single, which opened the game, was the only hit off Bonham until Appling doubled to left after Solters had been thrown

WOODWORKER, 37, PICKS 6 WINNERS AND GETS $5,000

Breaks Washington Park Tie in Last Race.

Carl Yonke.

Carl Yonke, 37 years old, a woodworker residing at 2114 Lincoln avenue, won the $5,000 award in the patrons' handicapping contest at Washington Park Saturday. He picked five of the first seven winners and called the eighth race 1, 2, 4, 3.

Yonke, who is the fourth winner of a $5,000 prize in the contest during the Homewood meeting, is to receive his check at the track today from Walter L. Gregory, president of the Washington Park Jockey club.

Despite a program marked by a number of upsets, 15 others, including five women, had five winners in the first seven races.

Because of the tie, the participants' selections for the eighth race were brought into play. Eight named the winner of the eighth—Navarin, paying $5.20—but Yonke was the only one to place Bess B. second, giving him the $5,000 victory.

Yonke, a bachelor, scored with the following winners in the first seven races: Hilfair, second race, $5.20 [ran dead heat with Slavic, $6.40]; Signator, third race, $11.80; Equistar, fourth race, $7.60; Joe Schenck, fifth race, $4.60 [Woolford farm entry], and Rude Awakening, seventh race, $28.60. His choice in the first race, Cloudy Weather, ran third to the $83.60 longshot winner, Woof, and in the sixth he was on the favored but unplaced Putnam entry of Swain and Coffeeman.

Yonke entered three sets of selections in the contest, the maxium allowed one participant. In all, 48,198 were placed into the competition. Today thru Friday a $1,000 award will be at stake with the naming of the first seven winners daily required and the prize adding on to the next day's if the feat is not accomplished.

KAYAK II. MAKES CHICAGO DEBUT IN TRIAL TODAY

Candidates for $25,000 Handicap to Run.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Charles S. Howard's Kayak II. will race on a Chicago track for the first time today when he goes to the post at Washington Park with six other candidates for the $25,000 Labor day handicap.

Together with his stablemate, Advocator, Kayak II. will be the favorite at about even money. His rivals in this tuneup of a mile and an eighth will be the Valdina Farm's Viscounty, Joe Grosman's Valdina Star, Tom Taggart's Yale o'Nine, Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put, and James Cox Brady's War Plumage.

Richard to Ride Kayak II.

Kayak II. will be making his first start since the Hollywood Gold Cup race in which he finished far out of it. On that occasion, however, Trainer Tom Smith was dissatisfied with the ride the horse received. With Jockey Jack Richard handling him today, Smith expects much better results.

The powerful Howard stable is depending on its pair of handicap horses to add the Labor day stake to the other triumphs the organization has scored. Kayak II. won the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap and five other stakes in 1939 and ran second to his stablemate, Seabiscuit, in this season's renewal of the rich event.

Keep Colors in Spotlight.

Porter's Cap, Mioland, and Advocator have been doing their part in keeping the Howard colors prominent on Chicago tracks this season. Porter's Cap's triumph in Saturday's Washington Park Futurity followed Mioland's victory in the American Derby and Advocator's success in the Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington Park. Reinforced by Kayak II., the California organization expects to make a strong finish in Chicago's summer racing season. In the $25,000 handicap, however, Kayak II. will have Challedon to reckon with again, so his job is all cut out for him.

Shot Put, which has come into prominence in the course of Washington Park's distance program, will try his luck again today, but he'll have to hustle if he expects to keep close enough to the pace to win at a mile and an eighth in this kind of company.

Four Mile Race Wednesday.

The distance series will reach its climax on Wednesday with the running of $3,500 Marathon championship handicap at four miles. This is the fifth of the series. Misrule won the first, Shot Put the second and third, and Winning Mark took the fourth. They were graduated in distance from a mile and a half to three miles and three furlongs.

The Washington Park Jockey club will donate the revenue from tomorrow's races to the Community Chest fund, in accordance with the wishes of the Illinois racing commission that one of the 31 days of the meeting should be a charity day. The management has announced that there will be no solicitations of any kind.

WINS SPEEDBOAT CHAMPIONSHIP AT 70 MILES AN HOUR

Red Bank, N. J., Aug. 25 (AP).—Jack Cooper, Kansas City speedboat driver, sent his 225 cubic inch hydroplane Tops III. across the North Shrewbury river at a 70 mile an hour clip today to win the national sweepstakes race as the bigger, faster craft failed to finish.

Herbert Mendelson's Notre Dame, which won yesterday's opening heat in record time, couldn't finish the second heat today. George Cannon's Grey Goose of New Rochelle, N. Y., also dropped out after leading the way on the first lap.

Miss Fireball, driven by Jack Wood of Detroit, was the only other boat to race in the final heat and thus earned second place in the final standing.

Cooper also won the 225 cubic inch championship race by taking today's two heats in record time after finishing third in the first heat yesterday.

SUFFERS BROKEN LEG IN AMATEUR BASEBALL GAME

Bob Sparks, left fielder of the Ace Staplers team of the Illinois State Amateur Baseball league, was on first base in the ninth inning and his club was leading the Tom Collis Jrs., 10 to 4, yesterday in Winnemac park.

Sparks had just made his fifth hit, a single, and Pitcher Ernie Graff picked him off base. The runner dashed for second, slid, and his right leg was broken above the ankle. The game, for the championship of the Chicago division, was called off and the injured player was taken to Illinois Masonic hospital after being given first aid at Ravenswood hospital.

At a meeting tonight league officials are expected to arrange for the playoff Sunday in Mills stadium as a benefit for Sparks. In an earlier game the Staplers defeated the Challenger Clothes, 7 to 2, and the Collis won over Lakeside Laundry by a forfeit.

PRICES OF STEEL ARE EXPECTED TO REMAIN STEADY

Cleveland, O., Aug. 25 (AP).—The general belief is that no important change will be made in steel prices for the fourth quarter, the magazine Steel reported today.

"Announcement for the final period may be made within a short time," the trade publication said in its weekly review. "Consumers show no concern and are not seeking protection on future deliveries, one factor in the quiet situation in which buying is largely for specific needs instead of inventory. However, some effort is being made in a small way to accumulate moderate stocks against possible delay in deliveries in the next few months."

Production last week rose ½ point, to 90.5 per cent of plant capacity.

NORTHWESTERN MUTUAL.

I am thinking about buying some life insurance from Northwestern Mutual Life. I would like to know the value of this company's assets, how much insurance it has outstanding, and how long the company has been in existence.—L. D.

Answer: Admitted assets of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company on June 30 totaled $1,324,287,942, an all-time record. Insurance in force totaled $3,927,207,647. New insurance written in the first half of 1940 amounted to $98,676,121.

The company was formed in 1857. Today it is the sixth largest life insurance company in the nation. As a mutual company it is owned entirely by its policyholders.

Comparison of admitted assets, insurance written, and insurance in force in recent years follows:

PRICES OF GRAIN NEAR SEASON'S LOWEST LEVELS

Corn Is an Exception, Due to Light Offerings.

Prices of leading grains on the Chicago Board of Trade are holding around the lowest level of the season. An exception is cash corn, which is reported affected by a scarcity of offerings by farmers.

Lack of a foreign outlet for American surplus grain because of the elimination of the continental European demand and slight possibility of sales to many countries for a long time are responsible for the low prices, brokers assert.

Supplies of principal grains available for the 1940-'41 season, the department of agriculture reports, are above normal, and in wheat and rye there is a large exportable surplus. These factors, it is said, tend to offset the effect of government loans on crops. Cash wheat has sold at Minneapolis at 22½ cents a bushel below the loan price.

Report Investment Buying.

A little investment buying of the May delivery was reported last week, based on the belief that so much wheat will be pledged for government loans that the amount of "free" grain will not be sufficiently large to cover normal domestic requirements.

More than 50 per cent of the total supply of cash corn in the United States, which on July 1 was estimated at 975,000,000 bushels, was either pledged for loans or owned outright by the government. Despite this large amount of grain held off the market, supplies in the states east of the Mississippi and Minnesota are well above the 1928-'32 average, the department of agriculture reports.

Edison's Old Machines to Aid in Defense Work

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 25 [Special].—Machines that once turned out models for the late Thomas A. Edison will soon be used in training youths for national defense industries, officials of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., revealed today. Consisting of heavy lathes, planes, shapers, and drill presses, the machinery has lain idle since the inventor's death in 1931.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by HOMER CROISZ

Rains Transform Farm.

August 25, 1940.

THE Du Page county farm hardly looks like the same place since the rains brought new, green growth in the fields, pastures, meadows, lawns, and gardens. There is plenty of grazing now for all the live stock in pastures that were burned brown two weeks ago. Late gardens are doing fine, and the lawns are almost as green as they were before the dry spell.

Even the corn shows promise of making a fair crop unless it is damaged by early frost. That is the biggest worry now. Growth of the corn was checked for so long during the hot, dry weather in July and the first half of August that workers are afraid some of it may not mature in time to escape frost damage.

Corn Grows Taller.

Altho most o. the corn was stunted until the crop was considered virtually a failure, it has made remarkable recovery in the last two weeks. The plants have grown much taller, and all have a healthy, green color again except for the bottom leaves that fired before the rains started. New shoots have started forming on many stalks that had looked before the rains as if they would produce no ears at all.

The shoots that have come out since the rains may not produce well filled ears. Back in 1936, when the corn was badly stunted by drouth, many shoots that grew a fresh crop of silks when rains came produced ears only partly filled with kernels; some had nothing but barren cobs inside the husks.

This condition is not unusual in dry years. The reason for it apparently is that so many tassels turn white and dry up that there are not enough pollen grains left to fertilize the silks that appear later.

How Pollen Sheds.

The pollen grains form in the tassels and usually ripen and are shed two or three days before the silks on the same plants appear. This seems to be nature's way of making sure the plants are cross fertilized, since each plant is dependent upon other plants for most of the pollen to fertilize its silks.

When the silking stage is delayed and the tassels are damaged by hot, dry weather, there may be a lack of pollen to fertilize the silks that develop late. There is a silk for every kernel, and the kernel can develop only when the silk is fertilized by a grain of pollen.

Official crop reports indicate that faulty pollination, barren stalks, and small ears are common in corn fields in all the drier areas in Illinois. Some corn is not expected to produce any grain and will be cut for forage. There is fear that much of the corn may not mature ahead of average frost dates. Heavy corn yields are predicted in the more favored rainfall areas of the state.

C. I. O. ASSAILS TAX PLAN FOR EXCESS PROFITS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—The C. I. O. contended today that proposed tax legislation to limit profits on arms production would provide little revenue and would not be an effective "brake on excessive profits."

In its monthly survey of the economic outlook, the labor organization estimated that "only $300,000,000," and possibly less, would be obtained under the excess profits bill pending in the house ways and means committee.

This, the survey said, involved an effective tax rate of about 3.5 per cent, whereas in 1918 "excess and war profits taxes had an effective rate of about 30 per cent."

SENATOR URGES REAPPOINTMENT OF NLRB CHIEF

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25 (AP).—Senator Thomas [D., Utah], chairman of the senate labor committee, expressed the hope today that President Roosevelt would reappoint J. Warren Madden as chairman of the labor relations board. Madden's five year term expires Tuesday.

"I think Mr. Madden has done a very good job," Thomas told reporters, "and all things considered, I believe he has earned reappointment."

The labor board has been criticized frequently by groups in congress, labor, and business, and there has been speculation that the chairman's post might be given to some one else.

Banking Firm Organizes Federal Bond Division

New York, Aug. 25 [Special].—The investment banking firm of Blair & Co. today announced the establishment of a government bond department under the direction of C. Marshall Wood, vice president. The firm, which has not specialized in this field in the last ten years, announced its return to government bonds was prompted by the growing diversification of governmental issues and the increasing holdings of institutional investors.

Rails' Grand Circle Tours to Continue Another Year

"Grand circle" tours on which passengers may travel by rail to both coasts for as little as $90 will be continued another year until Oct. 31, 1941, J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, announced yesterday. He said the railroads decided to continue the plan because of the success of its first year's operation, when 32,500 persons utilized the reduced fare service.
